Greeks Dubious Of International Brigade Report

General Staff Sees No Hint of Free State As Planes Punish Retreating Guerillas

• (Picture on Page 10.)

Athens, Greece, July 18 (AP).—Communist-led guerillas have been cut up into small bands, scattered over a wide area and are suffering severe losses at the hands of the national air forces while racing to escape pursuing ground forces following the abortive thrust at Ioannina in Epirus, a Greek communique said today.

In the first news conference since the beginning of the fighting in northern Greece, a spokesman for the Greek general staff said today there were no elements of an international brigade in the attack by guerillas and no evidence of attempted creation of a Communist free state, as reportedly planned by the "invaders."

The spokesman, Brig. Stylianos Manidakis, said he was "absolutely certain" the "invasion" was from Albania.

Part of the guerilla force, originally estimated at 2000 when it began its drive from the Albanian border region last Sunday, was said to be trying to escape to the northeast. Other bands fled to the south.

Units dislodged from 7000-foot-high Mount Gamila, 19 miles north of Ioannina, were described as scattered over an arc of 16 miles in the foothills of Mount Timfi.

300 Are Captured

Farther north, press dispatches said, Greek Spitfires caught a band of 800 fleeing through a ravine in the southern foothills of Mount Smolikas and killed at least 245 while 300 more were captured by ground troops.

Remnants fled South toward Metsovo, a stronghold of the Elas, military branch of the EAM (National Liberation Front) during the German occupation, and northeast toward the heights of Mount Smolikas.

Military sources said the Army was in position to cut off both lines of retreat.

Expect New Invasion

The communique said fleeing "bandits, passing through villages, committed crimes of unimaginable brutality. Villages were pillaged and many inhabitants killed."

George Stratos, War Minister, told a cabinet meeting last night that the general staff expected a second and more serious invasion by guerillas. The government said the thrust at Ioannina came from across the Albanian border.

(A dispatch by Tass, official Soviet news agency, declared 15,000 persons had been arrested in a roundup of Communists in Greece, and said a huge concentration camp was being erected on the island of Nikaria, near the coast of Turkey.)

International Brigade Story Unsupported

Lake Success, July 18 (AP).—A United Nations team reported today it had found "little first-hand evidence" to support Greek charges that detachments of an "international brigade" had invaded Greece from Albanian territory.

The report was received at U. N. headquarters as the Security Council wound up general debate on the Balkans issue and cleared the way for a showdown, possibly late next week, on a United States proposal to establish an international watch on Greece's northern borders.

Dr. Oscar Lance of Poland, council president, announced a schedule of five meetings for next week, beginning with two Tuesday. He said the case would be kept before the delegates until final action is taken.

Shortly after Alexandre Parodi of France had complained in the council that the delegates had not received reports from their subsidiary commission left in the Balkans area, the U. N. said the group had received a report from a team sent to the zone of fighting in Greece.

The team, this report said, telegraphed from Ioannina July 16 that it had made a preliminary investigation of Greek charges that an "international brigade" was involved in the invasion and had

She Leads Car To Curb, Can't Make It Park

Miss Edith Tannehill, 61-year-old attorney at Internal Revenue, didn't get her driver's license yesterday and here's why:

You not only have to be able to drive them, but park 'em as well.

Miss Tannehill, who lives at 7952 Orchid st. nw., was being "checked out" on a dual-control driving school car by District Permit Examiner Thomas P. Lewis. She'd had 50 hours of instructions, but hadn't mastered parking a car, as will soon be obvious.

As she started to demonstrate parking at C st. and John Marshall pl. nw.—right behind the police station—the car rolled over the curb, knocked over a no parking sign, damaged the sidewalk and rammed another car in a parking lot.

Miss Tannehill was still undecided whether to take another 50 hours' instruction.

British Seize Jewish Ship After Battle

4550 Immigrants Are Taken Ashore As Prisoners; Two Die in Harbor Fight

Haifa, Palestine, July 18.—Five British destroyers brought 4550 Jewish immigrants into Haifa aboard their battered old excursion steamer today after a violent hours-long sea battle in which the Jews said two boarding parties were defeated. A British officer said two Jews were killed.

A British officer said two Jews were killed in the battle and that Walter Bernstein, 24, of Los Angeles, Calif., a former United States merchant seaman who served as first mate of the immigrant ship, died late of injuries received when one boarding party invaded the deckhouses. The other two victims were passengers.

Seventeen Jews, all with club and gunshot wounds, were seriously injured and taken to a Haifa hospital.

A British announcement said three members of the 50-man boarding party were injured in the battle—in which smoke bombs, steam jets, fuel oil and even fireworks were used, and tear gas and small arms employed by both sides.

At the height of the fight heavy life rafts were cut loose by the refugee ship and sent plunging onto destroyer decks. Her "evasive" maneuvering caused repeated collisions with the destroyers, some of which were damaged.

Briefly in Promised Land

As soon as the ship, a former Chesapeake Bay excursion vessel, docked, British troops began the trans-shipment of the 4550 visaless immigrants to troop transports for deportation to Cyprus.

Dirty and disheveled, the refugees left their ship—the former President Warfield, renamed European Exodus of 1947—and walked across 30 feet of their "promised land" to the British deportation vessels. The Jews came into the harbor singing.

Some of the refugees and the British marines of the boarding party wore bloodstained bandages. The march of the Jews across the dock was witnessed by Emil Sandstroem, chairman of the United Nations Special Commission on Palestine, and Vladimir Simitch, the Yugoslav delegate on the commission.

The Jewish Agency for Palestine, and Hagana, the Jewish underground defense organization, both had appealed to the commission to witness the trans-shipment.

25 Seriously Wounded

The British officer who reported the two deaths was a member of the boarding party. Three bodies were found aboard, he said, explaining that one was a woman who died in childbirth during the journey. He said the other two were killed when the marines resorted to gunfire to counter tear gas and

House Votes 1.3 Billions Foreign Aid

Full Amount Okayed For Greece, Turkey; Study Group Formed

The House last night passed and sped to the Senate the full 400 million dollars asked for Greek-Turkish aid and nearly a billion additional for foreign relief.

Record time passage of the $1,353,024,900 foreign aid bill, until recently a center of controversy, accompanied these other international moves:

1. The House Rules Committee cleared the so-called Herter resolution, creating a 19-man special House committee to keep pace with the Marshall Plan and study economic developments all over the world.

2. Also cleared to the House floor was a second resolution authorizing the House Foreign Affairs Committee to keep up with world developments by travel abroad.

Committee Changed Stand

Swift passage of the foreign aid bill followed an Appropriations Committee turnabout on the measure earlier this week. Set to slash Greek-Turkish funds, Republican members changed their minds after listening to leaders and State Department higher ups.

Foreign Affairs Chairman Charles A. Eaton (R., N. J.) meantime warned that this country is "within sight of a shooting war" in Greece. He said our armed forces must be prepared to "move into Greece if the government fails to stop the Communist guerillas."

Before passing the aid bill, the House shouted down an amendment by Representative Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.), denying help to any country refusing to "cooperate" in Secretary Marshall's European recovery plan.

Poland and Hungary Out

The unchanged bill nonetheless omitted 18 million dollars for famine relief in Poland and Hungary from a 332-million-dollar appropriation for war-devastated countries.

House Appropriations Chairman John Taber (R., N. Y.) contended, however, that both Soviet "satellites" have only to sign an agreement admitting American observ-

Secretary Patterson Will Leave Cabinet

PATTERSON ROYALL

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson resigned from the Cabinet late yesterday, ending seven years in the War Department. He had been Secretary since September, 1945. His resignation is effective July 24.

President Truman immediately nominated Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall to succeed him.

In his letter of resignation, Patterson explained he had decided to leave only when it became apparent unification of the services would be enacted. The unification bill, passed by the Senate, is expected to be considered by the House today.

Patterson's resignation had been hotly rumored earlier this week and only last Wednesday he denied, in reply to a direct question by reporters, that he had submitted it to the President.

Clears Way for Forrestal

Patterson himself has been regarded as destined for the first vacancy on the Supreme Court. His stepping down now has been interpreted as clearing the way for nomination of Secretary of the Navy Forrestal for secretary of national security under unification.

President Truman, in his letter accepting the resignation, told Patterson, whom he addressed as "Dear Bob":

"Never before have I accepted a resignation from the Government service with more poignant regret.

"I yielded to your desire," the President continued, "only because I can no longer, in good conscience, ask you to stay on. It is hard for me to find proper words with which to describe the character of your service to our country. It has been magnificent. It has been utterly selfless."

'Personal Loss' to Truman

As chairman of the Senate War Investigating Committee, the President said, he had seen "a great deal' of Patterson's work as Undersecretary of War in charge of procurement.

"How well you acquitted yourself in that vital task," he wrote, "it attested by the results.

"When Secretary Stimson resigned I was comfortable in the knowledge that the administration of the War Department would be carried on with the same zeal and efficiency that he had demonstrated. Again, the results proved the truth of this conviction."

Mr. Truman spoke of the "friendship that has grown up between us" and added:

"The official loss of your services is also to me a deep personal loss."

Patterson entered the War Department in 1940, when President Roosevelt appointed him Assistant

Refugee Bill Put on Shelf By House Unit

Subcommittee Move Means Legislation Is Off for This Year

By The Associated Press

Legislation to admit 400,000 European refugees to the United States was shelved by a House Judiciary Subcommittee yesterday at least until next year.

The action came after Attorney General Clark told the subcommittee it should not delay in approving the admission of 400,000 persons over a four-year period.

Representative Fellows (R., Me.) told a reporter he was not satisfied with the bill because "it has no yardstick."

"How would you determine which 400,000 to take?" he asked. "Those with money and friends don't need help—they're coming in anyway."

Earlier yesterday a renewed plea for United States leadership in repatriating and resettling the displaced persons of Europe went before Congress with legislation proposing $71,024,900 as this country's share of the costs.

The sum, $2,336,500 less than asked by the State Department, would be this country's contribution to the International Refugee Organization. The organization is composed of 20 countries.

Details of the department's original request are contained in a transcript of House Appropriations Committee hearings made public as the committee introduced a measure providing supplemental funds for government expenses this fiscal year.

Assistant Secretary of State John H. Hilldring told the committee:

"I think we are obligated on two counts; morally, and also by our direct interest.

"I think it is unconscionable if we should force these people to go behind the iron curtain. I think we have got a real interest, we Americans, in avoiding the discord and friction that will result in Germany and Austria if we try to force these displaced persons onto an unwilling German population."

Pilots' Reports Tell of Crashed Plane's Faults

New York, July 18 (AP).—Eighteen reports of "excessive," "bad" and "more than usual" vibration by the reconverted Eastern Air Lines plane which crashed May 30 near Bainbridge, Md., with a loss of 53 lives, was contained in pilots' reports from March 24 to April 22, it was disclosed today at a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing.

Testifying before a board of inquiry, S. Van Meensel, an air carrier maintenance inspector for the Civil Aeronautics Administration, read into the record a report on log book entries made by pilots who had commanded the plane.

James M. Landis, CAB chairman, examined the report after it was read and said:

"As I look this thing over, I gather nothing was done."

Van Meensel said that corrective action had been taken and Landis replied that "this exhibit by itself would lead to the impression that the pilots' reports were ignored."

Representatives for Eastern Air Lines told reporters that the company would submit evidence tomorrow to show that the airline had made repairs as a result of the pilots' reports.

Senate Cuts Million Off D. C. Budget

20 Amendments Adopted Quickly; Parley Scheduled With House Monday

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

The Senate took just five minutes late yesterday to approve and return to the House a record 95-million-dollar District budget bill for this fiscal year.

In those five minutes the Senate adopted more than 20 amendments, trimming nearly one million dollars from the House-approved bill. Seven Senators were appointed to confer with the House on the changes.

The big District money bill totaled $94,947,504 as it cleared the Senate. The House voted $95,930,310 to run the city through next June.

Conference Monday

The seven conferees are District Appropriations Chairman Henry C. Dworshak (R., Idaho), and Senators Joseph H. Ball (R., Minn.), Milton R. Young (R., N. Dak.), Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.), Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), Pat McCarran (D., Nev.), and Theodore Francis Green (D., R. I.).

Members said the conference is slated to start Monday.

Both House and Senate took shortcuts through their usual rules to speed appropriation bills by passing them the same day they were received from the appropriations committees.

In the House, members worked overtime until 7:45 p. m. to approve and send to the Senate a final supplemental appropriation bill. It carried these District funds:

1. For a new Federal Courts building to house the District and Appeals Courts here, a $370,000 planning fund, $30,000 less than officials had asked. The court would be built in the block bounded by Constitution ave., John Marshall pl., 3d and C sts. nw.

Conference Tangle Likely

2. A $181,000 fund to boost the salaries of Howard University teachers so they will be in line with the recently boosted District school pay scales.

3. Two $25,000 items, one for planning more office space for House members, the other for planning a new Senate office building.

On the District money bill, Senate and House conferees are likely to tangle over what should be the powers of the District Budget Officer and of the District Auditor.

The House backed the demand of District Appropriations Chairman Walt Horan (R., Wash.) for language to have Auditor A. R. Pilkerton audit before payment all the funds carried in the bill.

Auditing Section Erased

Senator Dworshak announced the special auditing section had been erased from the bill. At the same time a report prepared by Dworshak's group and approved

Warden, Guards Cleared in Deaths Of Ga. Convicts

Brunswick, Ga., July 18 (AP).—A grand jury today exonerated Warden H. G. Worthy and five guards in the slaying of eight Negro convicts in a mass escape attempt at a highway prison camp here a week ago.

The jury presentment said evidence "showed the warden and guards were justified in their action under the circumstances."

The warden and guards opened fire with shotguns when 27 Negroes, who had balked at road work, attempted to flee the prison camp. Five were wounded.

Worthy said the break attempt and the volleys from the officers' guns followed an attempt of one of the convicts, Willie E. Bell, to charge and disarm him. The warden shot Bell in the leg.

At a coroner's inquest, Bell testified that Worthy was "half drunk" and "wanted to kill me."

The grand jury said the investigation found no evidence to support the charge that Worth had been drinking.

The jury said the prisoners assigned to the camp in southeast Georgia "were the most unruly and undisciplined in the State."

Senate Sustains Veto of Tax Bill; Vote Is 57 to 36

'Ghost Votes' Aided Truman, Senators Told

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

Charges that President Truman began his national career on 73,000 "ghost votes" were given a Senate subcommittee yesterday.

Monday may see the charges brought up again, along with Republican claims that Roy W. Harper—Mr. Truman's friend and choice for a Federal judgeship—hooked last year's Missouri election to an "immoral lottery."

Harper is Democratic State chairman and Republicans blamed him for the lottery. This was a get-out-the-vote plan the Democrats used in several counties, including Harper's home county. Voters were given overalls, nylons, washing machines and automobiles.

Gene Powell, Missouri Republican public relations chief, wrote the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee headed by Senator Donnell (R., Mo.) that the Democratic high command was worried about its backing in the Missouri "boot-heel"—the southeast of the State—last year.

So, Powell said, the Democrats got up the lottery scheme to get out the vote. Anybody who voted—Democrat or Republican—was in line to have his ballot number drawn for a prize as soon as he cast his vote. But Republicans said this was only a show of fair-

100 Millions Added for Soil Conservation

House Conferees Go Along With Senate On 265 Million Fund

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The House economy bloc yesterday lost out in an effort to hold down Agriculture Department funds for soil conservation to the 165 million dollars it originally voted.

However, in all other matters of disagreement between House and Senate conferees on the Agriculture appropriation bill, the House voted, although by slim majorities, to stand pat on its program.

Even on the matter of soil conservation it declined to go all the way with the Senate. The Senate had voted 295 million for the item, including 37 million dollars carryover from last year.

Instead the House agreed to the 37-million-dollar carryover and added $62,385,710 for soil conservation, totaling 265 million for the fund, an increase of about 100 million over its original figure.

It also refused a Senate provision for $11,140,000 Government funds to pay for Federal meat inspection, and insisted on its original stand that meatpackers pay all inspection charges.

Senate Revision Rejected

In voting an increase for soil conservation the House rejected a Senate provision authorizing 150 million dollars for conservation payments for the crop year of 1949. In so doing it limited payments under the program to $500 to any claimant farmer, a provision the Senate had proposed for the 1949 crop program.

The House also defeated by 206 to 196 an effort to increase from 225 million dollars to 250 million dollars the loan authority of the Rural Electrification Administration. The Senate conferees had already agreed to the cut to the lower figure.

The House also stood pat on its refusal to go up to 75 million dollars for the Federal school lunch program from the 45 million the House originally voted. However, this action was taken only after Representative Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) assured them that the conference committee was "pretty

House Overrides But to No Avail; Truman Terms Cut 'Unsafe and Unfair'

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The Senate yesterday sustained the President's veto of the Knutson tax reduction bill amid dark Democratic warnings of "explosions" in Europe.

The vote was 57 to 36—five votes shy of the two-thirds majority required to override.

Thus Congress stopped short the GOP's four billion dollar tax cut bill for the second time within a month and definitely killed it for the session.

House Votes to Override

Five hours earlier the House voted 299 to 108 to override, repassing the bill by 27 votes more than needed. It was the House, not the Senate, which had sustained the President's first veto on June 17.

The President rejected the bill yesterday in a terse veto message, underlining recent refusal of Soviet satellite nations to join in Paris Marshall Plan talks.

He said that "increases the difficulty of our task and exposes us to greater risk."

He denounced the bill also as "unsound and unsafe," adding: "I also regard it as unfair."

Barkley Stresses Peril

In the Senate, Administration Leader Alben W. Barkley (D., Ky.) also stressed the "tense" situation in Europe, saying "explosions are likely to take place at any time."

Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) leading two Democratic and one Republican switch to the veto, gave that as his chief reason for supporting the President.

Tydings asked what the Government would do in a European emergency if it wiped out its surplus in tax cuts.

"We can't scuttle and run," said Tydings. "We ought to keep our guns behind the door . . . If we retreat we will be surrounded by a hostile world."

Umstead, Aiken Switch

Senator William B. Umstead D., N. C.) and Senator George D. Aiken (R., Vt.), who supported the tax bill in prior rounds, also switched to support of the veto. Neither explained their shift on the floor.

The final Senate tally showed 10 Democrats lined up with 47 Republicans to overide the veto. Three Republicans, Morse (Oreg.), Langer (N. Dak.) and Aiken voted with 33 Democrats to sustain.

The House divided this way: To overide—63 Democrats and 236 Republicans. To sustain—105 Democrats, two Republicans (Hull of Wisconsin and Anderson of Minnesota) and one American-Laborite (Marcantonio of New York).

Knutson Gives Warning

House debate consisted chiefly of a reiterated warning by Ways and Means Chairman Harold Knutson (R., Minn.) to carry the issue into the campaign.

Said Knutson: "We will let the great tribunal, the American people, decide whether they want tax reduction."

In separate statements, Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr. (Mass.) called it a "political veto" and House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck (Ind.) said the President "wants to say in 1948: 'Now you can have tax relief'."

GOP National Chairman Carroll Reece said the President favored "relief for everyone but the American taxpayer."

In the Senate, Finance Chairman Eugene D. Millikin (R., Colo.) also opened the debate with a bitter

Another Hurt Critically

Mother, Two Children Killed In Auto Crash Near Warrenton

A mother and two children were killed and another member of the family critically injured yesterday when their car collided with an oil truck on Rout 211 about 3½ miles east of Warrenton, Va.

Merle Judson Whiting, 17, of Ferndale, Mich., driver of the car, and Nancy Lee Whiting, 15, died almost instantly. Their mother, Mrs. Marjorie Willis Whiting, 40, died in the Warrenton Hospital four hours later.

Marjorie Ann Whiting, 14, was admitted to the hospital with severe head wounds. Doctors said her condition was "very critical."

The driver of the truck, Toxie H. Lee, of Gainesville, Va., was charged with manslaughter and held under $1000 bond. Lee said the accident occurred when he swerved to avoid a car parked on a curve, according to State Trooper L. E. Wetsel. Lee said the car had District tags and pulled away after the accident.

Lee aided passersby in pulling the four victims from their car which burst into flame. The fire was put out before it reached the truck loaded with gasoline. Wetsel said the truck is owned by D. E. Quarles, Warrenton oil dealer.

Aim Solely Administrative

House Investigation Will Seek Uniform Police Policies Here

By Robert Bruskin
Post Reporter

An investigation of Washington police, independent of one proposed by the Senate, is to be started by the House Appropriations Committee, Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.) said yesterday.

The Senate resolution for the probe is expected to be voted upon Monday. The Rule Committee already has given its approval.

Horan is chairman of the District Appropriations Subcommittee of the House. He said his investigation would begin as soon as Congress adjourns.

"This investigation will be based entirely on the administrative side," said Horan. "If we run into anything like The Washington Post found we will make recommendations to correct the situation. It is not my position to criticize the police authorities. We will be interested only in the intermeshing of authority among the various police forces here and in obtaining uniformity of police policies."

The Senate probe covers law enforcement and administration of police forces here. It resulted from The Washington Post's disclosure that numerous crime complaints were being "pocketed" by

President Chooses Air Policy Board

Asks 5 to Learn How to Get Most From U. S. Aviation

By The Associated Press

President Truman selected a five-man air policy board yesterday and gave it the job of finding what course of action will bring "the greatest possible benefits from aviation."

The aviation industry has dwindled since the war and Mr. Truman wrote the five appointees that "there exists a grave danger that our national security may be jeopardized and our economic welfare diminished through a lowered aircraft production and a failure of the aircraft industry to keep abreast of modern methods."

The five members, who are to cover the whole aviation field, are independent of military, manufacturers or transport aviation interests.

Mr. Truman said there is an "urgent need at this time for an evaluation of the course which the United States should follow in order to obtain, for itself and the world, the greatest possible benefits from aviation."

Headed by Finletter

The members of the board assigned to the job of making recommendations before the end of the year are:

Thomas K. Finletter, New York attorney, who will be chairman.

Henry Ford 2d, president of Ford Motor Co.

Palmer Hoyt, publisher of the Denver Post.

Mr. Truman told the board specifically to study:

1. Current and future needs of American aviation, including commercial flying and utilization of transport planes by the military.

2. The nature, type and extent of aircraft and air transportation industries desirable or essential to national security and welfare.

3. Methods of encouraging needed aviation developments.

4. Improved organization and procedures for Government handling of aviation matter.

Opens Entire Field

The President thus appears to have opened the entire field of flying for the board. He offered it the full cooperation of all Government agencies and told them their final recommendations:

"Must go beyond the limits of any one phase of aviation. They should be so broad in scope and purpose that they will assist in revising old policies and in framing new ones and will serve as a guide for formulating a carefully considered national air policy."

The manufacturing industry, faced with a tremendous telescoping effect from the postwar cutbacks, has urged the appointment of such a board for at least two years.

The appointment was announced while Congress was considering the adjustment of bills passed by the Senate and House for formation of aviation policy groups with a similar goal. Both bills—one by Senator Brewster (R., Me.) and the other by Representative Hinshaw (R., Calif.)—provided for membership largely selected from the Government.

Mr. Truman's action followed a recommendation by the Air Coordinating Committee, top Government aviation policy group.

On Korean Border

50,000 Japs Still Hidden, Paper Says

Tokyo, July 18 (AP).—The newspaper Mainichi today quoted a Japanese repatriate as saying a holdout force of 50,000 Japanese troops—most of them from the Kwangtung army—and civilians was living in the rugged Changpaishan Mountains along the Korea-Manchuria border.

The newspaper said Fukijiro Kuki, an official of the Manchurian Japanese Residents Association, newly repatriated, told this story:

Forty thousand Japanese troops fled to the mountains shortly before Japan surrendered. They carried sufficient food for two years, along with ammunition, 5000 horses and radio equipment.

They "rescued and incorporated into an organization" an estimated 30,000 civilian refugees as they streamed southward from other Manchurian areas.

Chinese troops, after capturing Tunghwa in October, 1946, from Chinese Communists, discovered the Japanese force. The Nationalist troops demanded by radio that it surrender, but the Japanese did not reply. The Nationalists withdrew from Tunghwa last April and have had no further contact with the Japanese holdouts.

The Japanese were living in groups of 1000 to 2000, in a series of villages. The mountain area was fortified with tunnels and other installations.

'Slave' Case Due to Go to Jurors Today

San Diego, Calif., July 18 (AP).—While Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wesley Ingalls entertained prominent guests in the former home of Oliver Wendell Holmes at 60 Beacon st., Boston, their Federal prosecutor said today, Negro maid Dora Jones served them under a "vicious mesmerism" that eventually reduced her to slavery.

The closing arguments in the four-week trial of the couple, who moved to California last year, also brought from United States Deputy Attorney Eugene A. Tolin a declaration that:

"Mrs. Ingalls was the controlling character. Mr. Ingalls was a lesser one in authority but still was no shrinking violet."

Defense Attorney Clifford Fitzgerald maintained that Ingalls, 64, former Massachusetts lawyer and legislator, and Mrs. Ingalls, 62, treated Dora Jones, 58, "as one of the family" and that the slavery charge was "preposterous."

The case is expected to go to the jury tomorrow morning. Penalty for such an offense is five years' imprisonment, a $5000 fine or both.

Throughout the prosecution arguments by Tolin and Assistant U. S. Attorney Betty Marshal Graydon, the point was stressed repeatedly that Mrs. Ingalls was considered the more dominating.

personal attack on the President. Democrats for the first time this session rallied with a warm personal defense of Mr. Truman.

"Insult," Says Millikin

Millikin attacked the only thrice-used power to veto a revenue bill, but said he didn't challenge Mr. Truman's constitutional right to do so. He added: "The President has a right to make a fool of himself."

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) replied: "The people will determine who is making a fool of himself."

Millikin called the veto an "insult" to Congress and said the Senate should "repel" it as it overrode the late President Roosevelt's attempt to stop a tax bill. Millikin said other Presidents "had a decent respect for the right of Congress to control revenues."

Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.) asked if Millikin inferred "indecency" on the part of the President.

"When I said 'decent' I picked out the mildest of 37,000 words in the dictionary," retorted Millikin.

Barkley Hits Phony Cuts

Returned Pepper: "Thank God we have a President who will stand up against the kind of wrong that is being perpetrated by the majority of this Congress."

Millikin charged "demoagoguery" when O'Mahoney and Senator Glen H. Taylor (D., Idaho) charged the bill provided "a windfall for the big fellows" at the expense of low income tax payers.

Defending the President's record, Senate Minority Leader Barkley turned the fire on Republicans for failing to agree on a nimimum spending ceiling. He said Mr. Truman personally cut Budget estimates five billion dollars before sending them to Congress. He said Republicans had produced mostly "phony" cuts "and will be fortunate if they don't have a deficit."

Barkley directed his main argument to the situation in Europe. He charged Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov "sabotaged" the Paris Conference on the Marshall plan and said the situation is explosive.

Sees Bond Difficulty

He warned Americans will be reluctant to buy bonds in another emergency if Government credit is destroyed, saying:

"I ask you to consider—without regard to politics or who runs for President next year—if that situation blows up in Europe and we are called on again to ask our people to invest in our Government, how many would respond again in purchase of bonds."

Senate Republican Steersman Robert A. Taft (Ohio) argued that a four-billion-dollar surplus would be available even with the tax cut, and asked Barkley if the Marshall plan would require that much.

Barkley said he doubted it would require half that, but none of the needs have been determined. He said he would rather wait until taxes can be safely and permanently reduced than to cut them now and have to reenact them in a year.

Obligations Still High

The President wrote Congress that the new Knutson bill, shifting the date of puroposed 10½ to 30 per cent tax cuts to January 1 next year, still provides "the wrong kind of tax reduction at the wrong time."

He repeated it is unsound fiscal policy to cut taxes while business employment and national income continue high. He said the Government must reduce the 258 billion public debt during prosperous times if it is ever to reduce it.

He warned that the cost of maintaining the armed forces and "tremendous obligations growing out of the war" are still high.

World 'Risk' Cited

"Our responsibilities for international rehabilitation on our efforts to secure lasting peace," he said. "The recent refusal of certain nations to join in common endeavors to establish conditions of world stability increases the difficulty of our task and exposes us to greater risk.

"Until we are better able to estimate the cost of our investment in world peace and collective security, it is unwise to make so large a cut in our Government's future income that our ability to meet our needs would be impaired."

He said the bill not only represents "unsound fiscal policy" but would contribute to inflationary pressures as well.

Price Effect Feared

He said there is still no convincing evidence that a recession impends, but added:

"Tax reduction now would delay the readjustments of prices and wages necessary to maintain this high prosperity. It would lead to an even higher level of prices for consumer goods. It would increase the danger of a recession."

Mr. Truman reminded Congress that during the war taxes were extended to millions of low-income families who had never before paid them. He said taxes on moderate incomes were increased by far greater proportion than those on higher incomes.

When the time comes to lower taxes, he said, "it is only fair that we should follow a pattern which is the reverse of that under which the burden was imposed. That is to say, this wartime tax burden should be reduced on a basis that is fair to low-income groups as well as to high-income groups."

Figures Compared

As an example of what he said was the "grossly disproportionate extent" the bill favors high income as against low income taxpayers, he said a married couple earning $2500 would have only 21 per cent of their wartime tax burden removed. The same family if earning $100,000 would have 64 per cent of the burden removed, he said. Eighty-five per cent of the load would be lifted if the couple earned one million dollars, he noted.

He said the "premature and faulty" Knutson proposals are "at complete variance with the fundamental requirements of a good tax bill" and would inject inequities into our tax system that would be difficult to revise.

Two Men Burned As Torch Ignites Refrigeration Gas

Two men were seriously burned at 3 p. m. yesterday when the acetylene torch they were using touched off a blast of leaking refrigeration gas.

The victims, both in Emergency Hospital in critical condition, are:

Franklin V. Naylor, 24, of the Grover Cleveland Apartments, Alexandria, Va., who suffered first- and second-degree burns.

Robert T. Andrews, 21, of 107 Rhode Island ave nw., second and third degree of the face, head, hands and arms.

The two men, employes of the Washington Refrigeration Co., were installing a cooling unit in the offices of Architect Arthur Anderson, in suite 402 at 1726 M st. nw. They told firemen they smelled leaking gas and closed the door of the room in which they were working. When the gas built up, it was ignited by the torch. The room was only slightly damaged.

British Dislike U. S. Customers' Ice Water Habit

London, July 18.—Britain's restaurant owners made it clear today that they consider the American habit of drinking ice water with meals uncivilized. Insofar as serving it is concerned, they intend to "civilize Americans when they come here."

The question of ice water with meals was raised with the restaurant owners by H. A. Marquand, who as paymaster general in the Labor government, is concerned with reviving Britain's tourist trade. He told them the Americans have a whim for ice water, and hotel keepers might go just a little bit out of their way to meet this fancy. Marquand was followed by Beverley Baxter, a Conservative member of Commons and a columnist, who said water "chills the palate, ruins the digestion and makes all food and meat taste like leather. Let us civilize the Americans when they come."

So it looks as if Americans will have to get along on warm beer with their meals, when they come touring.

Patterson Resigns; Royall Is Named Secretary of War

Secretary. Five months later he was made Undersecretary.

President Roosevelt brought him into his official family from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, to which he had promoted him in 1939 from the United States Court for the Southern District of New York. Patterson had been appointed to the United States Court by President Hoover in 1930.

In his letter of resignation, which the White House made public yesterday with the President's reply, Patterson said he could not see his way clear to resign "until the issue of the military establishment was resolved."

"I have done everything in my power," he wrote, "to prmote the unity of the armed forces. Now that it appears that the reorganization law is about to be enacted in final form, the time has come to lay down the duties I have borne for seven years as Assistant Secretary, Undersecretary and Secretary of War."

Praised by Forrestal

Secretary Forrestal last night declared Patterson "has been a great public servant."

"Everyone in Government," Forrestal said, "whether in the executive or legislative branches, will share the President's expression of profound regret at the resignation of Robert P. Patterson as Secretary of War."

Born at Glens Falls, N. Y., 56 years ago, Patterson is a lawyer by profession. He served in World War I and was wounded in France.

Coming to the War Department from the Federal bench, Patterson has been known throughout his service here as "the judge," a title he preferred to the more formal "Mr. Secretary." As Undersecretary it was his task to supervise procurement of supplies and equipment for the Army which first had to be built rapidly to fighting strength and then supplied on battlefields thousands of miles from home.

Royall is 2-War Veteran

Royall, who is 53 and a veteran of both World Wars, is a native of Goldsboro, N. C. He was appointed Undersecretary in November, 1945, to replace Patterson when Patterson succeeded Henry L. Stimson. At the time Royall was a brigadier general.

Also a lawyer, Royall entered

World War I in 1918 and served in France as a Field Artillery officer. He maintained his connection with the Reserves and in 1942 was called to active duty as a colonel in the fiscal section.

He is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and Harvard Law School. Returning to the practice of law between the two wars, he was a member of the North Carolina State Senate in 1927.

Royall's nomination to the secretaryship is subject to confirmation by the Senate, where he was once subject to some criticism over his handling of Army surplus property negotiations. It was not felt that this criticism would affect his confirmation.

Royall recently has been reported scheduled for appointment as Secretary of the Army, a position which would not carry Cabinet status, under the proposed Secretary of National Security.

California Leftist Democrats Meeting to 'Draft' Wallace

By Edward T. Folliard

Post Reporter

Fresno, Calif., July 18.—Left-wing Democrats of California are gathering here today to "draft" Henry A. Wallace as a candidate for the Presidency, and it looks as if Wallace has given them the green light.

To the delight of Republicans, who have not carried California in a presidential year since 1928, the "Wallace Democrats" are converging on Fresno at the call of Robert W. Kenny, former state attorney general.

Kenny wants to pit Wallace against President Truman for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1948. He insists he is not trying to launch a third party at tomorrow's meeting.

Party Split 3 Ways

In an oblique way, Wallace has thrown his hat in the ring. Harold Young, Wallace's political warwick, has sent Kenny the following telegram:

"We here are happy t learn that the untrammeled Democrats of California are meeting in Fresno Saturday. If the Democrats of the rest of the State follow the lead of the Democrats of California there will be no need of a third party.

"Those who believe as Franklin Roosevelt did in a progressive country and a peaceful world will make it certain that reaction is dealt a crushing defeat in 1948."

The Democrats of California are split three ways, a fact that is of great comfort to the GOP. There is the left wing faction headed by Kenny. Then there is one headed by Will Rogers, jr., and Thomas P. Scully, who have organized reelect Truman committees. Finally, there is the regular organization headed by Democratic State Chairman James Roosevelt, who hasn't declared either for Mr. Truman or Wallace.

Move to Ballroom

Kenny, who will make the keynote speech at tomorrow's Wallace-for-President meeting, was asked today about reports that Communists are flocking to the Wallace banner. He replied:

"If the Communists should come out against smallpox, should everyone else come out in favor of the disease?"

Kenny predicted some time ago that tomorrow's Wallace-For-President meeting would attract 500 persons from all over California. It is a little too early to say so for certain, but it looks this evening as if he were indulging in hyperbole. At any rate, a change in arrangements has been made. The meeting was to have been held in the Fresno Memorial Auditorium, but it has now been shifted to a hotel ballroom.

Rail Engineers Ignore Truman, Set Coast Strike

San Francisco, July 18 (U.P.)—Southern Pacific engineers will strike Monday at 5 p. m. despite President Truman's creation of an emergency board to investigate the dispute, a high union official said today.

The statement was made by P. O. Peterson, general chairman of the Southern Pacific unit of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

"There is not change in our position,' he said, "only the acceptance by the company of our 19 demands for working condition changes will call off the walkout."

Under usual railroad mediation procedure, the appointment by the President of a fact-finding board delays any strike call for 60 days.

Peterson said, however, that the issues in the controversy had already been studied by such a panel appointed by the late President Roosevelt in 1945, and recommendations made.

Envoy Approved

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday approved the nomination of H. Freeman Matthews, veteran foreign service officer, to be Minister to Sweden. Matthews, a native of Baltimore, is now chief of the State Department's Office of European Affairs.

Williams Pleads Innocent to Murder Charges

Dan Williams, jr., 38, yesterday pleaded innocent to charges of first degree murder and deadly assault in the Judiciary Square shooting spreed of May 16.

Williams, a disgruntled lawyer, allegedly became enraged when he was denied a refund from the Committee on Admissions and Grievances of District Court on his petition to be admitted to practice here. He had been disbarred in Mississippi.

Killed in the melee were Police Pvt. Hubert W. Estes and Ray E. Devendorf, clerk of the committee. Wounded were Cecil A. Claig, courthouse guard, and George W. Dalzell, secretary of the committee.

House Unit Voted 18-4 Gor Tax Study Group

By The Associated Press

Representative Eberharter (D., Pa.) said last night the House Ways and Means Committee voted 18 to 4 at a closed session Thursday to give official status to an advisory committee which he said will help write next year's tax bill.

The special study group is headed by Roswell Magill of New York, former Undersecretary of the Treasury.

Appointment of the body was announced several weeks ago by Representative Knutson (R., Minn.), Ways and Means chairman, and Representative Doughton (D., N. C.), the committee's top-ranking Democrat. Eberharter was a bitter critic of the move.

ers and a free press and radio to receive American relief. He said all Russian dominated-states will be denied assistance "unless they turn over a new leaf."

Representative Frank B. Keefe (R., Wis.) led the fight on Dirksen's proposal to bar aid to any country rejecting the Marshall plan. Keefe objected the amendment would commit Congress to the Marshall plan before it has been developed and without knowledge of its details.

In sending the omnibus aid bill to the House floor, the Appropriations Committee cautioned the world against counting upon "limitless" relief from the United States.

All told, the measure contained $1,353,024,900 for the program, technically representing a 12.6 per cent committee reduction—far less than had been threatened—in the $1,548,361,400 outlay sought by the Administration.

But a big chunk of this slash came in the committee's decision to put the Army's government and relief program in the occupied areas of Germany, Japan and Korea on a 12-month rather than a 15-month basis.

The measure bundled up:

1. The full 400 million dollars previously authorized to bolster Greece and Turkey against Communism with supplies, arms and limited military missions.

2. All but 19 million dollars of the 350 million dollars for foreign relief which was earmarked under rigid conditions for Greece, Italy, Trieste, Hungary, Austria, Poland and China. The committee said the 18-million-dollar cut represented the sum intended to go to certain countries which have not shown a disposition to comply with the requirements of the act authorizing the appropriation.

3. Five hundred and fifty million dollars to pay the costs for 12 months of the Army's occupation program. The Administration had sought 725 million dollars for a 15-month program.

4. Seventy-one million twenty-four thousand dollars as the United States share in the International Refugee Organization's costs during the next 12 months in caring for approximately 850,000 European refugees. The committee pruned out $2,336,000 of the original request on the ground it represented obligations "not mandatory . . . under the international agreement."

Threats Fall Through

These constituted the major share of the appropriations bill, which carried a total of $1,603,199,049, including late-session allocations for a number of dometsic programs.

Approval, nearly in full, of the actual funds for the foreign program came after several high-ranking Republican leaders first predicted publicly and later privately disavowed plans to make drastic reductions.

Part of this reversal was attributed to the increasing strife in the mountains of Greece and to the widening chasm between eastern and western Europe since Russia and its neigboring nations refused to participate in the Paris Conference on the Marshall Plan for European recovery.

In highly secret conferences with ranking Republicans in Congress, members reported, Secretary of State Marshall late last week hammered home the premise that denial of funds of foreign programs already authorized would wreck all hope of halting Communist expansion.

Along with the measure itself, Congress received an official $4,091,200,000 estimate of this country's foreign program for the next 12 months. This includes direct aid in the pending bill, loans and disposition of surplus military equipment.

Last Plea for 1947

It does not, however, include any funds for carrying out the Marshall Plan if and when the western European nations get together on a coordinated program on what they can do for themselves and what they will need from this country.

The lawmakers received assurance that they would not be called upon again this year for more money for relief. It came from Dean Acheson, testifying before his resignation as Undersecretary of State.

He put it this way:

"If you ask are we coming back this year for more money, the answer to that is: 'No. We are not.'"

The bulky 680,000-word transcript of testimony taken on the appropriations piled up abundant evidence that the moratorium on foreign spending requests will not last beyond the end of the year.

From Acheson came this declaration:

"I do not believe this is going to put the world on its feet. We do not claim it will. We foresee a very difficult situation in 1948. How to deal with them, or whether to deal with that, is the great problem which has been put up."

Chairman John Taber (R., N. Y.) of the House Appropriations Committee has approved the investigation, it was learned. Horan said "two or three" of the committee's investigators would be assigned to start when Congress adjourns. No funds or authorization from the House is needed, he added.

Horan's subcommittee report on District appropriations, issued July 8, declared:

"The committee was happy to learn of the approach which the new Chief of Police, Major Barrett, intends to take in his efforts to improve the efficiency of the department; that is, to place more men on beats in order that they may become better acquainted with the citizens and children whom they serve. It was felt by the committee that this approach was long overdue.

"There did not appear to be in the past sufficient cooperation and understanding between the citizens and the Police Department."

Big 4 in Dispute Over Prison Treatment of Hitler's Big 7

Berlin, July 18 (AP).—The surviving "big seven" of Hitler's hierarchy, led by Rudolf Hess, finally were brought from Nuernberg and marched into gloomy, red-brick Spandau prison today after seven months argument among the four occupying powers over how they should be treated during their confinement.

Hardly had the prison gates clanged, when new differences arose. All four powers share administration of Spandau prison which is in the British sector.

Brought secretly to Gatow airfield at 8:30 a. m., bundled into a bus under heavy guard and rushed to prison with an escort of armored cars and truckloads of soldiers were Hess, one-time deputy fuehrer; Walther Funk, former economics minister; former Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, all sentenced to life terms by the Nuernberg International Military Tribunal; Baldur von Schirach, former youth leader, and Albert Speer, former arms production chief, who received 20 years each; Baron Constantin von Neurath, former "protector of Bohemia and Moravia," who is to serve 15 years, and former Admiral Karl Doenitz, who got a 10-year sentence.

Disagree at Once

American, British, French and Soviet officials already were in immediate disagreement over the wording of the communique which would announce the transfer.

The Russians did not want anything told except the bare fact that the seven had arrived.

The Russians won, and the result was a one-sentence communique, issued seven hours after the Nazis reached Berlin.

Once through the prison gates, the French prison personnel found the prisoners' baggage contained quantities of American cigars and cigarettes, obtained at Nuernberg as regular prisoner of war rations. Another row arose.

Frenchman Objects

Said one Frenchman, "Why, we never get any decent import tobacco, so why should these Nazis have it."

The Russians supported the French. The Americans said they assumed the Nazis and their tobacco would be permanently parted.

In the quarters of the four prison governors where the correspondents tried to pry out details, other snarls developed. The French governor deserted the conference early. The Russian governor never showed up. The American governor said he would talk to the press if authorized to do so by his superior at the Allied kommandanture. But before he could start speaking the British governor said this constituted "unilateral action" and "you had better move over into the American sector so I don't even hear it."

One American member of the prison finally threw up his hands. "Everytime somebody sneezes around here it requires a four-power conference," he exclaimed.

Hold Ruhr Decision, French Envoy Asks

Do Nothing Alone or With Britain Until After Paris Parley, He Urges

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Ambasasdor Henri Bonnet of France yesterday delivered a formal appeal to the United States not to take any decisions alone, or jointly with Great Britain, to build up the industrial power of Germany.

He asked especially that no decisions be taken while representatives of 16 western European countries were meeting at Paris to work out a self-help program of reconstruction under the so-called Marshall Plan.

"No decision about the future of Germany — especially no decision which could be considered as recreating Germany's industrial potential—should be taken during the Paris negotiations," the Ambassador told reporters after visiting Undersecretary Robert A. Lovett at the State Departmtent.

Talks Progress Well

"If France is faced with decisions which she cannot approve, the negotiations in Paris would be greatly endangered." The Ambassador added that the discussions in Paris were progressing well and should produce good results in six weeks of Anglo-American decisions did not upset them.

The Ambassador's visit threw light on the current controversy over the proposed Anglo-American conference to boost coal production in the Ruhr. It also helped to explain why the American and British governments have not announced agreement this week on a higher permitted level of German industrial production.

The controversy over the Ruhr conference was referred yesterday to Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas for direct settlement with British ministers in London. Its immediat ecause—a dispute ovre whether t ohold the Ruhr conference in Washingto nor Berlin—was not serious, but behind it lay real political difficulties, as follows:

Under Communist Fire

1. The French, to begin with, are under heavy Communist fire at home over the Marshall plan. The current line of attack by Soviet Russia, her satellites and her Communist parties in the West, is to charge that the Marshall Plan is a device for building up Germany. The recent State-War-Navy Department directive to Gen. Lucius D. Clay in Germany, which he said "permits the German economy to be integrated and worked into the Marshall Plan," has helped the Communist campaign; so has the news that the Americans and British had virtually agreed to lift the level of German industry.

2. The British, seeing their dollar resources dwindle fast, are increasingly anxious to cut the cost of their occupation of western Germany. Under the agreement she signed in Washington last November they agreed, reluctantly, to share 50-50 with the United States in the cost of making the two western zones work—a cost estimated at a billion dollars over a three-year period. Eight per cent of all their dollar expenditures in the United States this year has had to be used to feed Germans, a situation the British regard as almost intolerable.

No Special Help

Moreover, the British have been told by Secretary Harriman and other recent visitors to London that they can expect no favored position under the Marshall Plan, and no special help toward meeting their dollar shortage. This has made them all the more anxious to cut the costs of their administration of Germany. For both these reasons they have sought to widen the scope of the proposed discussions to include the general subject of German industrial revival.

3. The United States insists it wants to leave the European reconstruction program to the Europeans themselves at this stage. This is why, it still opposes the British desire to widen the scope of the Ruhr coal conference. It hoped to avoid just the kind of alarm that brought Ambassador Bonnet to the State Department yesterday. The United States is perfectly willing to discuss the wider German industrial and financial problem later, when the 16 nations at Paris have had a chance to show what plan they can evolve.

General Clay Is Factor

The authoritative personality of General Clay has been another, though minor, factor in current Anglo-American difficulties. With all his ability and his qualities as a human being, Clay is getting the reputation of being a law unto himself, much as General MacArthur did in Tokyo.

Clay decided last week that he would not come to the Ruhr coal conference, which had been scheduled for Washington, and sent his deputy, Maj. Gen. William H. Draper, instead. The British now wonder what would be the use of a conference on the Ruhr if Clay were not present and could disregard its decisions. This is believed to have been back of their request this week to hold the conference in Berlin, where Clay could be present.

Officials here are still confident that the conference will be confined to Ruhr coal, although it may be delayed for some time. Meantime the fate of this attempt to solve a technical production problem shows how technology, economics and high politics are inextricably tangled wherever Germany is concerned.

Army Nurse Becomes Colonel As Corps Gets Regular Status

U. S. Army Photo

FIRST REGULAR COMMISSION—Col. Florence Blanchfield, superintendent of Army nurses, receives her commission from General Eisenhower in a ceremony at the Chief of Staff's office. Her's is the first Regular Army commission to be granted a woman

The Army Nurse Corps bloomed into full recognition yesterday when Col. Florence A. Blanchfield, superintendent of Army Nurses, received a full commission in the Regular Army.

The veteran, who served 20 years in the nurse corps, was commissioned by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in Pentagon ceremonies. She lives at 2730 Wisconsin ave. nw.

Another Washington resident, Capt. Emilie K. Jensen, 814 22d st. nw., and four others from Virginia and Maryland will be commissioned at once, the Army announced. They are: Maj. Mabel E. Hause, Towson, Md.; Capt. Blance M. McAndrews, Street, Md.; Capt. Alvis O. Meeks, Winter Green, Va., and Lieut. Col. Edna D. Umbach, Baltimore, Md.

Prior to World War II, Army nurses held only relative rank and did not share to the same extent the security and retirement pension benefits provided for Regular Army officers. Colonel Blanchfield expressed the hope that "creation of the Regular Army Nurse Corps will serve as an incentive to some of the 60,000 American women who served as Army nurses to seek a career in the Army."

She will complete her tour of service as superintendent and will retire August 31. A native of Shepherdstown, W. Va., she entered service in 1917, served overseas during Warld War I and later served in the Philippines and China. She received the Distinguished Service Medal in 1945 for her "ability and devotion to duty."

Army Reopened to Negroes As Ratio Falls Below 10 Pct.

Maj. Gen. W. S. Paul, War Department personnel director, yesterday reopened the Army to Negro enlistments.

He announced a three-point program designed to stimulate army enlistments and bolster the peacetime army of 990,000 that is dwindling away at the rate of 385 men a day. Congress authorized an army strength of 1,070,000 but the army hasn't been able to sign up enough men.

Paul said he hoped the new policy would bring enlistments back up to the 30,000 men a month needed to stop the drain on manpower. The army was about 6000 short of this goal in June.

The recruiting policy changes are:

1. Open the army again to Negro recruits. The army was closed to Negro recruits late last year because Negro strength had reached 10 per cent of the army's total strength, the ratio in the national population. The Negro strength in the Army is now down to 9.2 per cent.

2. Reopen the right of recruits to sign up for duty in the European theater at the rate of 6000 a month. All recruits have been going to the Pacific theater since late last year.

3. Open enlistments to former GI's for service for one year in the United States with the recruit agreeing to serve the rest of his term overseas.

Gen. Bradley Will Inspect Army Abroad

A White House announcement bolstered speculation yesterday that Gen. Omar N. Bradley, wartime commander of American ground forces in Europe, may succeed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as Army Chief of Staff.

The announcement said Bradley, now serving as chief of the Veterans Administration, will leave next month on a six-week tour to inspect U. S. Army troops and installations in Europe and the Mediterranean area.

The trip was seen as a possible "refresher course" for Bradley to brush up on current Army problems in preparation for the Chief-of-Staff post. Eisenhower announced on June 24 that he will leave the top Army job to accept the presidency of Columbia University, effective next year.

Bradley, now 54, served as Eisenhower's immediate subordinate in directing American troops in the Normandy invasion and the subsequent drive into Germany. He took over the Veterans' Administration job on August 9, 1945.

The White House announcement said Bradley will make the trip at the invitation of Secretary of War Patterson and that he will "resume his duties in the Veterans Administration" upon his return.

At the War Department, officials told newsmen:

"General Bradley is still one of the senior officers of the Army of the United States. Both he and the War Department are anxious to have him keep abreast of developments in the Army.

"General Bradley has been unable to see anything of our troops since he became administrator of the Veterans Administration. He was willing to use his leave this summer for a visit to the European Theater."

Bradley has frequently voiced a desire to return to active Army duty, remaining in the tough and controversy-ridden VA post only to see the job through. It will be his first trip back to Germany since the end of the war.

House Delays Action On Airlines Merger

By The Associated Press

The House Commerce Committee decided today to postpone action on legislation to force a merger of United States international airline operations into a single company. This apparently has ended the prospect for a vote at this session.

Opponents of the measure, convinced that the bill would be beaten in a committee vote, had been trying to bring the issue to a decision.

There appears to be little prospect of action on a companion measure in the Senate Commerce Committee, where opponents—which include virtually every airline except Pan American Airways—also believe the bill can be beaten.

Cab Driver Halts Leap From Bridge By 17-Year-Old Girl

A quick-acting cab driver saved the life of a 17-year-old girl attempting to jump off Taft Bridge yesterday at 4:20 p. m.

The girl, police said, had been quarreling with her mother and sister on the Connecticut ave. structure. She was on the bridge railing when spotted by Dewey Morris of 1709 Douglas st. ne., as he was driving by in his Columbia cab.

Morris jammed on his brakes and helped the mother and sister pull the girl to safety. She was taken to the Thirteenth Precinct in a scout car and later transferred to the Women's Bureau for questioning.

Pvt. G. Goettel of the bureau, who declined to reveal the family's name because of the girl's age, said the family had a "social history" of quarrels.

Traffic on the bridge was jammed for some time, as passersby parked cars after hearing rumors that someone had jumped from the structure.

Middies Head for Cuba

London, July 18.—The United States Navy midshipmen's practice squadron, comprising eight combatant ships which have been operating in northern European waters since June 23, left English ports today bound for Guantanamo, Cuba. The squadron left Annapolis, Md., on June 7 and, after visiting Scandinavian waters, returned to England on July 9. Since that time the midshipmen and other personnel—numbering about 10,000—have been on sightseeing tours in Britain.

570 Believed Death Toll in Ship Sinking

Bombay, India, July 18 (AP).—An estimated 570 persons were missing and believed dead today in the sinking of the 400-ton coastal vessel Ramdas which capsized in the storm-swept mouth of Bombay Harbor Thursday.

Officials of the Indian Cooperative Navigation and Trading Co., Ltd., which owned the ill-fated vessel, said there were about 150 survivors out of the 721 passengers and crewmen reported aboard at the time of the disaster—one of the worst in Indian shipping history.

There were indications that the exact number of dead may never be known. One company source said it was possible there were more passengers aboard than the number of tickets indicated since persons frequently have slipped on the vessel without paying fares.

The disaster occurred as the 11-year-old steamer neared the end of her regular 45-minute run across the harbor from Bombay to Rewas.

Brought to Bombay tonight Capt. Saikh Suleman gave this account of the accident:

He said he had slowed down the Ramdas in anticipation of turning when a heavy swell struck the ship on the starboard side. The passengers rushed toward the port side causing the ship to list. Another swell struck and the vessel capsized.

Suleman said he was thrown out of a bridge porthole and was able to reach a life raft.

Captain Fly Dismissed From Navy

New York, July 18 (AP).—The Navy announced today the dismissal of Capt. William A. Fly, of New Orleans, La., and Summit, Miss., who was convicted by a general court-martial last November on charges of embezzlement and neglect of duty.

Charges against Fly involved alleged embezzlement of more than $2500 from a $3500 fund contributed by employes of the Federal Shipbuilding & Drydock Co. of Kearney, N. J., for the benefit of the crew of the U. S. S. Andromeda, which Fly commanded in the Mediterranean.

During the war he twice received the Legion of Merit for landing troops and equipment at Sicily and Italy.

Argentina Asks U. N. to Abolish Big Five's Veto

Lake Success, N. Y., July 18 (U.P.).—Argentina appealed to the forthcoming session of the United Nations General Assembly today to call a special conference of the 55 United Nations to abolish the Big Five veto power in the U. N. Security Council.

The Argentine proposal was placed on the formal agenda of the assembly starting September 16.

The charter requires a two thirds vote of the 55 member nations and any seven votes in the 11-nation Security Council to call such a parley. But each of the Big Five, as well as two thirds of the United Nations, must agree to any change in the basic document of the United Nations.

That means that any of the Big Five can veto the proposal to eliminate the veto and both Russia and the United States are opposed to any change in the veto provisions now.

"Business" In Greece

Senate and House alike were stirred on Wednesday by Mr. Lovett's exposition of the world crisis in his first appearance in Congress as Undersecretary of State. What he said undoubtedly was in Representative Eaton's mind when the House Foreign Affairs Committee chairman declared yesterday, "We are in sight of a shooting war at this minute—in Greece." So we are. The situation calls for the kind of boldness, diplomatic and military, that will save much blood and tears and sweat later on. An example of the boldness we have in mind is available in our experience last year in Venezia Giulia, the area in dispute between Italy and Yugoslavia. At a time when we were in Paris talking peace for Trieste, Tito's Yugoslavs were massed in the mountains ready and eager to pounce on Trieste, and impose their own solution by force. The objective was the same as in Greece—to introduce Russia to the Mediterranean and to shut off Greece and the entire Middle East from the Western World. But Tito was "contained." He was contained by the Eighty-eighth Division of the U. S. Army under Gen. Bryant Moore, a sturdy man of Maine, keeping constant watch and ward on the so-called Morgan Line in the mountains; aided by an American cruiser and an American destroyer lying at anchor in plain view of Trieste's Town Hall. There was a brush or two, but no bloodshed. As a Yugoslav officer said in Trieste to our editor on August 30 last year: "We can't move. Your Bryant Moore means business."

Is it not time we told Tito and Moscow's other Balkan lieutenants that in Greece as in Trieste we mean business? Is it not time we demonstrated that we do mean business? Under Article 51 of the Charter we can act under authority of the United Nations Charter, especially as Mr. Gromyko is busy at Lake Success buying time for the aggressors on the Greek frontier. Surely we can no longer afford to take any chances. A peaceful solution of the Balkan difficulties is available in the United Nations, and time after time we have declared our willingness to talk over or confer on a new modus favorable to the Russians in the Dardanelles. But Russia prefers a gamble with aggression, as she did at Trieste. From us a response is necessitated similar to the one that saved the peace in Trieste. It is called for by every consideration of prudence and peace and security. Our foreign policy toward Russia (ratified in respect of Greece by Congress) has been crystallized in recent months as containment + pressure = accommodation. Are we going to let it be shown up at the first test as composed of hot air, and, in consequence, sacrifice our prestige in the world? This is the kind of question that is suggested by Representative Eaton's observation.

Swift Retribution

The Mayor of New York has attached his signature to a bill freezing rents for permanent tenants of hotels, apartment hotels, rooming and lodging houses at the June 30 level. Of course, anguished cries of protest are coming from representatives of the hotels, along with warnings that many residential hotels, squeezed between stationary rentals and rising costs of operation and upkeep, face bankruptcy. Yet protective action by the city was essential to protect tenants against the outrageous gouging of some landlords who had announced multiple increases in existing rentals. The sensible, reasonable landlords are the victims of the cupidity of these stupid profiteers. A three-man rent commission will be empowered to administer the new rental-control law and correct inequities. But considering the size and difficulty of its task, the property owners concerned will doubtless have difficulty in securing prompt action on petitions for rent increases.

The ideal solution of the problem presented by the dropping of Federal controls would, of course, be some form of self-regulation that would permit owners of unregulated establishments to raise rentals to the extent required to insure reasonable returns on their property without undue hardship to tenants. But experience has proved in this as in many other instances that voluntary regulation is not an adequate substitute for over-all governmental controls when the seller of goods and services is in a position to make his own terms. That is especially true in the case of housing accommodations in congested population areas. The tenant facing eviction with no place to go is in no position to bargain. He must either pay what is demanded or face the dread consequences of refusal.

The plight of the hotel and lodging house occupants of New York City is a foretaste of what lies ahead when all Federal rental controls are abandoned. And it is also a warning to landlords everywhere that immoderate rent increases will invite swift local action to refasten on them the controls that the real estate lobby worked so hard and so successfully to bring to a speedy end.

1067 And All That

On September 26, 1944, we said: "The chief preoccupation of our statesmanship should be to refit this nation [Germany] into the polity and economy of Europe." The editorial was evoked by the so-called Morgenthau Plan. Mr. Morgenthau had obtained Mr. Roosevelt's ear for a plan to keep Germany down by a grim program of deindustrialization. Even the coal mines were to be flooded. Germany was to go back to agriculture and the light industries associated with a rural economy. The Morgenthau Plan was accepted in principle at the Quebec conference of September, 1944. It underlay General Eisenhower's directive, JCS 1067 of May, 1945, after the conquest of Germany. It lingered in the conditions of peace laid down at the Potsdam conference of August, 1945. The gentlemen who talked of peace gave a mandate to the Allied administrators of Germany to give "primary emphasis to the development of agriculture and peaceful domestic industries." The whole theory we summed up by our castigation of Mr. Morgenthau as the Samson in the Temple.

Now the wheel has come around full circle, and a fresh beginning is attempted by the new directive to General Clay. Morgenthau and everything stemming from him in treatment of Germany is buried. No longer is "primary emphasis to be given to agriculture and peaceful domestic industries." General Clay is commanded to encourage the Germans "to rebuild a self-supporting state devoted to peaceful purposes, integrated into the economy of Europe." It has taken a long time to shed the senselessness with which we approached the peace problem. Between May, 1945, and July, 1947, over two years have elapsed—two years in which we have used our eyes only to weep with. Forgotten was one simple fact: that there is no hope of creating a working economy in Europe without German industry. No fact is so plain and irreducible on the map of Europe. No situation, no matter how complicated, but has a keypoint, and in Europe this is it.

The Marshall approach contemplates the resurrection of Germany as the main task of the self-help-and-help program now in course of formulation. This is the meaning of the new directive to General Clay. Coal is the No. 1 requirement. It comes mainly from the Ruhr, and in the Ruhr, which the British took over as part of their zone, there has been a failure in administration. The mines have been limping along at the output of 40 per cent of capacity that was attained back in February, 1946. How can we get more coal out of the Ruhr? The way out is as plain as it was to the man who languished in the Bastille with the door open. There should be set up a Ruhr coal authority under one man armed with full powers and equipped with enough carrots in the form of food and consumer goods to spur the German miners to come up to the capacity performance of the Saar.

A report from the European conference says that France objects to a revival of Ruhr industry. Clearly, in view of France's crying need for coal from the Ruhr, she does not mean coal. Nor does she mean the light industries in the manufacturing complex of the Ruhr. She is concerned lest under the new directive we may put the Ruhr back as Europe's greatest steel producer. It is understandable in a way that a fear of German militarism is still deep in the French soul. One way to allay that fear is for France to sign the 40-year treaty governing German militarism that America already has offered. Another is for the United States to decide upon its policy toward the political future of the Ruhr. If the United States will not agree to internationalization, then at least she should agree to dispersion of some of the Ruhr's heavy industry among Germany's neighbors. It doesn't matter how this industry is distributed within the neighborhood so long as the Ruhr is integrated in the working economy of Europe now in belated course of development.

Nisei Claims

There is one piece of business, an act of restitution, which the conscience of Congress should require it to complete before adjournment—the creation of an evacuation claims commission to compensate the persons of Japanese ancestry who suffered property losses as a result of their removal from the West Coast in 1942. It has always seemed to this newspaper that the evacuation of these people on account of the accident of their ancestry constituted a grievous blot on the pages of American history. Congress can lighten, if it cannot erase, that blot by making amends for the material damages inflicted on these people in the name of military necessity.

President Truman stated the case compellingly when he asked Congress to take such action a year ago. "It would, in my opinion," he said, "be a tragic anomaly if the United States were, on the one hand, to acclaim and decorate with honors the brave Nisei troops who fought so valiantly and at such sacrifice overseas, while, on the other hand, it ignored and left unredressed the very real and grievous losses which some of them, together with their immediate families, have suffered as a result of Government action in the midst of that same war."

Last year legislation to provide this compensation was reported favorably to both House and Senate. It passed the latter body unanimously but reached the former too late for floor consideration preceding adjournment. It would be a pity and an injustice if another session of Congress were to go by without action on it. For delay will not merely postpone justice; it will make the implementation of justice much more difficult. In the course of delay, witnesses may die, facts may become obscure, records may be lost and all the other paraphernalia of proof may become more difficult to secure and evaluate. And, of course, the passage of time means continued hardship for those desperately in need of this compensation to reestablish their disrupted lives. On the agenda of Congress, this legislation ought to be a moral must.

Misrepresentation

Testifying under oath before the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee which is considering the nomination of Philip B. Perlman to be Solicitor General, Robert B. Young, a member of the committee's professional staff, stated: "I proceeded to the office of Mr. Charles Ruzicka . . . He is definitely against the confirmation of the nominee. To his mind Perlman is one of the politicos of the city . . . Mr. Ruzicka also stated that Perlman is not qualified for the appointment."

On Thursday, Mr. Charles Ruzicka, subpenaed by Senator McGrath, testified under oath in response to questions put to him by Senator Tydings. When he was asked whether the statement attributed to him by Mr. Young was true or false, Mr. Ruzicka replied: "That is not true . . . It unfairly represents my attitude and my conversation with Mr. Young. Never did I say that I was against confirmation of Mr. Perlman. On the contrary, I told Senator Ferguson that if I had a vote on the committee, I would vote . . . for confirmation."

Senator Tydings asked Mr. Ruzicka if he had referred to Mr. Perlman as "one of the politicos of the city." Mr. Ruzicka answered: "I said Mr. Perlman is one of our political leaders in our city." Senator Tydings asked Mr. Ruzicka whether he had stated to Mr. Young that "Perlman is not qualified for the appointment." Mr. Ruzicka answered: "I did not say that, sir."

If Mr. Ruzicka told the truth when he testified under oath, then it is clear that he was grossly misrepresented by the committee's investigator, Mr. Young, and equally clear that Senator Ferguson knew that he was misrepresented. Yet Senator Ferguson made no effort to question either Mr. Ruzicka or Mr. Young. The Senate as a whole is dependent in passing upon a nomination on the recommendation of the committee which has investigated the nominee. It is to be hoped that this recommendation will not be based on the misrepresentation of Mr. Young.

Making It Clique

The assertions that the armed services contain fraternities or secret societies whose members look after one another's interests, convenience and professional preferment, is a matter that certainly needs looking into. One such society has been identified in testimony before a congressional committee as the "Green Bowl" and is said to have had its origin at the Naval Academy at Annapolis where the membership was limited to a few members out of each class. The society is supposed to have been formed more than 40 years ago, so that some of its earlier members may now be holding positions of high rank in the naval establishment in which they might, were they so disposed, be able to place many a favor in the way of their ambitious younger confreres.

The existence of cliques in almost all branches of the Government service has long been a matter of general knowledge in Washington. At one time the Department of State, with some reason, was considered to be especially clique-ridden. For that matter cliques are also to be found in private businesses and indeed in almost all organizations of any size. They are extremely difficult to deal with, since nearly all of them have their origin in purely social relationships of one sort or another, and most of them, unlike the Green Bowl, have no formal organization or acknowledged membership.

But in organizations like the Army and Navy, where cliques would have the opportunity to exert a tremendous and irresponsible power, they would be a positive menace to the national safety. In the first place, membership in such groups, as in the case of college clubs or the more exclusive fraternities, is usually on the basis of popularity or social attainments rather than that of professional ability. In the second place, no more certain formula for demoralizing a service in time of war could be found than by creating the suspicion that the more desirable assignments were being given on the basis of purely social considerations.

We are glad, then, to see that Admiral Nimitz has ordered an investigation into the allegations concerning the Green Bowl, and we hope that the names of its members will be published in justice both to themselves and to the other officers. We think that the Army, too, might undertake a similar investigation of its own.

COLUMBINE

The rough grey rock
Lies flat upon the meadow
And, round its edge,
Flutters the columbine
On stems as frail as their own shadow,
The bloom translucent red,
Perfect in bell and line.

There is a tenuous grace
About this flowering
That questions, yet is sure
Despite its outer frailty,
Tremulous, wind-blown—
More than another flower
It shall endure.

Strange Company

In the spring of 1941 Senator Robert A. Taft made an isolationist address which disclosed such an astounding ignorance of the world situation and of its implications for us that I assailed the address in an editorial. I sent it to him, together with a letter pointing out that I had spent 20 years in Germany between 1911 and 1934 as an American correspondent, had known Hitler personally since 1923, and had begun in 1928 to warn that he would come to power and that his accession would mean war.

If Great Britain should be defeated, I wrote, the position of the United States would be very grave. When Hitler announced that he had a mission to conquer the world, he meant what he said, and with Britain conquered, we should be the next country on his list. Mr. Taft wrote me under date of May 29, 1941:

"I have your letter of May 19. I have read the editorial and I simply do not believe that the situation is as you picture it. I have no fear that we will be in any serious situation if Britain is defeated. It would be a more difficult situation, but not one that could not be easily met by this country without any change in our form of government and method of living."

This is the same man who does not hesitate now to oppose universal military training. It seems to me, in view of his almost inconceivable inability to realize in 1941 what Britain's defeat would mean for us, that he should now remain quiet and hope that his record had been forgotten. I often wonder whether Mr. Taft and the educators and clergymen who share his blindness do not sometimes feel a trifle uneasy over the fact that they find strong support from our indigenous Communists, whose reasons for wanting a defenseless America are obvious and who know that the defeat of universal military training would eventually bring about that defenselessness.

AVC And Wallace

I should like to reply to the letter of July 14 from Marion Johnston, chairman of the FDR Chapter, American Veterans Committee.

Adolph Berle in his remarks about AVC was merely voicing an opinion. As the chairman of an AVC chapter whose delegates to the national convention in Milwaukee last month played an active role in the Independent Progressive caucus, I have every confidence that Mr. Berle was correct in saying that AVC would not support Henry Wallace's views on foreign policy.

The Independent Progressives' candidates for national offices clearly carried the convention. Those who opposed this caucus were distinctly in the minority and consistently supported approaches to foreign problems that were in complete agreement with Mr. Wallace's.

In connection with this, it would be well to note that at the recent meeting of the Greater Washington Area Council, prior to Mr. Wallace's appearance at the Watergate, a resolution welcoming Henry A. Wallace to Washington was introduced at the beginning of the meeting; this was overwhelmingly defeated. Immediately before adjournment of that same meeting, the identical resolution was reintroduced and again roundly defeated by a very substantial majority of the representatives there. The majority of the Greater Washington Area Council was the backbone of the Independent Progressive caucus in Milwaukee. Mr. Johnston participated in the affairs of the Unity caucus which supported the defeated candidates for national office, Ken Pettus and Don Rothenberg.

Lottery By Color

My stomach turned a complete flipflop when I read the account about the North Carolina Negro war veteran who won a Cadillac car in a lottery but who couldn't receive it on account of his color.

This incident will undoubtedly be given full publicity in all the newspapers in Europe and Asia and will the people of those countries laugh at us! The great United States of America, spending billions of dollars to make all of Europe safe for democracy, when we can't even make it work here.

High ideals and clay feet!

MAY HEALY.

. . . The attitude of the Kiwanis spokesman who points out "that their festival was held to help the underprivileged" is a statement and a policy that should make every democratic American citizen blush with shame.

The reaction in this country of all decent fair-minded people toward supporting so-called charitable organizations is sure to be felt by the Kiwanis Club as well as other similar groups.

Wages And Prices

In 1945, President Truman gave his approval to the labor unions' campaign for higher wages, and since wages are an important part of production costs he indirectly gave his blessing to an increase in selling prices and in the cost of living. Almost two years later, President Truman is only now becoming alarmed because prices are still spiraling upward due to the fact that the campaign for higher wages, which he so heartily approved, is still rolling merrily on.

However, instead of attacking one of the chief causes (increasing wages), he unrealistically attacks the effect thereof (higher prices). Now that coal miners have gained a substantial increase in wages, President Truman says, "In view of the uncertainty as to whether, or how much, mine costs of coal may be raised . . . it is only reasonable to ask coal and steel producers to wait (with price increases) until a fair test has been made of the actual effects of the wage advances."

In my mind there is no "uncertainty as to whether" wage advances will increase "mine costs of coal." To me that conclusion is inevitable. President Truman, however, seems reluctant to admit that 3 and 2 make 5. For example: assume that $2 represents the labor cost of mining a ton of coal before any increase, and that another $2 represents all the other costs connected therewith. Increase the labor cost to $3 a ton, and add thereto the $2 of other costs and what have you? $5 a ton of course—not $4 a ton as it was before the increased wages were in effect.

Bulgaria's Communist Government

It is indeed regrettable that The Post permitted its columns to be used for a Communist attack on Dr. G. M. Dimitroff by Mr. N. Mevorah in the issue of July 14.

Mr. Mevorah is a Communist lawyer who wrote much of the legislation which the Communist Party decreed in order to "legalize" its dictatorship. Dr. Dimitroff, on the other hand, is the leader of the Peasant Party, which has the allegiance of an overwhelming majority of the Bulgarian people. He was driven from his homeland by the Communists, who were intent on killing off every leader or potential leader of the democratic movement.

Mr. Mevorah tries to shrug off charges of mass murders by the Communists as "the conviction, after due process of law, of some 2000 Fascists." He is obviously referring to the proceedings of the so-called People's Courts, which were set up after the Reds seized power, to try alleged "Fascists." The courts were patterned after the revolutionary courts of Robespierre. The judges, prosecutors and defense attorneys were appointed by the local Communist council and the "juries" consisted of groups of local thugs appointed by the Communist Party. Verdicts were delivered by voice and no one was ever found "not guilty." Among the "Fascists" who were convicted by the People's Courts are Dr. Dimitroff, Nicola Mushanov, leader of the Democratic Party and a firm anti-Nazi; Alexander Muravieff, the former Prime Minister who declared war on Germany and cleared Bulgarian soil of all Nazi troops; Dimiter Buroff and Athanas Gicheff, the venerable "grand old men" of the liberal parties.

Even these "legal" murders account only for an infinitesimal number of those liquidated by Dictator Georgi Dimitrov, secretary-general of the Comintern. At least 100,000—some authoritative estimates run as high as 200,000—persons were tortured and slaughtered by the secret police. An additional 200,000 to 400,000 have been thrown into concentration camps. The entire family, including children and old people, of any person seized by the secret police is immediately thrown into one of these camps. In all, Dictator Dimitrov has killed or enslaved at least 10 per cent of the total population of the country.

When Mr. Mevorah speaks of the "love which the Bulgarian people" feel toward the Soviet Union, he is speaking of the past. When the Red army first invaded Bulgaria it was received with great joy by the populace. In short order, however, the plundering and rape indulged in by the Soviet troops and the brutal excesses practiced by the local Communist Party have turned love to undying hatred. If the Red army were withdrawn from Bulgaria today the populace would hang every Communist in the country within 24 hours.

The present rulers of Bulgaria are really foreigners, despite the fact that they were born in that country. Dictator Dimitrov and the figurehead President, Vasil Kolaroff, spent the years between 1923 and 1945 outside of Bulgaria mostly in the Soviet Union. Peter Grigoroff, personal aide, to Dimitrov, was in France from 1923 to 1938 and thereafter in the United States until 1946. A typical example of the kind of person who has seized the Bulgarian government is Tsola Dragoicheva, who fled the country in 1932. She is a sadistic maniac who was appointed purge boss for the Communist Party. Her greatest pleasure is to put innocent victims through medieval tortures in her private torture chamber.

In only one respect is Mr. Mevorah correct, when he stated that "the Bulgarian people have a special affection for the United States." Unfortunately, it is an affection that we have not earned and do not deserve. Our policy of appeasement destroyed postwar Bulgaria. Our refusal to defend the Bulgarian democratic movement before it was butchered has left the freedom parties without leadership. Our betrayal of the Atlantic Charter has handed over the people of Bulgaria to the Soviet slave market.

Pushing Wives And Inflation

By Malvina Lindsay

Harassed Husbands

LIFTING of credit controls, which may take place next month, is likely not only to give installment buying a boost but to set father to working a little harder. With down payments lessened and credit time extended, many a family is scheduled to sign on the dotted line for the home furnishings and household gadgets it has been needing and wanting—if not affording. For backlogs of savings have melted in large degree before inflationary living costs, and promises to pay must now be exchanged for the new durable goods.

This comes at a time when there is much warning that husbands, especially middle-aged ones with ambitious, expensive families, are pushing themselves too much. Some sociologists contend wives are doing the pushing.

Women themselves are just waking up to the fact that men aren't physically the invincible creatures romantic tradition has so long portrayed them in contrast to supposedly frail femininity. Medical authorities, who are alarmed by the high death rate of men in middle life, point out that men are biologically weaker than women, that from infancy throughout life they are less resistant to disease, and that they do not live as long. They cite the fact that wives are outliving their husbands in increasing numbers. In 1940, before war's toll of men was taken, there were almost three times as many widows as widowers in this country.

WOMEN'S concern about this was recently expressed at a forum on the family held at the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. It was brought out that men in trying to meet their families' rising standards of living often pushed themselves too hard, especially in middle life when the expense of educating children was highest. The charge was also made that some wives drove their husbands to provide them household gadgets—with the result that many women were left to spend the "mellow years" with gadgets instead of husbands.

Another result of men's drive to become good providers has been the "Mom" dominated home, with fathers being too busy to take a hand in the rearing of children. This awakening has led to recent widespread effort, through education and family counseling, to make men's role in family life something more than that of an exchequer.

However in an increasing number of families, father is not the sole grubworm. More and more wives are working outside the home and pushing themselves to the utmost in the double job of homemaker and wage earner. Modern demands on mothers are such that many a woman puts in as hard a day's labor in the home as her husband does in office and factory—and there is no hour limit on her work. And the trend of installment buying so far, which has been strongly toward washing and sewing machines, indicates many wives want to do their part toward meeting rising living expenses.

ALSO, SOME medical authorities hold that it is a man's biological lack of resistance to certain diseases, rather than overwork and the rigors of masculine life, that causes him to succumb earlier and easier than a woman. Nevertheless the strain of seeing that his family is reared and launched in life according to the standards of his set or neighborhood (at least given a better start in life than he had himself) does not help him in withstanding stomach ulcers, circulatory diseases and nerve ailments.

This strain is bound to be heightened to an extent in the period ahead. Long-needed durable goods, which can be bought for a few dollars down and plenty of time to pay, will be hawked on every hand by persuasive salesmen. Meantime there is the problem of maintaining standards of living with costs at a record high and now apparently destined to go higher. This, abetted by a wave of reckless installment buying, could take a human toll worse than an economic one.

Pronunciation Trouble

In his patriotic alarm over "the desecration of our national monuments by Latinizing their names," your correspondent of July 11, Robert S. Porter, has made a remarkable linguistic discovery.

"Students of Romance languages" will be surprised, indeed, to learn that "Latins cannot pronounce the soft "c." Until Mr. Porter's discovery, it had been generally believed that this sound was, along with the bilabials of the suckling infant, virtually universal in human language. Haven't we "ciel" and "Cyrano" and countless other examples in French? And the same sound (but represented by the symbol "s") in thousands of words in Spanish and Italian—"si, senor," for example? And millions of Latin Americans inconsiderately regard Mr. Porter's "th" as a Castilian affectation and use "the soft c" instead.

One would like to have Mr. Porter's authorities also for both his spelling and his pronunciation of "violincello" as well as for his assertion that the 'cello is "the base counterpart of the "violincello."

We might appropriately amend in correspondingly free and easy fashion the remark attributed to Madame Roland as she approached the guillotine, "O patriotism, what absurdities are committed in thy name!"

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Rebel From Oregon

A LITTLE BY-PLAY occurred in the Senate recently that caused some merriment on the Democratic side of the aisle. It threw into sudden relief a feud that has been the occasion for fireworks through most of the session now drawing to a close.

Childs

With one bit of business completed, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, in the chair, said sonorously, "The Senator from Michigan is recognized." He meant, of course, his colleague from Michigan, Senator Homer Ferguson.

But far from demanding recognition, Ferguson was not even in the Senate chamber. There was an awkward pause. The Senator demanding the floor was Wayne Morse of Oregon. Finally, Vandenberg gave the nod to Morse.

Behind this little play was the determination of the Republican majority to silence the party's Oregon rebel. Ferguson should have been on the floor. He just happened to miss his cue.

Morse wanted to urge immediate passage of his bill increasing subsistence allowances to veterans. The bill would raise the allowance for veterans in school from $65 to $75 a month for single veterans; from $90 to $105 for married veterans without children, and to $120 for veterans with one or more children. The measure had been reported out of the Senate Committees on Labor and Public Welfare with only two dissenting votes.

PROMPTLY Senator Robert A. Taft, the shepherd of the Republican majority, was on his feet to point out that the Morse bill was only 1 of 10 which the Republican Policy Committee has put on a "must" list.

"If every Senator is going to insist that a particular bill in which he is interested shall be considered first," said Taft, "after we have promised him, if you please, and have announced that we are going to take it up, there can be no order in the procedure of the Senate. It seems to me that first we must necessarily finish action on the appropriation bills."

This and other entreaties did not stop the rebel. To head him off, there was a long statistical speech on the Commodity Credit Corp. And when this failed, a move to adjourn, which has the parliamentary right of way, was put. Morse took the unusual step of forcing a roll call on it.

The things that Morse's Republican colleagues say about him in private could never be printed in the Congressional Record. The things that Morse says back about the Republican leadership are just as harsh. Right now he is saying that the recent incident shows that the Republicans are stalling on veterans' legislation and that the veterans cannot look to the Republican Party for protection of their rights. What is more, he plans to say these same harsh things on a cross-country lecture tour in the fall.

NOT IN A LONG TIME has the Senate had such an interesting case-history in rebellion. Morse has none of the club spirit that tends to submerge personal antagonisms even when men may differ in their opinions. His Republican colleagues call him, with various angry expletives attached, self-righteous, professorial, publicity-seeking, uncooperative, show-off.

The Morse one-man rebellion came to a head during the struggle over the Taft-Hartley labor bill. In his academic career and through his experience on the War Labor Board, Morse had acquired a broad background on labor law and collective bargaining.

In the beginning he worked with Senator Irving Ives of New York and others to modify the restrictions proposed by Taft and Senator Joseph Ball of Minnesota. Some of the language in the Taft-Hartley Act is Morse's. Then came the question whether he would "go along" and vote for the modified bill. A friend gave him this advice:

"By refusing to go along with your party after you've helped to make the bill more reasonable, you will destroy your usefulness. You will cut yourself off too completely. You will be far stronger if you show a little cooperation."

Morse, however, voted to sustain the President's veto. In the past, rebels like Morse have burst the balloon of party pride. It is a lonely role, bringing ostracism and the frowns of the other members of the club. But it can be a useful role, too, if only in jarring the complacency of the powers that be.

Battle For Europe

By Barnet Nover

Can The West Win Out?

THE BATTLE for Europe is raging all the way from the mountains of Greece and the coal fields of the Ruhr to the meeting halls at Lake Success, N. Y.

NOVER

Except in Greece, where a fuse lit long ago in Moscow and carefully tended by Russian agents threatens to ignite the Balkan powder barrel, it is not (at least not yet) a military struggle. Instead, it is a conflict between rival pulls and rival pressures, Russian and American, a struggle of economics, politics and propaganda, a "war of nerves," a "white" war.

If, except in the tragic Greek Peninsula, the struggle is still unsanguinary, the stakes are as great as though huge armies were aligned against each other along a new Western Front.

It is not too much to say that the fate not only of Europe but of the world depends on the outcome.

THIS FACT appears to be much more clearly realized in Moscow than in Washington.

The men in the Kremlin not only know but are acting on the assumption that the show-down stage has been reached in what, purely as a figure of speech, we might call the postwar period.

They know that the material and moral advantages in this struggle are with the United States.

This country has the financial power, the industrial resources, the technical competence and other resources needed to help put Europe back on its feet. The mere offer to help, provided that the nations of Europe first show signs of helping themselves, sent a great wave of hope and enthusiasm sweeping across the continent.

Moreover, we also have the enormous advantage of representing a system of political freedom. Only the pawns of Moscow believe the Communist contention that the United States has designs on the sovereignty and independence of any nation.

ON THE OTHER hand, two aspects of American policy have undoubtedly created a measure of uneasiness in Europe, an uneasiness which Russia is seeking to capitalize for all it is worth.

In the first place, Europe is worried by what the nations and peoples of the Old World regard as the unpredictability of American foreign policy. What happened in 1919 has not been forgotten.

In the second place, there is alarm over the slowness with which the American leviathan normally moves. Helping Europe help itself is a splended idea. But that help must come before it is too late to do much good.

For this reason, the impending Anglo-American conference on how to increase Ruhr coal production (first revealed in this column a fortnight ago) and the new American directive on Germany are steps in the right direction.

IN CONTRAST with our own, Russia's material assets are limited. Those agreements for exchange of goods which she has made with her satellites are likely to prove better on paper than in execution. Their immediate propaganda value, however, is considerable.

The Russians are already saying, and saying it in many languages, that while the United States talks assistance to Europe, Russia is extending it.

The Kremlin's sudden about-face on the Anglo-Russian trade agreement which is to vouchsafe Great Britain some wheat and lumber she desperately needs is pointed in that propagandist direction.

The Russian system is not one which any free people anywhere in the world has ever accepted. The Communists are only dominant in countries where, with Russia's help, they succeeded in saddling themselves on a hostile but helpless population.

The fact remains, however, that eight nations are now completely under Moscow's thumb. At a signal from Russia, all of them turned down the Anglo-French invitation to the recent Paris conference, tempted though they were to accept.

ONE OF RUSSIA'S greatest assets in its propaganda attack on the Marshall proposal is the repeated statements emanating from Washington that no special session of Congress is contemplated.

It may very well be that the European self-help program may not be ready and under way much before the regular session. Nonetheless, this country ought to be ready and to announce its readiness to spring into action just as soon as the situation makes such action possible.

The most dangerous thing we can do at this time is to rest on our oars, to assume that time is on our side and to take it for granted that whenever we get around to implementing the Marshall program will be time enough.

That is one sure way for the United States to lose the battle for Europe.

Commuters' Rail Fare Rise Recommended

By The Associated Press

Increases of 15 to 25 per cent in the railroad communtation fares of a group of carriers in the eastern half of the country were given approval in an Interstate Commerce Commission examiner's report yesterday.

The examiner, Burton Fuller, recommended that the railroads be permitted to make the increases on communtation and other multiple tickets effective on five days' notice. The commission, which usually follows the recommendations of examiners in such cases, has yet to act on the matter.

The boosts were sought in connection with the recent proceeding in which 60 Eastern lines were granted authority to raise basic one-way passenger fares by 10 per cent. The lines handling commuter traffic contended that the adjustments asked on commutation service would roughly correspond to the basic passenger fare increases of 10 per cent each authorized by ICC in 1942 and this year.

Allows For 5-Day Week

Generally, Fuller recommended about what was asked, except that in many cases he suggested the application of two types of monthly tickets, one for unrestricted use, the other not good on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, in recognition of the five-day week.

The increase would affect every major metropolitan center in the East.

The lines petitioning for the changes are the New Haven Railroad, New York Central and its subsidiaries Boston & Albany and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie; Lehigh Valley, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, the Erie, the New York, Susquehanna & Western, Jersey Central, Long Island Railroad Co., Reading Co., Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines, Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago, South Shore & South Bend, and Boston & Maine.

Because of the varying types of service offered, Fuller recommended separate formulae for arriving at the various increases.

On service out of Philaelphia, Washington, Youngstown and Chicago, Fuller approved requests to apply flat increases of $2.50 to monthly fares and 65 cents to weekly fares with the stipulation that there should be no increases on the New York Central between Chicago and Laporte, Ind., and none on the 54-trip monthly ticket on the South Bend between Chicago and Michigan City and Hudson Lake, Ind.

Meanwhile, the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday opened a general investigation into the operations of the class one motor bus lines to determine among other things if current passenger rates are equitable.

The class one lines are those whose operating revenues total $100,000 or more annually. There are some 359 such lines in the country.

Lay Basis for Inquiry

The investigation, covering "all fares, charges, rules, regulations and practices" of the motor carriers, was originally ordered by the ICC on July 1, 1946, when commission sources said financial statements of the companies were showing a high net income rate.

Yesterday's initial witnesses from the commission's statistical bureau laid the basis for the inquiry by presenting financial reports from the companies since 1938.

One such exhibit showed the motor bus lines had total operating revenues from intercity, local and suburban traffic in the first three months of this year of $102,852,121 compared with $114,485,594 in the same period last year, a decline of 10.2 per cent. The exhibit listed operating expenses of $98,245,013 in the first quarter this year, up 6.9 per cent from the comparative 1946 period.

The hearing will be continued on Monday at Boston before Examiner Michael T. Corcoran. Additional sessions are scheduled for later in the year at Seattle, San Francisco, Atlanta, Ga., Dallas, Tex., and Chicago.

Senate Plans Session Today To Speed Bills

By the United Press

Chairman Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) of the Senate Republican policy committee, announced yesterday that the Senate will meet in a special 11 a. m.-7 p. m. Saturday session today and hold day and night sessions next week in an effort to meet the July 26 congressional adjournment deadline.

Asked whether he thought Congress could adjourn then as planned he said he saw no reason why not, but "we are not going to let anybody hold a gun at our heads."

At yesterday's meeting, the policy committee put the following bills, all dealing with veterans' benefits, on the Senate agenda for today:

To allow veterans to cash their terminal leave bonds immediately; to increase subsistence allowances for student veterans; to authorize the purchase of automobiles for disabled veterans; and to increase pensions for Spanish-American war veterans.

Taft said he hoped the Senate would act today on President Truman's reorganization plan No. 3 which affects Government housing agencies.

The GOP policy group, which approved a one-year extension of the Special Senate Small Business Committee, will meet next week to decide on a host of proposals for special investigations.

Inquiry Suggested

These include an inquiry into United States immigration policy and the admission of displaced persons.

A resolution, sponsored by Senators Chapman Revercomb (R., W. Va.) and Pat McCarran (D., Nev.) calls for an investigation of immigration policy, administration of immigration laws, illegal entry of aliens, and the problems of displaced persons.

Meantime, Chairman George D. Aiken (R., Va.) said that his Senate Committee on Executive Expenditures soon would investigate what he termed "negligence, gross ineptitude and carelessness" in the Federal Public Housing Authority.

Aiken said agency audits prepared by Comptroller General Lindsay Warren showed conditions "so bad" that his committee was withholding reports on the bureau pending further study.

Audits for other Government agencies, he said, ranged from "good to not bad." This group included the Tennessee Valley Authority and its associated cooperatives, the Home Owners Loan Corporation and the Export-Import Bank.

Truman's Flood Control Plan Called 'Money Down Rathole'

President Truman's 250-million-dollar flood control program for the Mississippi-Missouri Valley was termed "pouring money down a rathole" by Louis Bromfield, Ohio author and farmer, yesterday.

"The President's proposal is for nothing more or less than the futile spending of money on levees and dredges," Bromfield told the National Valley Authority Conference.

After listening to Bromfield and other speakers denounce Army engineers' plans for flood control, the conference adopted a vigorous protest to both Mr. Truman and the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Secret Hearings Hit

It demanded that the Senate committee halt "secret hearings" with Army engineers on an appropriation for 250 million dollars for the program.

"This is the very plan which has been bitterly criticized by fighting farmers and businessmen in the Missouri alley," it telegraphed both the President and the committee.

"They are shocked and disappointed that the farm people, fresh from their sufferings from the kind of flood control already provided by Army Engineers after expenditures of many billions of taxpayers' money, are not being given an opportunity to appear in open hearings."

C. Girard Davidson, assistant Secretary of the Interior told the conference that development of natural resources must be on a river-basin basis in order to succeed. He cited the Rio Grande Valley as an example of a lack of unified attack on river problems.

Engineer Colonel Testifies

Jerome Locke, Army engineer reserve colonel, and a former engineer for the Reclamation Service, said that the Army's plan for river channel improvement on the Missouri has greatly aggravated the river's flood crests.

Locke presented charts showing that flood stage on the Missouri is now reached with scarcely more than half the volume of flood waters that were necessary before the Army Engineers began construction of levees and revetments along its banks.

In the Senate, Senator Murray (D., Mont.) declared that creation of a Missouri Valley Authority is necessary to carry out the President's long-range flood control program.

Murray announced he and other sponsors of an MVA will hold hearings "in their own right" in the Midwest after Congress adjourns.

Meantime in the Senate, the way was cleared for another vote on the St. Lawrence Seaway project, pending in Congress for 14 years.

By a 9 to 4 vote, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved a resolution authorizing President Truman to carry out an agreement negotiated with Canada in 1941, under which an international waterway would be built from the Great Lakes to the sea.

The committee inserted a requirement that a large part of the cost be defrayed through toll charges on shipping.

Chairman Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) said the bill would not be formally reported for floor debate until the first week of next January, when the second session of Congress begins.

House Group Clears Wool Price Program

By The Associated Press

A measure extending the Government's price support program for domestic wool through 1948 was cleared yesterday by the House Rules Committee for action next week. It has been passed by the Senate.

The decision followed a statement by Secretary of State Marshall, in effect, that he cannot say whether the tariff on wool imports will be lowered at the Geneva Trade Conference.

"Tariff concessions are, in fact, made only if the United States is able to obtain adequate reciprocal concessions," Marshall wrote in reply to a letter from Republican House Leader Halleck of Indiana.

President's Calling List

By The Associated Press

President Truman yesterday had the following White House appointment list:

10 a. m.—Cabinet.

11—Budget Director James E. Webb.

11:30—George Hamilton Combs, former Congressman from Missouri

11:45—Frank A. Waring, chairman Philippine War Damage Commission.

12:30—William D. Rawley, U. S. Ambassador to Brazil.

12:45—Maj. Gen. Kenneth J. Cramer of National Guard Bureau.

The Gallup Poll

One Out of Four Can't Name Official U. S. National Anthem

By George Gallup

Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., July 18.—Let alone knowing the words, one out of every four Americans cannot correctly name the national anthem of his country.

In a recent survey by the Intute 74 per cent of a nation-wide cross-section of voters could give the correct answer; 11 per cent gave a wrong answer in spite of all the singing of patriotic songs during four years of war, and 15 per cent admitted they did not know that it is the "Star Spangled Banner."

Despite similar sporadic attempts to replace it with another song, the same survey found that "Star Spangled Banner" is still a popular favorite among the country's patriotic tunes. It is tied with a relative newcomer, "God Bless America," the Irving Berlin song made popular by Kate Smith during the war. Women show a slight preference for the Berlin song. Answering the question: "Which ONE of these five songs do you like best?", the voters came through with the following percentages:

Star Spangled Banner	31%
God Bless America	31
My Country 'Tis of Thee	18
America the Beautiful	13
Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean	5
No Choice	2

Backed by fewer than one out of three voters as the best of the lot, the "Star Spangled Banner" does have this advantage: it is backed by an act of Congress (1931) giving it official standing.

Taft Charges Near-Filibuster In Vote Inquiry

By The Associated Press

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) accused Democrats yesterday of staging a "near filibuster" in the Senate to block action on a congressional investigation of alleged Kansas City, Mo., vote frauds.

Senator Capper (R., Kans.) proposed that the Senate remain in continuous session, if necessary, to assure "an investigation into the relationship between the Department of Justice and the Pendergast political machine in Kansas City."

The 82-year-old Kansas legislator, oldest in the Senate, told his colleagues:

"I see no reason why the Senate should be barred from trying to clean up a pretty sorry mess at Kansas City, just because persons high in public life might be involved."

Senator Kem (R., Mo.) has charged that United States Attorney General Tom Clark restricted the FBI in its investigation of alleged frauds in a 1946 congressional primary.

In the primary Enos Axtell, supported by President Truman, defeated Representative Roger Slaughter, for the Democratic nomination. Axtell lost in the general election.

Full Senate action on the proposed investigation ran into delay as Senator Murray (D., Mont.) held the floor with a long discussion of flood control in the Missouri Valley.

With Taft eyeing the Montana lawmaker uneasily, Senator Morse (R., Oreg.) interrupted Murray at one point and demanded to know if a filibuster was in progress.

Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich), Senate presiding officer, ruled that the question was "not proper" for him to answer.

House Unit Backs Bill Giving Italy 31 Cargo Ships

By The Associated Press

The House Commerce Committee yesterday approved legislation to give Italy 31 merchant ships as compensation for an equal number of vessels lost or seized in the war.

The bill, already approved by the Senate, also provided for return of 60 million dollars in wartime-seized Italian property after deductions of amounts necessary to meet the claims of United States citizens who suffered losses in Italy during the war.

Backed by the Administration as part of a program to stabilize Italy against Communist pressures, the legislation restores 13 Italian ships now in American hands.

It also makes good the loss, from surplus Liberty ships, of 18 other vessels which were seized but sunk while in wartime service.

The new $3,300,000 Anacostia Telephone Building and equipment begins operation... a great step forward in providing more and better telephone service for Southeast Washington

HERE'S good news for thousands of people who have been waiting for telephone service! Good news, too, for many of our present subscribers whose lines are being transferred to this dial office.

Our new dial center at 28th and N Streets, S.E., will be placed in operation at midnight tonight. To many of our present customers it will bring the finest dial service available. And within the next few weeks it will enable us to provide service for thousands who have been waiting for telephones.

Opening this new dial center will not mean that everyone in Southeast Washington can get telephone service immediately. There's still a lot of installation work to be done, and numerous cable rearrangements to be made.

But the Anacostia Building is a great step forward. It means that more than fifteen thousand customers will soon hear those welcome words—"Your new telephone is now in service."

IMPORTANT!

Many telephone numbers will be changed when the new Anacostia dial center goes into effect at midnight tonight.

After that time please use the new (June, 1947) telephone directory exclusively, and dispose of your old directory to avoid accidental use and possible wrong numbers. This is especially important when calling the following central office designations:

Methodists Buy Wheaton Chapel Site

The Methodist Church headquarters of this area has bought a lot in the new building development at Plyers Mill rd. and Georgia ave., Wheaton, Md.

According to Dr. Ralph Dela Smith, superintendent of the Washington West Methodist District, a chapel soon will be built on the site and a pastor called.

"We feel there is a great opportunity for the church's work in this area," Dr. Smith said, "since the closest Methodist church is Woodside, in Silver Spring. We are hoping to find a house for a parsonage in the new Wheaton development."

Looking ahead, the Methodists have also bought a lot at Grubb rd. and East-West highway, Rock Creek Forest, where a Methodist church will be started in the near future.

Church Gets 2 Memorials

Concordia Lutheran Evangelical Church, 1920 G st. nw., will dedicate two memorial windows at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

The windows were given in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Beyer. Mrs. Byer died in 1924, and Mr. Beyer died recently at the age of 93. The family has been active in Concordia Church affairs for many years. Mr. Beyer was interested in the welfare and missionary activities of the church, and attended church regularly until a few weeks before his death.

Dr. Charles Enders, pastor, will conduct the dedication service, and will preach on "Faith Removes Fear."

First Congregational

The Rev. Hubert S. Beckwith will preach tomorrow at 11 a. m. at First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw., on "The Twin Impostors."

Vestry Bylaw Bill Is Signed By President

President Truman yesterday signed Senate Bill 1402—permitting Washington Episcopal Diocesan parishes to establish their own bylaws regarding election of vestrymen.

Since Washington parishes were once under the Church of England, the ancient Maryland Vestry Act controlled vestry elections for 150 years.

Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) introduced the bill at the request of the Right Rev. Angus Dun, Bishop of the Washington Episcopal Diocese.

Bishop Dun explained at that time that the old system of first "voting off" four members of the vestry and then electing four members created a "psychological handicap," because there is strong pressure to reelect the vestrymen who have been "voted out."

He said it tends to "freeze the vestry membership" and to "discourage reasonable rotation and a reasonable opportunity for younger men."

The new law allows Episcopal parishes and separate congregations to adopt their own bylaws fixing the number of vestrymen, length of terms and manner of electing them.

The Maryland Vestry Act was adopted by the Maryland Legislature in 1798, when the District of Columbia was a part of Maryland. This act was not repealed when the 1901 District Code was drafted.

Summer Devotion Services Sunday At Catholic U.

The annual summer session devotion to Our Lady of Mount Carmel will be held tomorrow at 11 a. m. in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, Catholic University.

There will be a mass celebrated according to the Ancient Carmelite Rite of the Holy Sepulchre. The services will open with a procession from McMahon Hall, with priests of the Dominican, Franciscan, Augustinian and Carmelite Orders bearing a statue of Our Lady of Mount Carmel.

The Very Rev. Patrick Russell, O. Carm., prior provincial of the Eastern Carmelite Province of New York City, will celebrate the mass. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Quentin J. Duncan, O. Carm., professor of homiletics at Mount Carmel College, Niagara Falls, Ontario. The White Friars Hall choir will lead singing.

William Bond, well-known Washington layman, yesterday was elected secretary of the Youth for Christ International Organization, at its conference at Winona Lake, Ind.

Dr. Clark to Preach

"The Essential Test of Religion" will be Dr. Edward O. Clark's sermon topic tomorrow at 9 a. m. and 11 a. m. at Chevy Chase Baptist Church. The Rev. Charles R. Wodson, assistant pastor, will preach to the Junior Church.

Church News and Views

Dr. John Briggs to Observe Triple Anniversary Tomorrow

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

Dr. John E. Briggs, pastor of Temple Baptist Church and who will mark a triple anniversary tomorrow, has one of the greatest pastoral records in Washington.

During a 50-year ministerial career here and elsewhere, Dr. Briggs claims to have made 75,000 pastoral calls, received more than 5000 persons into church membership, conducted 2500 funerals, "and climbed enough stairs to take me to the moon."

Briggs

Vincent

Dr. Briggs at 11 a. m. will observe the fourth anniversary of his ministry at Temple Church, 10th and N sts. nw., his seventy-fourth birthday, and the golden jubilee of his ordination to the ministry.

The cleric was serving a church in Atlanta, Ga., when he was called to Fifth Baptist Church, 609 E st. sw., to begin a 34-year ministry. He came out of retirement in 1943 to assume the Temple pulpit.

Proving that he still has "plenty on the ball," Dr. Briggs has welcomed 590 persons into membership at Temple Church, helped the congregation liquidate its debt, and also led a drive that raised $100,000 toward a proposed new edifice at 16th and Juniper st. nw.

"My advice to anyone considering the ministry is to preach, if you feel that God has called you, but not otherwise," commented Dr. Briggs yesterday in an interview.

The problems and services of a minister are difficult and complicated, but there are many compensations. I not only feel that God calls a man to preach, but calls him to prepare to preach. On leaving the bank where I was assistant cashier at the age of 19, I pursued eight years of uninterrupted study and feel that it was time well spent, for the exacting duties of a minister of this age."

PASTOR ADMONISHED

The Rev. William Nesbit Vincent, former Navy chaplain and pastor of Eastern Presbyterian Church, recently hailed a cab to hurry to a ball game at Griffith Stadium. During the course of the ride, the driver discovered he was carrying a clergyman. Not far from the destination, the driver pulled the cab up to a curb and said to his passenger:

"I'm glad to hear you're a clergyman. You see, I am studying to be an evangelist. I wouldn't go to that ball game, if I were you. There are too many sinners in there!"

NEW CIVITAN CHAPLAIN

The Rev. Oris G. Robinson, pastor of Calvary Methodist Church, has been appointed chaplain of Civitan Club International.

Mr. Robinson has been chaplain of the Washington Civitan Club since 1944 and Calvary's pastor since 1938. He is a graduate of Johns Hopkins University and Westminster (Md.) Theological Seminary. From 1944 to 1946 he was president of the Board of Child Care, Baltimore Conference; he helped start this board and was its first president.

Last summer the cleric visited the Methodist Institute in Germany to study conditions and report on such to the Methodist Board. As Civitan International chaplain, he will write a monthly column for the Civitan Magazine and counsel the various clubs throughout America.

MISSOURI SYNOD DELEGATES

Several Washington area clergymen will attend the fortieth national convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio, and other States, opening tomorrow at the Palmer House, Chicago. The Missouri Synod includes churches in almost every State in the Union.

Dr. William F. Bruening, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, 16th and Gallatin sts. nw., is a member of the Synodical Press Committee. The Rev. Edwin Pieplow, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Mount Rainier, will be a pastoral delegate. Dr. J. Frederic Wenchel, pastor-emeritus of Christ Lutheran Church, also will attend.

The Rev. Nathaniel Acton, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, College Park, is confined to the parsonage with a severe bronchial complaint. He contracted the ailment while serving at the Washington Episcopal Diocesan youth camp at Shrinemont, Orkney Springs, Va., from where he returned last week.

Two Ministers To Speak on Air

The Rev. Otto C. Schuetze, pastor of Bethesda's Christ Lutheran Church, will speak on WRC's "Look to This Day" program Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 12:15 to 12:30 p. m. The Federation of Churches sponsors the program.

Dr. Oscar F. Blackwelder, pastor of Reformation Lutheran Church, will speak on WMAL's "Sunday Vespers" tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. over a national hookup.

Services Sunday At Lincoln Park

The Rev. James A. Dudley, pastor of Epworth Methodist Church, will address services tomorrow at 4 p. m. in Lincoln Park, 13th and East Capitol sts. The services are sponsored by the churches of Northeast and Southeast Washington and the Central YMCA. Mrs. Margaret R. Moffat is organist.

Service Center Will Carry On Indefinitely

The Lutheran Service Center at 736 Jackson pl. nw., plans to continue its program indefinitely, the Rev. Robert E. Van Deusen, director, stated last night.

One of the few servicemen's projects still functioning two years after the war's end, it now serves as a social, recreational and cultural center for veterans, service personnel and Government workers.

"We welcome all, regardless of creed," says Mr. Van Deusen, pointing out that since the center opened in March, 1944, 200,000 persons have attended, including 125,000 servicemen. Its present facilities include recreation rooms, canteen, lounges, a "dorm" for men, check rooms, room referral service and personal counseling.

The Service Center Building houses the offices of Dr. Gould J. Wickey, executive secretary of the United Lutheran Church's board of education, and of the Rev. Carl Plack, institutional chaplaincy consultant of the National Lutheran Council. Mr. Van Deusen is also Washington public relations consultant of the National Lutheran Council. Dr. J. Frederic Wenchel, pastor emeritus of Christ Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, is the center's associate director. The Service Center Building was occupied by President Theodore Roosevelt while the White House was being remodeled.

J. M. Dawson To Be Speaker In Copenhagen

Dr. James M. Dawson of Washington, executive secretary of the American Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs, will leave by plane Monday for Copenhagen, Denmark, to address the Baptist World Congress. His topic will be "The United Nations from a Christian Viewpoint." He will speak tomorrow at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. at Takoma Park Baptist Church, Piney Branch rd. and Aspen st. nw.

The Rev. Thomas Steen, director of the Washington Federation of Churches' Christian Education Department, has arrived in Oslo, Norway, for the World Christian Youth Conference.

Dr. Ralph Dela Smith, superintendent of the Washington West Methodist District, will spend part of his vacation at the National Rural Conference of Town and Country Work, July 29-31, at Lincoln, Nebr. From there he and his wife will travel to her home in Gothenberg, Nebr.

Dr. Edward Hughes Pruden, pastor of First Baptist Church, sailed Thursday on the Queen Elizabeth for Copenhagen, Denmark, where he will address the Baptist World Congress on "The World Responsibility of Baptists for the Maintenance and Extension of Freedom."

Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, pastor of Foundry Methodist Church and former Senate chaplain, and Mrs. Harris are vacationing at Cape May, N. J.

Chaplain of Navy Writes 3-Volume History of Corps

Navy Chaplain Clifford M. Drury is writing a story of the Navy Chaplaincy Corps.

The book, being prepared under Navy sponsorship, will include two volumes about the history of the corps, while the third volume will be biographical. The name of the publisher has not been announced.

Chaplain Drury, of the Naval Reserve, is serving this summer in the Navy Chief of Chaplains office, during a vacation from his duties as professor of church history at San Francisco (Presbyterian) Theological Seminary, Anselmo, Calif. During World War II, Chaplain Drury was District Chaplain of the Potomac River Naval Command, and served one term as president of the Army-Navy Chaplains' Association. He will speak at 11 a. m. tomorow at Arlington Presbyterian Church.

Takoma Park Boy Scout Troop Seeks 'God, Country' Award

Schearrer

Fraser

Members of Boy Scout Troop 33 at Takoma Park Presbyterian Church are working like beavers to perform some service for the congregation.

The lads have their sights aimed at the "God and Country" award recently instituted by the Boy Scouts of America.

To win this new award—on a plane with the Eagle Scout honor—a Scout must give 150 hours of stewardship to his church; must know his Bible; must attend church and Sunday School regularly, and must know the history of his congregation and denomination.

In the Catholic and Jewish faiths, the title of the religious award is different but the requirements are basically similar.

Some of the Scouts at the Takoma Park Church help at the Daily Vacation Bible School and assist in folding and mailing the church paper to its subscribers.

He taught a beginners' class in the Vacation Bible School; helped build sandboxes for the children, and performed other tasks. He is a member of the intermediates' Sunday School class at the Takoma church; is an eighth grade student at Paul Junior High School and a Second Class Scout.

Present Scoutmaster of Troop 33 is Edmund Fraser of 216 Maple ave., Takoma Park. Fraser, 36-year-old member of a maintenance crew for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., yesterday recalled having started in Scout work in 1926 at Takoma Park Church. Louis Flagg, chairman of the church troop committee, is an Eagle Scout of long standing. The "God and Country" award project is supervised by E. Claude Smith.

Dr. MacCracken New Secretary Of Christian, Jew Conference

Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, president emeritus of Vassar College, has been appointed general secretary of the executive committee of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, according to an announcement by Dr. Everett R. Clinchy, conference president.

McCracken

As general secretary, the noted educator will relieve President Clinchy of certain administrative duties, thus enabling the latter to devote his entire time to consolidating the national and international expansion of the conference.

A native of Toledo, Ohio, Dr. MacCracken is a graduate of New York University and received the degree of doctor of philosophy from Harvard University in 1906.

Prominent in educational fields, Dr. MacCracken was an instructor in English in the Syrian Protestant College; assistant professor of English from 1910 to 1913 in the Sheffield School of Yale University; professor of English at Smith College from 1913 until 1915, when he became president of Vassar College, a post he held until his retirement in 1946.

The author of several books, Dr. MacCracken was cochairman of the first International Conference of Christians and Jews, which was held in Oxford last summer.

Brown to Speak At Cathedral

The Rev. Crawford W. Brown, former chief of chaplains of the Veterans Administration, will speak tomorrow at 11 a. m. at the Washington Cathedral.

"Living Your Religion" will be the theme. The service will be broadcast over WINX. Maj. Johnstone Beech, Army chaplain and veteran of the European campaign, will speak at 4 p. m. Mr. Brown and Chaplain Beech are summer members of the cathedral clergy staff.

Court Upholds Obold Will Giving Church $20,000

The United States Court of Appeals this week affirmed a District Court decision upholding the will of a retired painting contractor, who left most of his $20,000 estate for a new Catholic church.

The late William X. Obold, who died in June, 1945, at 69, left the bulk of his estate to the late Archbishop Michael J. Curley for erection of a church near Mr. Obold's former home near Landover, Md.

Three sons had contested the will on grounds that the father was mentally incompetent to make a will, and that the will offered for probate was not executed and attested as required by law. The Appellate Court held that the jury correctly found Mr. Obold was of sound mind and that the will represented his wishes in the disposition of his estate.

Chapel and Manse To Be Started

Arlington County officials this week issued building permits to Grace Evangelical and United Brethren Church for a chapel at 2429 North Glebe rd. and a parsonage at 2421 North Glebe rd. The chapel will cost $40,000 and the manse $20,000.

Montgomery Plans Record Road Building

Montgomery County road construction will reach an all-time high for any one year this year with a new type of construction being used, County Supervisor Irving G. McNayr said yesterday.

Work already has started on improving 10 miles of road, with completion scheduled within a month and a total of 23 miles of roads is expected to be built this year.

In addition, the supervisor said, he plans to ask the county commissioners to appropriate $100,000 for reconstruction and widening of all bridges in the county. A survey of county bridges has been ordered and will start next week.

Under the new plan, McNayr said, existing road beds are graded and receive a base of stone and dirt, mixed thoroughly to a depth of 6 inches. After rolling, a layer of blue stone is placed on top and rolled providing an all-weather road for about two years, when it will receive a permanent macadam surface.

This type of road can be built at a cost of $13,000 a mile as compared with $23,000 a mile for a macadam road. The new plan is impracticable in the suburban area due to the large amount of traffic and resultant dust.

Many roads will be widened to 16 feet with a four-foot shoulder on each side. At present many county roads are only 10 feet wide.

Funds for the construction will come from a $431,000 bond issue authorized by the former county board of commissioners, McNayr said.

English Girls Wave Farewells to U. S. Fleet

Portsmouth, England, July 18 (AP).—United States warships carrying Annapolis midshipmen on a training cruise sailed homeward from Portsmouth today while crowds of girls waved farewells—some tearful—from the docks.

An American fleet band played "The Girl I Left Behind Me" as the battleships Wisconsin and New Jersey and the Carrier Randolph departed after a 10-day visit.

Stores Lauded For Stand on Md. Sales Tax

The head of the Maryland retail sales tax division last night praised District department stores for deciding to assist Maryland in the collection of the new State "use tax."

Walter E. Kennedy, sales tax chief, when informed in Baltimore of the local decision, said that he was "very much pleased to learn that the District merchants are going to register under the act. It will make the administration of this act much more pleasant," he said.

The department store group of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, which includes the nine largest department stores, met Thursday to consider the problem.

It then announced that it was deemed "expedient and necessary to charge their Maryland customers the 2 per cent use tax on all applicable merchandise which they (the merchants) were required to deliver into Maryland, as required by the Maryland tax law."

The group said that no tax will be charged, however, "on merchandise purchased in Washington stores by Maryland customers and taken from the stores by such customers, as such tax must be paid by the customers direct to the State of Maryland."

The collections will begin "as soon as it is practical to set up the necessary procedure within the stores and to obtain the licenses required."

The association announced that the furniture store group and some appliance stores have decided to follow the department store policy. Building supply, coal and oil heating dealers previously announced they would begin collecting the tax on deliveries into Maryland.

Kennedy said over 200 license applications have been received from District dealers. He said more than 40,000 dealers have requested licenses and applications are still arriving at the rate of 200 to 300 a day.

Printing of the tax regulations and monthly report forms will be completed next week, Kennedy said. He will be at the District Board of Trade office Tuesday all day beginning at 10 a. m. to answer questions by dealers, he said.

Probe Would Please Buyers

Members of the Washington Committee for Consumer Protection yesterday said they were very pleased with the action of the Senate Banking Committee and Senator Baldwin (R., Conn.) favoring investigation of the rising cost of living.

Leaders in the "Don't Buy Meat Week" campaign declared that the proposed investigation by a subcommittee of the Joint Economic Committee was "the sort of thing we hoped to precipitate."

A woman member of the consumer committee said the group would lend its support to any congressional action.

More than 200 volunteer workers distributed leaflets yesterday asking consumers to buy no meat at approximately 40 Greater Washington shopping centers. At the same time, the delegation stationed at retail stores secured signatures on a petition asking a Congressional investigation of the meat price situation.

Hunters Bag Hawk In University Library

Chicago, July 18 (AP).—Their marksmanship considerably improved after a night of practice, custodians at the University of Chicago today successfully bagged a hawk which for three days had lived in the vaulted ceiling of the university's law library.

For three hours yesterday the bird had managed to dodge air rifle pellets fired by the custodians. The pellets shattered six windows.

Today the two guards returned to the library armed with a .22-caliber pistol. The hawk ducked two shots but the third brought him down from a ledge 40 feet above the floor.

Hutchinson Stops Yanks on Two Hits

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

CLEVELAND, JULY 18.—In the loser's dressing room at Chicago the other night, Tony Zale's sad-faced brother grasped at a straw of comfort with the comment, "Well, he's still the world's champion in New York."

POVICH

That crack pointed up the absurd position of the New York Athletic Commission, which is pretending that the title didn't pass when Rocky Graziano knocked Zale out in the sixth round. In the view of Chairman Eddie Egan, Graziano exists only as a suspended fighter without a New York license and thus couldn't possibly have won anybody's title.

Maybe it was all a mirage at Chicago, and there wasn't any Zale-Graziano fight. But Referee Johnny Behr was certainly in that ring pulling somebody away from the groggy Zale before another punch killed him, and those 18,000 customers could have sworn they saw Graziano in there.

To the credit of Zale, he concedes that Graziano is champion all over the world. "And that includes my New York title," said Tony.

ROCKY'S A SURE-SHOT to get his license restored in New York before many months. It was on flimsy evidence anyway that he was charged with failing to report an alleged $100,000 bribe offer, a commission rule violation. The chief witness against Graziano was Rocky himself, and he can be easily discredited as the blotter shows.

Any prolonged attempt to ignore Graziano as the champion will put the New York commission in an untenable position. Certainly the Nation's fans will recognize no other champion. He beat the man recognized by New York as the champion, by a six-round knockout in a bout legally sanctioned by the Illinois commission, and the fact that he was under suspension in New York will not remove Rocky's victory from the record books.

But Chairman Eagan isn't expected to hold out long against Graziano. The fact is that Eagan has political ambitions, and hopes to run for Governor some day.

The commission chairmanship was the springboard for Jim Farley's successful plunge into politics, you remember, and Eagan fancies himself as gubernatorial timber. Unless he reinstates Graziano, he won't get the Italian vote, without which he can't win.

ZALE IS ASSURED the first crack at Graziano as champion, but to look for the man who will ultimately beat Rocky for the title, you have to look beyond Zale.

At 33 Zale was too old the other night to battle it out successfully with the youngish Rocky, and when he had Graziano ripened for a knockout after the third round, Zale was too spent to carry on.

Any one of three other guys who get a shot at Graziano might lick him. They are Jake LaMotta, the rugged East Side neighbor of Rocky who would probably be the favorite whenever the pair of 'em steps into the ring, and Ray Robinson, the welterweight champion, and Marcel Cerdan, the hard-swinging Frenchman who has lost only one fight in almost 100 ring appearances, and that on a foul.

Robinson is the master boxer and sharpshooter, but of the trio he's probably the least likely guy to succeed Graziano as middleweight champ. Rocky has licked good boxers all his life, with his ability to take it, and then hand it out.

Men in his own welterweight class have had Robinson on the deck, and he may not belong in there with Graziano's kind of punching.

CERDAN IS THE great unknown quantity of the middleweight division. In his two American fights, he scraped past Georgie Abrams and knocked out Harold Green and was impressive with both. He throws more punches than Graziano and hard ones. A Graziano-Cerdan fight would be a brawl in the image of the last Zale-Graziano affair.

It's LaMotta, though, who will probably take Graziano's title the night he gets a shot at it. LaMotta's left hook is the most fulsome weapon in the prize ring in these latter days, excepting only Joe Louis' knockout punch.

Joltin' Jake pulverizes and has a great zest for the business of trading punches and he would like to lay his head on Rocky's shoulder and blaze away inside.

But Graziano, who wears no man's collar nor any man's necktie for that matter, say's he'll fight LaMotta or anybody else. With characteristic bravado, Rocky says, "I used to beat Jake every day in the streets, and I'm a better fighter these days."

Nats Trail Indians in Fifth, 3 to 0

By a Post Reporter

Cleveland, July 18.—The Cleveland Indians were leading Washington's Senators by a score of 3-0 in the fifth inning of tonight's game.

The Indians' first fit of the ball game produced three runs and set them up in a 3-0 lead in the second inning. It was a bases-full double by Pitcher Don Black.

Early Wynn encouraged trouble for himself when he walked both Boudreau and Robinson to start the inning. He fanned Joe Gordon, and Keltner was thrown out by Yost.

But with first base open, the Nats purposely passed Jim Hegan to pitch to Black who whacked a line-drive two-bagger down the right field line, scoring all three runners.

The Nats didn't get their first hit until Evans singled past Boudreau with one out in the third. He took second on a wild pitch, but Early Wynn fanned and Yost grounded out.

Black held the Nats to two hits during the first five innings to protect his 3-0 lead. Buddy Lewis opened the fourth with a single and reached third base with two out but Stan Spence took a third strike.

Best Horses Expected for Potomac Show

Indications are that the Potomac Hunt Club's annual horse show to take place Sunday at the club's kennels, Potomac, Md., will attract a fine entry of top mounts from a wide area.

Invaders will meet stiff opposition from the local jumper favorites which include Mrs. August Kramm and her famed Rocksie, Al Earnest's consistent Dickie Boy, Mrs. Gardner Hallman's Gray Lark, Robert C. Lee's Bonne Fille, Jane Pohl's veteran leaper, Fitzrada; W. C. Viar's Hi-Jack and Altitude, J. F. McCauley's Spin Boy and Gay Lady, Mrs. Stedman Teller's Gracias.

Also J. B. Bland's Greystone, Dr. Lowe's Sanoj, Leon Greenaway's Irish jumper Glocca Morra, Suitland Stables' Doodles, R. R. Groves' Dandy and Mr. Taylor, Major General Crane's Tarlac, George Speleos' Grey Wing, Dr. "Pete," Moran's Donald Duck, Fred J. Hughes, jr.'s Ta-Tu and Sam Bogley's Ringmaster.

Making the going tough for visiting hunters will be Admiral and Mrs. Forrest Sherman's Beale Walk, Mr. and Mrs. George Mueller's Imp. Ballela, George Plummer's Her Time, Dorothy Fred's P. D. Q., Mrs. Gary's Tom Tom, William Gary's Jerry, June Martyn's Blonde Reel.

Also Colonel Sager's Polly's Poll, Marbert Farm's Ferry Landing and Sherwood, Ballantrae's Lucretia, The Squire and Aristocrat, Mrs. Frank Christmas' After Dark, Chaplain Walsh's Be Fit, Mrs. Fred J. Hughes, jr.'s San-D and Fred D. Hughes, jr.'s Stuart.

American Finals Assured in Paris

Paris, July 18 (AP).—Doris Hart of Miami, Fla., and Mrs. Patt Todd of Hidden Valley, Calif., Wimbledon doubles champions, reached the finals of the French International Tennis Tournament today by defeating Joy Cannon and Jeanne Querter of Britain, 10—8, 6—2, in a semifinal match lasting a full hour.

Margaret Osborne of San Francisco and Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., defending champions, who lost in the finals at Wimbledon, followed their recent conquerors into the All-American finals by breezing past Jadwiga Jedrzejowska of Poland and Mrs. Magda Rurak of Romania, 6—1, 6—2. The four American stars also are the only survivors in the women's singles division.

Wichita Skipper Snipe Champion

Marblehead, Mass., July 18 (AP).—Ted Wells of Wichita, Kans., won the National snipe class sailing championships today with a total score of 7410 points for the five races.

With the championship went the honor of representing the United States in the International snipe class championship races at Geneva, Switzerland, next month.

The runnerup was Jack Wirt of Miami, Fla., who piled up 7080 points with Don Hayward of Tulsa, Okla., third with 6802.

Duffy's Tavern Wins Again, 7-6

Duffy's Tavern continued unbeaten by defeating Sunnybrook, 7-6, yesterday in a Post Industrial Baseball League game at the West Ellipse.

Don Hillock and Briden Baker shared honors for the victors, Hillock getting a home run and a triple in four trips. Baker fanned seven and rapped two hits in three tries.

Calvert, Seibold Tie On Local Links at 80

Mrs. G. W. Calvert and Mrs. C. T. Seibold yesterday finished in a two-way tie for first place with 80's in the Women's Friday Tournament at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

There were three women tided for second place honors, all carding 82's.

Old Doc Roe, 64, Mows 'em Down 9 Innings, Wins, 4-3

Viola, Ark., July 18 (U.P.).—Except for one man, the Viola and Salem, Ark., baseball teams were ready for the umpire to start the game. Viola's "imported" pitcher hadn't reported.

So the Viola manager called a graying 64-year-old man from the stands. He was Dr. C. E. Roe, a practicing physician. At first he shook off the pleas that he pitch. He had no spiked shoes and no uniform.

Finally he walked out to the mound in his shirt sleeves and his dress suit pants.

For nine innings the 64-year-old toiled. As inning after inning passed, the crowd roared its approval for Old Doc Roe was pitching himself out of the tight spots caused by four costly Viola errors.

His high hard one had zip and his curve snapped nicely. When the final score was posted, it was Viola 4-3 and Old Doc had struck out 14 while allowing only two hits. None of Salem's three runs was earned.

Roe pitched semipro ball until he was well into his 50s but an automobile accident eight years ago ended—he thought—his baseball. His appearance against Salem was the first since that accident.

International Race . . .

It Looks Easy for Assault Today in $100,000 Gold Cup

By Sid Feder

New York, July 18 (AP).—Racing takes its first long jump toward a "world series" tomorrow in the $100,000 Empire City International Gold Cup at Belmont—and Assault figures to waltz past the two South American champions and five domestic gallopers.

Through steamed-up interest, the event gave indications of getting so big the Empire City bosses had to move this finale of their meeting to Belmont's spacious layout to handle the customers.

They expect some 50,000 fans to sit in on this mile-and-a-half grind, which has attracted Endeavour II from Argentina, and Ensueno from Brazil, along with Assault and Stymie, the world's top two money winners; Phalanx, the head man of the 3-year-olds, and Gallorette, second highest winner of her sex in history.

There are, too, Talon, another from South America, who has been racing here for close to a year, and Natchez, owned by Mrs. Walter Jeffords of Philadelphia. But these two figure to be just out enjoying the Belmont breezes when they face the starter at 4:45 p. m. (EDT).

There were supposed to be a pair from England—owned by the Maharajah of Baroda—and Djelal from France, as well. However, they declined.

Assault already holds one world championship—the money-earning record. He recaptured it a week ago in the Butler Handicap to boost his bank account to $613,370. He toted 135 pounds then, which means he'll have 9 less—126—to carry tomorrow under the weight-for-age conditions of the Gold Cup with $74,000 going to the winner.

Phalanx Dark Horse

Chief dark horse is Phalanx, who can set fire to a stretch with the best of them, and who gets in with practically no load this time. He has to carry a mere 110 pounds as a 3-year-old. This is a full pound less than he toted to win the 1½-mile Belmont Stakes over this same track.

The South Americans, of course, are far more accustomed to distance than dashes; anything less than 1½ miles is considered a short stroll. The giant Endeavour won his last six in Argentina, the last one by some 10 lengths after stumbling at the start.

In contrast to Endeavour's sprints Ensueno is strictly a front-runner who gets out there a-winging and then dares the others to come and get him. Both he and Endeavor will be piloted by their favorite jockeys.

One Foreigner Bows

New York, July 18 (AP).—Diesel II, flown across the Atlantic only last Monday, finished 40 lengths off the pace today as a two-day international racing program opened at Belmont Park.

Diesel II, starting outside the gate because of his unfamiliarity with the device, got away next to last and faded back in the first quarter mile while the Bermill Stable's Bug Juice clattered through the mile and a furlong of the Invaders' Handicap in 1:50 to pay $12.40.

Graziano, Zale Sought Here

The District of Columbia boxing commission announced last night that Promoter Goldie Ahearn has entered a bid for a rubber match here between Rocky Graziano and Tony Zale for the world middleweight title.

Graziano won the title from Zale in a six-round technical knockout in Chicago Wednesday night. Zale stopped Graziano in New York in six rounds about a year ago.

The District commission said that if the match is held here, it will be in the new armory, which is being made available for major sports events with a seating capacity of about 16,000.

Brigadier General Albert L. Cox, commanding the D. C. National Guard, said "the Armory is ideally suited for such an event and on account of the vast size of the building it is feasible to stage there only topnotch title bouts that will fill the arena. We would welcome a Zale-Graziano bout."

Zaharias, Kielty Play Finals Today

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 18 (AP).—Defending Champion Babe Didrikson Zaharias of Denver and Dorothy Kielty of Los Angeles won their way to tomorrow's finals of the Broadmoor Women's Invitational Golf Tournament today.

The belting Babe moved into the finals with an impressive 6 and 5 victory over Mrs. Patty Blandon of Enid, Okla., while Miss Kielty advanced by ousting Mrs. George Noble of Dallas, Tex., 8 and 7.

Saturday's match over the 36-hole route will be a replay of the 1945 title encounter which saw Mrs. Zaharias defeat Miss Kielty, 6 and 4.

Mrs. Zaharias won the title for the second time last year by defeating Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex.

Branca Blanks Cardinals, 7-0, For Dodgers

Brooklyn, July 18 (AP).—Ralph Branca, 21-year-old right-hander, pitched seven perfect innings before giving up a hit to Enos Slaughter, leading off the eighth for St. Louis, and went on to blank the Cardinals for Brooklyn, 7-0, tonight.

Ed Stanky, with two doubles and a triple, and Jackie Robinson, with a home run and single, led the Dodger attack.

Boys Leading Brooklyn, 12-2

The Washington Boys' Club all-stars were leading the Brooklyn all-stars, 12-2, last night at Griffith Stadium in the fourth inning of the second annual Touchdown and Optimist Police Boys Club benefit game.

Tom Evans, local starting hurler didn't give the boys from Brooklyn a hit in his three-inning term, fanning six. Three errors in the first frame, coupled with his only walk, gave the visitors their pair o ftallies.

The locals scored three off Pat McLaughlin, Brooklyn hurler, in the first and added one more in the second. Against Bill Donovan in the fourth, they broke loose for six hits sandwiched around three errors and three walks for eight runs, with Bob Johnson's two-run triple high-lighting the frame.

Morgan's Yacht Winner—or Is It?

Honolulu, July 18 (AP).—Hollywood actor-yachtman Frank Morgan and his 70-foot schooner, Dolphin II, looked like winners today in the colorful California-to-Hawaii yacht race.

But Bill Stewart, jr., of Los Angeles, commodore of the Transpacific Yacht Club, had established his yawl, Chubasco, as the fastest boat in the fleet.

Chubasco crossed the brilliantly lighted finish line at 1:58 a. m., yesterday, well ahead of all rivals, but Morgan and his Dolphin sailed into the lead on a handicap basis 10 hours later. None had appeared this morning to challenge his right to the Governor of Hawaii cup which goes to the victor.

But Morgan must sweat it out for two days more at least before the result is certain. For, the white sails of a speedy but smaller yacht with a big handicap may appear at any time to drive for the finish line and claim the cup.

Silver Streaks Win, 16-1, on No-Hitter

Silverman's Silver Streaks defeated Crummel, 16-1, yesterday at Crummel in a Walter Johnson Baseball School game.

Francis Chese hurled a no-hitter for the victors, the only run coming on an error. The victory left the Silver Streaks undefeated in the National League.

Navy Swim Postponed

Shanghai, July 18 (AP).—Diving competition in the all-Navy swimming meet for Western Pacific forces were postponed today until Sunday, when a team from the Marianas forces will compete with the group assembled by the Shanghai YMCA.

Gold Cup Field Today

New York, July 18 (AP).—Following is the field for tomorrow's first running of the Empire City Gold Cup, $100,000 added, one mile and five eighths, showing post positions, horses, weights, owners, jockeys and probably odds:

PP	Horse	Jockey	P. O.	Wt.	Owner
1	Talon	H. Allgaier	50-1	126	R. N. Ryan
2	Assault	E. Arcaro	1-1	126	Robert J. Kleberg, jr.
3	Phalanx	R. Donoso	6-1	110	C. V. Whitney-Abe Hewitt
4	Stymie	C. McCreary	7-2	126	Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs
5	Gallorette	E. Guerin	10-1	121	W. L. Brann

7	Endeavor II	J. Artigas	10-1	126	Jorge de Atucha
8	Ensueno	F. Irigoyen	8-1	126	Nelson Seabra

Gross Value—$110,100.
Net to winner (8 starts)—$74,000.

19-Game Win Streak Ends in 8-0 Defeat

Detroit, July 18 (AP).—Right-hander Freddie Hutchinson put an emphatic end to the New York Yankees' winning streak at 19 games today by blanking the Bombers, 8 to 0, on two hits.

The Yankees, who have been knocking the socks off pitchers for more than two weeks, were held to a pair of singles by Hutchinson. One of those hits was a bunt.

Hutchinson's near-perfect game squelched the Yankees' bid for a new American League record of 20 consecutive victories.

Hutchinson, who faced only 28 men—one more than the minimum—hadn't started a game in a month because of an ailing shoulder but had everything he needed today, and then some.

DiMaggio Gets a Real Hit

He struck out eight men and walked none as the Yanks hit only five balls out of the infield in their futile twilight bid for the record.

Hutchinson himself, with two doubles and a single, got more hits than he gave the Yanks, and the Tigers put together their wildest hitting day of the season to register 18 safeties off the combined pitching of Randy Gumpert and Karl Drews.

Joe DiMaggio's sharp single to left in the second inning, when he was promptly erased in a double play, was New York's only hit until George (Snuffy) Stirnweiss beat out a bunt to the right of the mound leading off the seventh. Stirnweiss never got past first and he was the only runner the Yanks left on base.

Gumpert Is Batted Out

The Tigers, eager to humiliate the Yankees as partial atonement for New York's wide first place margin, scored twice in the first inning on a walk and three singles, by Eddie Lake, Dick Wakefield and Walter (Hoot) Evers.

They added another in the sixth as Hutchinson knocked it across with his second two-bagger, and kayoed Gumpert to his first defeat of the season with a four-run outburst in the seventh, when Drews replaced him.

Five of the Tigers' six hits came in succession in that inning.

The setback stopped the Yankees' winning streak at 19 games, which equalled the American League record establishment by the Chicago White Sox "Hitless Wonders" in 1906, and left the Yanks 10½ games ahead of second place Detroit.

2nd Ave. Caesar

Rocky Hailed As Hometown Hero by 2000

New York, July 18 (U.P.).—Men were tossing down beers, kids were shadow-boxing on the sidewalks and the gals were wearing their diamonds again along 2nd ave. near 7th st. tonight, for the great Rocky Graziano—new middleweight champion of the world—had come home.

Center of this celebration was the 2nd ave. bar and grill, owned by Rocky's father-in-law, Nathan Moses. This tavern was the destination of the large but quite informal automobile parade that escorted the new champ from Grand Central Station after his 1 p. m. arrival from Chicago.

When Rocky stepped off the train, he was almost flabbergasted by the swirling mob of welcomers who overflowed the station platform and pressed so enthusiastically against the Pullman entrance that porters scarcely could take off the baggage, and photographers had extreme difficulty in getting shots as Graziano and his entourage tried to emerge from the car.

Welcomers Total 2000

More than 500 welcomers, including Graziano's "all-star" baseball team of the Police Athletic League, scurried and yelled in the station as they greeted the brawny belter who wrested the championship from Tony Zale at Chicago Wednesday night.

Outside the station—in placarded autos and on foot—were more than 1500 additional welcomers. Rocky, who was born Thomas Barbella, but later took the Graziano name of a grandmother, was given a vigorous Italian kiss by his father, Nick Barbello, former boxer and longshoreman.

Rocky, who had planned to have his battered eyes dressed by a physician as soon as he left the train, was half-carried to an open, beflagged car, wherein he and his wife, Norma, and his father rode at the head of the parade.

Rocky Missing

Just what happened to the champ after his arrival at the Second ave. tavern, no one in authority seemed to know. More than 1000 welcomers were waiting for the arrival of the Rock at his new home in Brooklyn, but at a late hour he hadn't shown. This crowd included reporters, photographers, movie men and even television technicians.

Co-manager Irving Cohen, who apparently had got lost in the shuffle, was busy on the telephone trying to locate his missing gladiator.

But at Second and Seventh, in the low East Side area, where Rocky had spent most of his life, the celebration continued with increasing vigor and hilarity.

Most of the fellows had fresh money in their pockets—money they had won on Wednesday's bets. Life was swell—with the Rock back "champeen."

Eagan Evades Issue

Meanwhile, Chairman Eddie Eagan of the New York Boxing Commission explained to a succession of interrogators that the commission could take no action toward giving back Rocky's license to box in the state until Graziano or his managers applied for the license.

Last Feburary the commission revoked his license because of his failure to report three bribe offers. Co-manager Cohen said today that application for the license would be made soon.

750 Horses Set For Belair Debut

Bel Air, Md., July 18 (AP).—The 750 stalls at the Bel Air Race Track are filled with thoroughbreds ready for the opening of a 10-day meeting next Wednesday, General Manager G. Ray Bryson of the Harford County Fair Association announced today.

The program includes a daily steeplechase and accommodations for 15,000 spectators are completed, Bryson added.

Ward Reaches Semifinal, 1 Up

Des Moines, July 18 (AP).—Blazing three eagles along the way, Defending Champion Frank Stranahan beat down big William (Bill) Campbell, Huntington, W. Va., 2 and 1, and Marvin (Bud) Ward toppled John Jacobs, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, 1 up, as the favorites advanced to the semifinals of the Western amateur golf tournament today.

Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, one of the game's greatest competitors, was forced to play his best golf thus far in the tournament in getting past Campbell, Princeton University's Eastern Intercollegiate champion last year.

Ward, who has won two national and two Western amateur meets, had to rally on the home stretch to oust Jacobs, Big Nine champion at Iowa University in 1946.

Semifinal foe for Stranahan in a 36-hole match tomorrow will be Thomas Sheehan of Birmingham, Mich., who won today over Veteran Joe Switzer of St. Louis, 4 and 2. Both Sheehan and Switzer are former Notre Dame stars. Ward will duel tomorrow with Robert (Bob) Willits, the soft-spoken, handsome Kansas City lad, who whipped Robert Cardinal of San Francisco, a Stanford University ace last year, 2 and 1.

Charley Keller Has Operation

Detroit, July 18 (AP).—Manager Bucky Harris of the Yankees, said today he had been informed by Club President Larry MacPhail that Charles (King Kong) Keller had been operated upon for the removal of a disc from his spine yesterday.

Harris said the outfielder, who led the club in home runs when he was sidelined on June 6, probably would be lost to the club for the remainder of the year.

Hopkins Spurs Aldridge, 10-Year-Old, to Upset Win at Charles Town

Patched-Up Rider Beats Foul Claim

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., July 18.—A patched-up old horse and a patched-up young rider teamed to effect an upset in today's Houston Purse, featuring the Friday program.

Mrs. Carroll Bowers' Aldridge, a 10-year-old with shaky underpinnings, won by three lenghts under the riding of Apprentice Eddie Hopkins, a youth who had both legs taped as the result of a fall from a horse yesterday.

Aldridge, winning for the first time in nine starts this year, had to survive a claim of foul before his victory was complete. Apprentice Pat O'Brien, who rode N. S. Scava's Beau Wynn into second position, protested that Hopkins had blocked him directly after the start.

The stewards listened to his story and that of the patrol judge and then lighted an "official" sign, much to the disgust of fans who had made Beau Wynn the favorite in the field of eight. Third money went to Mrs. R. D. Boyd's Gallant.

Pays $12 to Win

Aldridge, winner in 9 of 33 races last year, was clocked in 1:46 2/5 for the mile and a sixteenth run over a fast, sunny track. He had only scattered backing and paid $12.

Breaking from the outside, Aldridge came around the other horses gradually and assumed the lead before the opening quarter. He was followed by Nobby and Gallant, with Outside close up. Beau Wynn, at this stage, was far back.

Along the backstretch, Aldridge drew out, Gallant supplanted Nobby in second position and Beau Wynn began to move. Beau Wynn obtained maneuvering room on the inside and was rushing up when his luck ran out and he was blocked. O'Brien took him around the tiring Nobby and set out once again after Aldridge.

In the final drive, Beau Wynn was catching up at every stride, but distance ran out on him and Aldridge slipped past the wire tired, but a winner.

He took the first with Ann O Reid's Blue Nobleman, a $3.20 shot to start a $39.60 daily double, completed when Woody Kirk booted Dr. H. B. Langdon's Some Moose to the wire at $13.20.

In the third he won as he pleased with W. C. Greer's Dawndale at $6.60 and then came back in the fourth to score with "Fred" Kirsch's Toonerville, a $6.40 shot.

Hippensteil And Freeman In Army Final

Capt. Charles Hippensteil, Sixth Army, and Lieut. Dave Freeman, Caribbean Command, yesterday won their way into the singles final of the All-Army tennis tournament at Army-Navy Country Club.

Hippensteil scored a straight set victory over Pfc. Hugh Stewart, Far East Command, 6—2, 6—2, 9—7, while Freeman turned back T/S Tom Molloy, Second Army, also in straight sets, 6—2, 7—5, 6—1.

Stewart teamed up with Capt. Elson E. Staugaard in a stirring doubles match to give Far East Command the team title with eight points and enter the championship round.

They were compelled to go five sets, comprising 54 games, to defeat Hippensteil and M/Sergt. Louis Persinger, 6—4, 6—4, 4—6, 6—8, 6—4, in a two-hour 45-minute match.

The other doubles finalists, Molloy and Capt. R. P. Evans were straight-set conquerors of Lieut. Lloyd Babcock, Army Transport Col. James W. Parsons and Capt. Command, Washington, 6—3, 6—3, 6—1.

The singles championship of the tournament, representing 19 Army service commands all over the world, will be played at 2 p. m. today, the doubles at 4. The public is invited free of charge.

Brig. Gen. Russell B. Reynolds, chief of Army Special Services, War Department, and sponsor of the event, will present the trophies immediately following the matches.

Tennis School Emphasizes Rudiments Today at 17 Sites

The Post-Recreation Department tennis school conducts its second class today, 9:30 a. m., at 17 playgrounds, with fundamentals the chief topic.

More than 1000 youngsters, 19 and under, turned out for the first session last week. The service and the forehand were stressed at that session. Tomorrow instructors will emphasize stance, grip of the racket, and so forth, because there are so many beginners among the pupils.

Three more Saturday classes are on tap after today's, July 26 and August 2 and 9. Registration is still open to all under 19 who want to improve their tennis or want to start from scratch. There is no charge.

Class locations and instructors:

Takoma-Coolidge, 4th and Underwood nw., Buddy Adair and Don Leavens.

Hillcrest, 32d and Denver se., George and Willie Herbert.

Congress Heights, 7th and Alabama se., Bill Reynolds.

Garfield, 3d and F se., Joe Jones.

Jefferson, 7th and H sw., Capt. Jim Farrin.

Montrose, 29th and R nw., Bob Threadgill.

Raymond, 10th and Spring rd. nw., Frank Shorts.

Rosedale, 17th and Gales ne., Bill Gifford.

Taft, 20th and Otis ne., Ed Richardson.

Bannecker, 9th and Euclid nw., Frank Perkins, Ted Thompson, Carl Williams and Dave Thompson.

Rose Park, 27th and P nw., Florence Barnes and Walter Bias.

Barry Farms, Nichols ave. and Howard rd. se., Wes Mitchell and Mel Lancaster.

Kelly-Miller, 49th and Washington ne., Robert Price and Richard Dempsey.

Armed Choice In Rich Race

Chicago, July 18 (AP).—Nine thoroughbreds, headed by the Calumet Farm's golden gelding, Armed, will go to the post in the $50,000 added Arlington Handicap at Arlington Park tomorrow.

Armed, carrying top impost of 130 pounds, probably will be a prohibitive favorite and will be giving away from 16 to 20 pounds against several of the nation's top ranking distance performers, including Mighty Story, Challenge Me, Eternal Raward, Pellicle and Rippey.

Armed has a triple goal:

He will be aiming at the handicap championship for 1947, and if victorious will drag down $37,900 in first money, which will move him past Whirlaway's money winning mark of $561,161 and surpass the Calumet Farm's own all-time record of earnings for one season of $601,600 established in 1944.

Indonesians Seek To Avert Dutch War

Crisis Held Nearing; Aid Asked of China, Britain, France

Batavia, Java (Saturday), July 19 (AP).—Indonesians were making strenuous efforts today to avert an outbreak of hostilities between almost 100,000 Dutch troops and twice as many armed Indonesians.

Responsibility for the next move had been passed to the Netherlands government at The Hague by Acting Governor General Hubertus J. Van Mook who had cabled his recommendations.

A. K. Gani, deputy prime minister of the Indonesian Republic, said early today his government had informally requested the British, French and Chinese consul generals to ask their governments to use their influence at The Hague to prevent an outbreak of war.

Peace Desired

"We want peace," he asserted. "War in Indonesia is absolutely unnecessary."

He suggested arbitration by a third power in event The Hague decides to break off political negotiations.

The Indonesian prime minister, Amir Sjarifoeddin declared in a radio speech that the republic was ready to issue a cease fire order on several conditions.

He said the Indonesians would order a cessation of all hostilities and unfriendly actions provided the "Dutch show an eagerness to reach a peaceful solution too."

Breaking Point Geared

Negotiations have approached a breaking point because of a dispute over police powers in a proposed interim government.

Women Voters Offer Recreation Plan at Annapolis

Annapolis, Md., July 18 (AP).—The Anne Arundel County League of Women Voters has its own plan for city recreation, with emphasis on swimming places and a recreation patrol composed of high school students.

Teen-agers in Annapolis have been bringing pressure to bear on the city fathers to get some kind of recreation program going, and the women voters have come up with a plan to be presented to the Greater Annapolis Recreation Association Tuesday.

The plan depends on the city's success in eliminiating pollution from certain streams in the vicinity.

Man Held in Death Of Child by Cruelty

Norfolk, Va., July 18 (AP).—Charged with causing the death of his 3-year-old nephew by cruelty and mistreatment, Benny Sykes, residing on Douglas rd., near the North Carolina State line in the Hickory area, is being held at the Norfolk County Jail in Portsmouth in default of $2500 bond.

The dead child, whose body was found in a bed in the Sykes home yesterday, was Marvin Andrew Proctor, son of Mrs. Mary E. Proctor. The warrant against Sykes was sworn out by Mrs. Proctor.

No date has been set today for a hearing on the charge in trial justice court.

District Budget Bill Reduced By Nearly a Million in Senate

by the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the District Commissioners should expand the staff of District Budget Officer Walter L. Fowler to keep a close check on the biggest city budget in history.

The report noted that the Senate total is more than nine million dollars over what the District had to spend in the last fiscal year ending June 30.

In other decisions, the Senate:

1. Trimmed the Health Department's operating budget by $42,000, leaving a total of two million dollars. The total includes $66,000 for a mass tuberculosis case-finding survey, $48,000 for a cancer control project, and $78,000 for remodeling the Gales school for a health clinic.

School Sites Fund Cut

2. Granted $24,033,650 for public schools. A construction fund of $3,219,230 was left untouched, but the Senate knocked out $430,000 of the House-approved $880,000 for new school sites. It also reduced the fund for school furniture and equipment from $620,600 to $600,000.

3. Chopped $716,000 from highway and sewer building programs, plus $14,000 from the sewer division's operating budget.

4. Joined with the House in giving $150,000 to continue the city's child day-care centers through next June. The Senate, however, scrapped a House rider to limit use of the centers to children in families with a total annual income of $2000 or less.

5. Restored $11,800 to run the People's Counsel office in the Public Utilities Commission. The House scrapped funds for the job, now held by John O'Dea. The total includes his and a secretary's salary.

General Cox's Pay Eliminated

6. Clipped from the bill $3600 for the annual salary of the commanding general of the District National Guard, now Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox. The reason, the committee reported, is that no legislation exists to authorize the payment.

7. Added $28,000 for extra costs in administering the District's new tax law, $21,000 for setting up photostatic recording in the Recorder of Deeds' Office, and $16,000 for the Parole Board, including money for the full-time paid member just authorized.

8. In the welfare setup, the committee said setting up a comptroller of public assistance should be done by separate legislation. Horan's group recommended setting it up, but Dworshak's group held there was no provision in the money bill to make it effective.

A $229,000 House cut in the funds for District payments to St. Elizabeths Hospital was restored by the Senate group, making the total $6,229,000. The Senate group also restored to the bill $38,994 for welfare aministration, offset by a $7300 cut in money for operating welfare institutions.

Missourian Says 'Ghost Votes' Aided Truman Nomination

ness, as almost all the voters in the boot-heel were Democrats.

Powell closed his letter to the Senators by saying:

"By this lottery the Democrats could place someone in office in as nefarious a practice as was used by Boss Tom Pendergast when he nominated Harry Truman United States Senator by the casting of 73,000 ghost votes."

Powell went back 13 years for that one.

It was in 1934 that Mr. Truman won the Democratic nomination for Senator by 42,000 votes, in a three-man race. He was backed by the Pendergast machine, which had made him a county judge in the '20s.

By the time Mr. Truman was up for reelection, in 1940, the machine was on the rocks and Boss Tom was in Leavenworth Penitentiary for income tax fraud.

The Democratic machine in those days got out the vote without schemes like the lottery Senator Donnell placed before his subcommittee yesterday.

A chance to win cost nothing; the Democrats gave one to every person who went to the polls. The prizes cost nothing; storekeepers gave them, to draw voters to town, and thus to their stores.

Partisan Row on Legality

Democratic lawyers in Missouri said the plan was legal; Republican lawyers said it was against the law.

The Missouri Senators—Kem and Donnell, Republicans both—asked that Harper's nomination be held up for a full investigation of the election lottery. Harper and the Missouri Republican chairman—Rover W. Dalton of Popular Bluff—were both asked to be here Monday afternoon.

Senator Eastland (D., Mo.) promised Dalton a warm time on the witness stand. "They claim the Democratic high command got up this scheme," said Eastland. "Well, I'm going to get him here and make him prove it."

The delay probably had scuttled Harper's nomination for the judgeship for this term.

Former Bay Steamer Under British Fire

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

COLORFUL HISTORY—The President Warfield, refugee ship attacked by British yesterday, once carried thousands of vacationists between Baltimore and Norfolk as queen of the Old Bay Line fleet. She was used in the war as an amphibious landing training ship, and took part in the Normandy invasion revolvers used by the refugees. A broadcast purportedly emanating from the ship at the time of the battle said 1 Jew was killed and 25 wounded seriously, including 5 who were dying.

Two bodies were seen on the jetty covered by bloodstained blankets.

When photographers arrived, there was a scramble aboard the 1814-ton refugee ship to put babies and women with bandaged heads at portholes closest to the cameras. A sign lashed to the stack of the steamer said, "England, This Is Your Enemy."

First Boarders Captured

Heeding a loudspeaker plea in Hebrew, "Peacefully come off your ship," some of the refugees were laughing and joking when they reached the dock.

A Jewish broadcast quoted the captain of the immigrant ship as saying the resistance continued for three hours, persisting even after the British were aboard because of a reserve wheel which had been built below.

According to the broadcast the British made two boarding attempts. The first one at 2 a. m. failed, the broadcast continued, when the passengers aboard the Exodus took the Britons prisoners. Another party of Marines came abroad again at dawn.

(Under the name President Warfield, the ship once carried thousands of vacationists between Baltimore and Norfolk as queen of pated in the Normandy invasion in the old bay line fleet. She partici- 1944 after crossing the Atlantic under her own power, and later was used on the Seine between Le Havre and Rouen as a troopship.)

There was tension in other areas of Palestine. Shops closed in the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv and young Jews patrolled the streets there halting traffic.

In Jerusalem, two general alarms were set off in less than two hours, the second one coming when two "Molotov cocktails" of flaming gasoline were thrown at a police armored car. Police said there were no casualties.

British Soldier Killed

Earlier, two soldiers were seriously injured and a Jewish civilian was wounded by automatic weapons fire directed at a military vehicle on the Jaffa road.

One British soldier was killed and three others were seriously injured when the truck in which they were riding struck a mine near Natanya.

The incident brought to 2 killed and 19 injured the casualty toll resulting from road mines since the army imposed military rule on Natanya early this week. The military clamped down to facilitate a search for two British sergeants kidnaped by Irgun Zvai Lemui and held as hostages for three condemned members of the Jewish underground.

One American Christian was found aboard. He identified himself as John Stanley Grauel, 30, of Worcester, Mass., and said he was an Episcopal minister who joined the Jewish immigration project on behalf of the American Christian-Palestine Committee. He was released pending deportation.

Grauel said Bernard Marks, 25, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and formerly of the United States Merchant Marine, had commanded the ship from France into Palestine waters and that he had been jailed.

Russia Attacks U. S. Stand On Proposal to Destroy Atoms

Lake Success, N. Y., July 18 (U.P.).—Russia charged tonight that the United States stood alone among the 12 countries of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission in refusing to agree that all atomic bombs some day must be destroyed.

The United States, refusing to indorse eventual destruction of all atomic weapons, retorted that Russia was attempting to "confuse the public" and avoid the central issues of world atomic energy control.

The two big powers clashed in the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission's working committee when Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko attempted to put on paper a majority agreement that atomic weapons should be destroyed at a time to be agreed on later.

One by one the countries which had sided with the Russian proposal in debate several days ago announced for one reason or other that they could not agree to a newly-proposed Soviet resolution providing among other things that: The treaty should provide that the nuclear fuel contained in the dismantled bombs should be used "for peaceful purposes."

American Delegate Frederick H. Osborn charged Gromyko with injecting "an air of unreality" into the atomic negotiations and charged the Soviet resolution would "confuse the public because they think destruction of bombs would bring safety."

Nuclear fuel is the danger, Osborn said, and global control of nuclear fuel is the real issue of atomic negotiations.

On the basis of the team's report the subsidiary commission decided to leave today for Ioannina, focal point of the fighting. The full group plans to study documents gathered at Ioannina by the investigating team.

Protest Greek Charges

In the closing moments of the general debate in the council, Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia protested once more against a majority report of the U. N. Balkans Commission which charged them with supporting guerilla activities in Greece. They assured the council of their good will, however.

Lange said a resolution offered by the United States would be taken up first. The United States has proposed creation of a semi-permanent Balkans commission to remain in the area but Russia, Poland, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania have expressed strong opposition to any commission. There are indications this might be vetoed by Russia.

The Soviet delegation has thrown in a strong resolution turning down the commission idea and demanding that the Greek government take measures to end the strife.

Romania Ends Immunity for Groza Critics

Bucharest, Romania, July 18 (U.P.).—Parliament voted secretly today to end the immunity of the 72-year-old Dr. Juliu Maniu, outspoken leader of the opposition National Peasant Party, and five other deputies "for plotting against the government." This means they will be arrested.

The vote—258 to 1—was taken behind closed doors on an emergency basis. As soon as the result was announced Communist Minister of Interior Tehorhari Georgescu and Communist Minister of Justice Patrascanu left the chamber. The arrests probably will take place tonight.

Dr. Maniu, fearless critic of Premier Dr. Petru Groza and his coalition cabinet, entered a sanitarium July 9. He reportedly is held incommunicado.

The other deputies liable to arrest are Aurel Leucutia, Emil Ghilezan, Gasile Serdici, Mrs. Maria Ilie Lazar, whose husband was seized Monday with 13 others as they boarded a plane, allegedly to flee the country, and Gregoire Niculescu-Buzesti, Foreign Minister in the first cabinet after the royal coup d'etat in August, 1944. The latter was said to have been in Switzerland for several months.

An estimated 80 to 100 members of the opposition National Peasant Party have been rounded up in the last several days.

(Only last month Maniu himself said hundreds of his followers had been thrown into concentration camps where they were held without charges.

(Maniu's prestige was so great even the Germans feared to arrest him. In the past he has not hesitated to call Groza a quisling in the service of Russia.

J. J. O'Connell Resigns Post At Treasury

O'Connell

President Truman accepted the resignation, tendered by letter July 8, with "keen regret."

A legal resident of Saranac Lake, N. Y., O'Connell plans to practice law in Washington.

Secretary Snyder designated Assistant General Counsel Thomas J. Lynch to serve as acting general counsel.

Lynch was a Toledo, Ohio, lawyer from 1925 to 1934, when he entered Government service. He has been with the Treasury since 1943.

President Signs Bill Designating His Replacement

By The Associated Press

President Truman yesterday signed a bill changing the 60-year-old law of succession for the Presidency and in effect designating House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr. (R., Mass.) as the No. 1 replacement for the White House.

Under the new law, Martin would become President in the event Mr. Truman does not finish his term—something Martin says he hopes will not happen.

In signing the measure, Mr. Truman achieved a goal he has sought almost since he succeeded to the Presidency upon the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt, April 12, 1945.

Two months after entering the White House, Mr. Truman asked Congress to break the old tradition of succession, declaring that "so far as possible, the office of the President should be filled by an elective officer."

Under the old law of succession, Secretary of State Marshall, an appointed officer, would have taken over the White House in case Mr. Truman did not finish his term.

Appeal Granted On Va. Dismissal Of Judgment Suit

Richmond, Va., July 18 (AP).—An appeal was granted by the State Supreme Court of Appeals today to Maud R. Duffy from an order of the Wise County Circuit Court dismissing her suit against Ruth M. Hartsock for execution of a judgment issued in August, 1928, for $8500.

The judgment was obtained against the late W. H. Hartsock, and Mrs. Harsock, who subsequently moved to Kentucky, remaining there until early in 1945. After her return to Wise County, Mrs. Duffy, to whom the judgment had been assigned, brought suit for execution and the defendant pleaded successfully in the lower court that litigation of the old judgment was barred by the 10-year statute of limitations.

Mrs. Duffy contends before the Appellate Court that the years in which Mrs. Hartsock remained out of the State should be deducted from the 10-year-period allowed for the suit.

Farm Manager, Wife Die in Flaming Plane

Wilmington, Del., July 18 (AP).—The manager of a DuPont executive's farm and the farm manager's wife died today in the flaming wreckage of a small plane.

The plane burst into flames and crashed on a farm near here. The occupants were identified by Stewart M. Ayton, manager of the DuPont Airport, as Walter L. Churchman, manager of the Andelo Farm, owned by Lammot DuPont Copeland of Worton, Md., and his wife, Muriel. The bodies were burned almost beyond recognition.

Conferees Add 100 Million To Soil Conservation Funds

close to agreement" on this item.

The House also refused to change its position on farm tenancy loans. Originally the House had declined to vote any funds for loans to help farm tenants buy their farms. The Senate had voted 20 million dollars. The House agreed yesterday to support its conferees only after Dirksen had assured it that "there will be some money for farms loans" when the final bill is agreed upon.

During the debate on the farm tenancy bill it was brought out that the recent conference of farm lending agencies called by President Truman was a flop. Representative Harold D. Cooley (D., N. C.), a farm adviser of Mr. Truman's, advised the House the conference was a "complete failure."

That was the reason, he said, that the press was barred from the meeting, and also the reason no report of the conference was ever made public. Cooley charged that the Republican members of the House Appropriations Committee had originally included 25 millions dollars in their bill for tenancy loans, but withdrew the funds after the conference because of pique over not being advised as to its results.

The measure now goes back again to conference with the Senate.

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

Federal jobs would have to be abolished and created by the hundreds under the billion-dollar supplemental appropriation bill recommended yesterday by the House Appropriations Committee. The bill's highlights are:

1. A 23 per cent slash over the next year in the staff of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, from 7838 to 6006. The force here would be cut gradually from 3219 to 2311.

The RFC slash seems sure to stick. The agency was given all the money it had requested of the committee and it volunteered to make the sharp lay-off. The agency had 12,000 fewer employes than a year ago.

2. The Office of Rent Control was given a budget slash of nearly five million dollars, an amount that would wipe out at least 1000 jobs and probably as many as 1500. The agency asked for funds to continue 6256 employes in its program. The rent office has only 309 employes here. The big cut, if it comes, will be the regional offices.

3. The National Labor Relations Board was given only one million dollars of the four million dollars it had requested. But the agency was invited to return early next year for additional money if that becomes necessary. Board officials told the committee that they planned tentatively to add 1000 employes to their staff, to increase it from 700 to 1700 to get out additional work given them by the Taft-Hartley Act.

4. The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service was given only $1,410,000 of the $2,650,000 it had requested. But it, too, was told to come back for additional funds next year. This agency is expected to have about 400 jobs that will be filled mainly by employes now in Labor's Conciliation Service.

5. Several thousand jobs, mainly overseas, will be created by the recommendation of $1,353,024,900 for foreign relief. Most of the jobs will be abroad for the War and State Departments. Some few will be here in those agencies plus Treasury's Federal Supply which will make some of the relief purchases.

6. The committee denied all funds to Federal Supply to set up a cataloguing system. The agency requested $2,700,000 for the project and it had planned to hire about 900 people to do the job. Several hundred people laid off here from the agency had hoped to be called back to jobs on this project.

7. The bill did not carry a requested appropriation of 25 million dollars for the FBI and Civil Service to carry out the President's Federal employe loyalty program. The committee report explained that the Rees loyalty bill was now pending in the Senate and that "considerable revisions" would be made in the 25 million dollars request before it could be acted on. The committee will include some money for the project in a final deficiency bill to be recommended next week.

7. In the hearings on the loyalty program which were made public yesterday, Civil Service Commissioner Arthur S. Flemming estimated the program would root out of Government about 3200 subversives. He based his estimate on past experiences of the Civil Service investigating unit. He had made a similar statement several weeks ago to the House Civil Service Committee.

Committee members questioned Flemming at length on why the commission had cleared the appointment in 1942 of Carl Marzani, a convicted Communist, for a job in the Office of Strategic Services.

Flemming listed the names of five Army and OSS officials who vouched for Marzani's loyalty. Moreover, he quoted the prosecutor in Marzani's trial as saying that Marzani's Communist connections had been established after the date the commission had cleared him.

Flemming further explained that the commission had joined with the State Department in prosecuting Marzani after his Communist Party membership had been established.

A three-man subcommittee of the Senate Civil Service Committee was appointed to study the House-approved Rees loyalty bill. Members are: Langer, chairman, and Chavez and Flanders.

Chairman Rees of the House Civil Service Committee, the bill's author, and Representatives Murray (D., Tenn.) and Almond (D., Va.) appeared before the committee in executive session to plead for its approval.

Man Burned to Death, 2 Hurt in Truck Spill

Elkridge, Md., July 18 (AP).—One man burned to death and two others were injured when a trailer-truck overturned and burst into flames on the Patapsco River bridge on Washington-Baltimore blvd. today.

George C. Smith, 40, of Baltimore, the truck driver, was pinned in the cab when a cargo of folding chairs suddenly shifted as the southbound vehicle toppled over.

Richard Williams, 35, of Baltimore, was riding in the cab but managed to extricate himself. Harry Jones, also Baltimore, was riding in the rear and was thrown clear.

A total of 548 entries was submitted by 129 contestants in the competition sponsored by the board in cooperation with the County Police. Prizes were supplied by the auto dealers' association.

18 Democrats Are 'Purged' In Arlington

Candidates' Names Cut From Executive Committee Ballot

Names of 18 candidates for the Arlington Democratic executive Committee have been chopped from the primary ballot for alleged failure to comply with Democratic Party regulations.

Of that number, 16 had refused to go before a special Democratic subcommittee last week to prove their party loyalty.

Of the 16, nearly all are sympathetic to the "progressive Democratic movement in Arlington, and oppose what they term "machine control" of the local party.

Termed Illegal

The executive committee ruling was made Thursday night during a three-hour meeting at Democratic headquarters, 3179 Wilson blvd., Arlington.

One of the rejected candidates for the executive committee, Albert A. Carretta, has on the other hand already been certified by the Arlington Electoral Board as a Democratic primary candidate for the Virginia House of Delegates.

Another, H. Smith Rucker, yesterday promised he would "fight this thing all the way," and request a writ of mandamus in Arlington Circuit Court "if it becomes necessary."

His attorney, Frank L. Ball, has termed the loyalty hearings "illegal," "immoral," and "a gratuitous insult."

Hearing Set Monday

Other candidates who declined to appear before the five-member subcommittee were Harold Schilz, Esther I. Cooper, Perry F. Gawen, Vincent A. Tramonte, James D. Franklin, Beatrice B. Smythe, Ellsworth H. Mosher, Virginia Thatcher, Carl P. Sanderhoff, Edward F. Behn, Irving N. Hoddes, Martha P. Wildhack, Josephine Y. Barber and Laurence S. Knappen.

Carretta asked how the executive committee "can justify its decision that I am not qualified to run as a Democratic candidate for the less important county position."

He promised he would appear at a special appeal hearing to be held by the Eighth Congressional District Democratic Committee in Alexandria Monday to review the Arlington group's decision. The meeting will be held at noon at 108 N. St. Asaph st.

Schilz, another disqualified candidate, and chairman of the Progressive Democrats of Arlington, said the committee's action "confirmed our previous suspicion that this interrogation was set up to eliminate us from the August 5 primary."

Mrs. Cooper, another of the 16, said she had run for the executive committee last year and had been cleared by the party at that time. She pointed out that she had lived in Arlington 32 years, and "nobody has ever challenged my qualification as a Democrat."

Action Unanimous

The subcommittee action, reached unanimously, was "impelled" because "said candidates have failed comply with the rule of the Democratic Committee pursuant to the rights and powers conferred by the Democratic Party Plan" of Virginia.

The 16 "failed to furnish any information under oath upon which this subcommittee could certify that they have complied with requirements of the Party Plan," the statement said.

Chest Survey Reports Hit By 2 Groups

Welfare Leaders Call One Lukewarm, The Other Damaging

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Two groups of District social welfare leaders met in separate closed sessions last night to draw up statements denouncing both the majority and minority reports of the Citizens Chest Survey Committee.

One group, headed by G. Howland Shaw, has been at work for the past week preparing an overall answer to the anticipated report of the citizens' survey, The Post learned. The group is composed exclusively of leaders who give their services voluntarily and without pay, a spokesman said.

The second group, made up of four members of the 25-man citizens survey committee, already has issued a statement attacking the majority report as lukewarm and the minority compromise report as seriously damaging the prestige of the Chest. However, this group, made up of a representative from the Federal Personnel Council and three from the Industrial Union Council (CIO) plans to come up with a detailed defense of the Chest.

Integration Urged

The majority report of the survey committee called for closer integration between the Community Chest, a funds-raising organization, and the Council of Social Agencies, a social-planning organization. It also recommended general specifications of eligibility for Chest members, without suggesting denial of membership to any specific agencies.

A minority report, signed by six survey committee members, urged that the Chest throw out the Council and 22 other of the 61 Chest agencies and projects. The Council, the minority report charged, had been dominating and in effect running the affairs of the Chest.

A Council leader last night branded the minority charges regarding the Council's influence as so many "lies," and told The Post that a strong reply to the charges would shortly be forthcoming from the Council.

Meeting Slated Tuesday

The controversial reports, it was learned, will come up before the executive committee of Chest board of trustees Tuesday night. At that time, a demand will be made for calling of an emergency meeting of the full board of trustees.

The board of trustees is the governing body of the Chest. It includes the chairmen of the board of directors, and the paid executives of the member agencies, and an equal number of representatives from the general public. Since there are 58 members agencies of the Chest, there are 232 members of the board of trustees.

The reports will also come up Monday before a joint committee of the Chest and Council studying the future organization of both groups.

Two other candidates, William S. Tickle and Elizabeth W. White, both of whom appeared before the subcommittee, also were crossed from the primary ballot for failure to comply with party requirements "in the last general election."

Slaying Case Is Given to Grand Jury

H. T. Wright, Blind From Own Bullet To Face Charge In Wife's Death

By Alfred E. Lewis
Post Reporter

Blinded by a bullet he fired into his own head, Henry T. Wright, 73, former Treasury guard, yesterday was held for the grand jury in the fatal shooting of his wife on June 3.

Wright, weak from loss of blood and 45 days in a hospital, could only nod his head in answer to questions by Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald at a coroner's inquest.

"Do you know where you are and why you are here," MacDonald asked.

"Do you know that your wife is deceased." The defendant, who still has a bullet lodged over his left eye, shook his head again.

Mother-in-law Recovers

MacDonlad then read the police report on the shooting at their home, 913 Perry pl. ne., in which his wife Lulu Belle Wright, 49, was killed and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Madge Fitzgerald, 69, was shot as she attempted to protect her daughter.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, shot in the back, has recovered and was released from Casualty Hospital on July 11. She was unable to attend the inquest.

Detective Karl Howe of the Homicide Squad told the coroner's jury that during his investigation of the case he learned that the Wrights had not been getting along and that Mrs. Wright had instituted divorce proceedings and eviction proceedings against her husband.

Howe said that about 5:30 on the evening of June 3, Wright appeared in the kitchen of the home and fired three shots at his wife. A fourth shot hit the mother-in-law.

Wright, according to Howe, then went to the living room and shot himself in the right temple. He was found seated in a living room chair with a .22-caliber pistol lying at his feet.

Investigation showed that Wright had bought the pistol from the Worthington Hardware Co. in Staunton, Va., sometime between May 15 and 20. The Wrights had lived in Staunton until 1939.

All during yesterday's proceedings Wright's hands trembled. He kept holding his head or his hands in an apparent effort to stop the shaking.

Readvertising Of Bridge Bids Set in August

The District will readvertise for bids "the early part of August" for superstructure construction to complete the $4,500,000 four-lane South Capitol st. bridge.

This was revealed yesterday by Highway Director H. C. Whitehurst, who said bids would be opened "about the middle of September."

A previous $2,123,354 low bid for the Anacostia River span's superstructure was turned down by the District last November because it exceeded funds authorized for the project.

Whitehurst said prospects of additional funds in fiscal 1948 make it possible to again seek bids.

Exact dates for advertising and bid opening will be announced as soon as the Labor Department sets a minimum wage rate for the project, he said. (Wage minimums are set by the Labor Department for all construction jobs requiring more than $2000 of District or Federal funds.)

District officials next week will make a final inspection of the $2,487,590 substructure installations recently completed by the Dravo Corp. of Pittsburgh, Whitehurst revealed.

Named Scout Official

Baltimore, July 18 (AP).—The Baltimore Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America announced the appointment today of Howard E. Ross, a native of Lowville, N. Y., as assistant Scout executive.

The council comprises the City of Baltimore, as well as Baltimore, Anne Arundel, Carroll, Harford and Howard counties.

Va. Auto Stickers Will Spare Congressmen Embarrassment

Congressmen and their "principal secretaries" who live in nearby Virginia while Congress is in session have received permission to use "reciprocity" stickers on their auto windshields in place of Virginia tags

The move will spare Congressmen the indignity of being "tagged for improper license," according to a letter from the State division of motor vehicles to J. Judson Shelton, manager of the division's Potomac branch office in Arlington.

Virginia law normally requires residents to take out State registration for their cars.

The stickers were arranged by Representative Howard W. Smith (D., Va.) after several Congressmen temporarily living in Virginia had complained of being tagged by police for carrying out-of-State tags.

Miss Mabel Haller, House District Committee clerk, will provide Congressmen entitled to reciprocity with a letter stating name, position, home State and license number. These will be forwarded to Shelton, who will issue the windshield stickers.

Shelton pointed out that the 150 stickers provided by the State will be offered without fee, and are valid until expiration of home-State tags.

New Inquiry Slated Today In Plank Case

Fairfax County Attorney to Quiz All of Witnesses

A sweeping inquiry into the death of Norman Le Roy Plank, 29-year-old District Small Claims Court clerk, will be conducted today by Fairfax County Commonwealth Attorney Hugh Marsh.

Every available witness who might shed any light on the case at all will be questioned by Marsh. Sitting in on the inquiry will be Fairfax police who worked on the case so that they can study statements made by the witnesses.

Found on Stairway

Plank's body was found at the foot of the basement steps of his sister's home, 4108 Forest la., Chesterbrook Woods, Fairfax, Va., Sunday night, July 6.

A .22 caliber pistol belonging to Donald Burrer, Plank's nephew, who also lived in the house, was found lying on the fifth step. Donald discovered the body when he returned home with his mother, Mrs. Nellie Burrer, from a weekend trip.

First Called Suicide

A certificate of suicide first was issued but detectives discovered Plank's car was missing and that there were no powder burns on his forehead or fingerprints on the weapon. The certificate was then changed to murder.

Five days after the death, Alvah B. Martin, 29-year-old former convict, was arrested by Kingston, N. Y., police who found him driving Plank's car. Martin admitted being with Plank Friday night but has made conflicting statements as to his whereabouts Saturday and Sunday.

Police established that the time of death was 11 p. m. Sunday. They cannot positively prove that Martin was with Plank at that time.

Condition Serious

Pistol Expert Shot While Cleaning One

A former Army captain who was an expert with small firearms was seriously wounded early yesterday when an automatic he was cleaning discharged a bullet into his chest.

The victim, in serious condition at Emergency Hospital, is Edwin B. Gale, 32, of 1644 21st st. nw., a beer salesman and former instructor and small weapons officer at the Aberdeen Proving Ground. The .45-caliber slug ranged upward in his left chest, emerged near the back of his neck and tore a hole in the ceiling.

Gale's roommates at the United Nations Officers' Service Club heard a shot about 1:45 a. m., then heard Gale scream for help. They found him on the bed, with cleaning rags, a cleaning rod and a can of oil beside him.

Air Forces Capt. George Kunde, who lives in an adjoining room, put his thumb in the wound to stop the flow of blood while police and an ambulance were called. Gale was given three pints of blood plasma at the hospital.

He told police he must have replaced the clip in the pistol unconsciously, but said he had no recollection of hitting the trigger.

Gale, a salesman for the Heurich Brewing Co. since March 11, had three years' service in Army ordnance at Aberdeen. He had charge of repair and maintenance of small arms there.

Executors Post 2 Million Bond On Gilpin Estate

Berryville, Va., July 18.—The wife and two sons of the late Kenneth H. Gilpin, a member of the State Highway Commission, have posted two-million-dollar bond without surety as executrix and executors under his will probated here.

The will creates a trust estate for Isabelle Tyson Gilpin, McGhee Tyson Gilpin and Kenneth N. Gilpin, jr., for their lives and that of a daughter, Bettie Brooke Gilpin, and for a period of 10 years following the death of the last survivor of any of the four. It is directed that the daughter become a trustee of the estate upon arriving at the age of 21.

Upon the expiration of the 10 years after the death of the last survivor of the wife and three children, the trust shall be terminated, the trustees then distributing the body of the trust estate and all undistributed income on hand to lineal descendants.

Heads Funds Drive

Middleburg, Va., July 18.—Dabney Simpson has been named chairman of the fund-raising committee for Middleburg's proposed $200,000 Recreation Center. Other members of the committee are Miss Mary Lee Moyer, field secretary; Mrs. Earl Dawson, Mrs. Howard Armfield, Miss Mabel Waddell, Robert Canard, Roger Ashton, Raymond Gordon and Stanley W. Wilson.

New Charges Made Against Policeman

Pvt. Stewart Accused Of Breaking Windows, Beating Pedestrian

Police Pvt. James A. Stewart, jr., who was before the Police Trial Board yesterday with Pvt. Warren L. Garrett on three charges, was accused of participating in a beating and in the breaking of house windows.

These were new developments in a trial which grew out of a complaint by Daniel J. Fitzpatrick, 22, a Georgetown University student. Twelve witnesses appeared yesterday.

The two Seventh Precinct officers are each charged with conduct unbecoming an officer, neglect of duty, and wilfully and knowingly making an untruthful statement to a superior officer. Yesterday's hearing, lasting from 10 a. m. until 5:40 p. m., was continued until 8:30 this morning. The board consists of Inspector Clement P. Cox, police property clerk, Capt. Walter T. Storm and Assistant Corporation Counsel Oliver Gasch.

Occurred June 4

The two alleged incidents were said to have occurred early on the morning of June 4, the same morning when Fitzpatrick charged, he was struck three times by Stewart without provocation. They were brought up for the first time yesterday.

Inspector Lloyd E. Kelly, who investigated the charges against the two Georgetown officers, said he believed they were true and suspended them. He said they claimed to have separated shortly after their duty was completed at midnight. He quoted Garrett saying he walked home and slept until shortly after 5, when Stewart called for him to go fishing

Fitzpatrick was arrested by Stewart following the alleged beating, later being acquitted of drunkenness and disorderly conduct charges. He had been arrested on the same charges by the same officer a few nights previously, and was fined $5 on the disorderly conduct charge. This he has appealed.

Testify to Striking

A sworn statement by Frank A. Simmons, 3923 New Hampshire ave. nw., and testimony by Mrs. Elizabeth McSweeney, 45, 1203 Potomac st. nw., and Charles H. Brown, 53, 1061 Potomac st. nw., accused Stewart of striking Simmons while he was talking to Brown at the corner of M and Potomac sts. nw., at about daybreak.

Henry J. Harris, who said he had been a bootlegger for 15 or 20 years, told the Trial Board he was a night watchman for the Potomac Manufacturing Co. at 1050 Potomac st. nw., where he lives.

He woke up between 2 and 3 that morning, he said, when he heard the crash of glass, and when he went to the window saw Stewart, who had asked him for liquor "plenty of times" in the past, according to his testimony. He found two windows broken, apparently by two street lanterns which he found on the sidewalk.

4 Petitions Ask Review Of Project Rent Boost

Reversal of Ruling On Fairfax Village Sought; Other Tenants Organize

Four petitions were filed in Municipal Court yesterday by residents of Fairfax Village apartments requesting a review of Rent Control board decision which raised their rents $3 a month.

Action against rent increases also was taken in Maryland and Virginia by residents of housing developments which are offering 18-month leasesto residents who agree to pay more rent.

Residents of the three developments said they are banding together in area groups to fight the new rent law which authorizes rent increases up to 15 per cent providing a lease is signed.

491 Residents Listed

The four petitions filed in Municipal Court listed in total 491 residents of Fairfax Village. The apartment development at 38th st. and Alabama ave. se., has 826 units.

The petition filed by Attorney Scott P. Crampton against Realty Management Corp. and Fairfax, Inc., owners of the property, asked the court to review the July 10 decision of Rent Control Administrator Robert F. Cogswell denying reconsideration of an order granting the increase.

Rents before the increase, which became effective July 10, ranged from $49 to $67 a month.

In Silver Spring, the Montgomery County Tenants' Association called on the regional rent administrator to review the action of Walter R. Heath, area rent director, to review the action of Walter R. Heath, area rent director, in approving rent increases of $8 at the Spring Knolls Development.

The association, formed Thursday night by a group of Spring Knolls' tennants, said that the increases were granted before tenants were notified. The group, which plans to enlist the support of similiar groups throughout Montgomery County, elected Isadore Bassoff as temporary chairman.

Tenants of Kaywood Gardens in Mount Rainier will hold a mass meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Mount Rainier High School. Originally the tenants banded together to protest rent increases of 10 per cent. They scheduled the mass meeting after voting to become an area organization.

In Arlington, residents of Buckingham Apartments, which is seeking to raise rents 15 per cent, tentively scheduled a meeting for Thursday. Nearly 400 of the apartments' residents at a meeting Thursday night voted to hold a larger meeting to seek the support of other tenants in refusing to sign 18-month leases. Robert B. Kennedy, chairman of the tenants' committee, said a legal aid staff will be set up in Buckingham to advise residents of their rights. Buckingham residents, he said, will combine their efforts with similar groups from other apartment developments.

Evictions Ordered For Apartment Repair

More than 40 persons who live in an apartment house at 128 C st. ne. will be evicted on December 31, it was ordered yesterday.

Judge Walter J. Casey of Municipal Court ordered the eviction. It was requested by the apartment management, the Concord Corp., in order that the building can be remodeled for new and smaller units and repairs made.

Thirteen tenants of the apartment contested the proposed eviction and filed a countersuit for a total of $32,500 on charges that they were not rendered the minimum services and utilities as required by law. The management, through Attorney Leonard Melrod, settled the countersuit for a total of $80.

Decisions Postponed On D. C. Rent Control

A joint congressional conference committee yesterday postponed until 2 p. m. Monday final decision on the District rent control extension bill.

Both houses have agreed to a three-month extension, from the end of this year to March 31, 1941.

Members said they wanted more time to study the amendment sponsored by Senator John H. Overton (D., La.) and approved by the Senate, to protect the rights of subtenants against eviction.

The conference group assigned Senate District Committee Counsel James R. Kirkland to confer with Senator Overton and District Rent Administrator Robert F. Cogswell about possible language changes in the Overton plan.

Senator Overton's amendment says that a subtenant would have the protection of the rent control law even though the principal tenant gave up his lease.

200 Virginia Youths To Attend 4-H Camp

Two hundred boys and girls from seven Virginia counties will go to 4-H camp at Jamestown July 21-26. The camp is jointly owned by Fairfax, James City, Gloucester, Middlesex, Matthews, Warwick, and York Counties, but the area has recently been purchased by the National Park Service.

Growers Warned On Peach Quality

Va. Crop Official Says Buyers Can Be Choosey Now

Blacksburg, Va., July 18 (AP).—Virginia peach growers were told by Agricultural Extension Service Horticulturist A. H. Teske today that they will have to meet definite consumer demands as to size and quality to compete successfully with the expected heavy supply in this year's market.

Teske said Elbertas, Virginia's main commercial peach crop, soon will be entering the final swell stage and, where they have been properly thinned, are showing excellent size.

The approaching stage of the crop, he added, will be critical in determining how well Virginia peaches meet other consumer demands.

Meanwhile, Dr. E. P. Johnson, animal pathologist at Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station, reminded poultrymen that midsummer is the time for vaccinating flocks against fowl pox, prevalent in the State during fall and early spring.

Johnson said available vaccines were almost 100 per cent effective against fowl pox and advised vaccinating now, while the birds are still on the range and before pullets are housed.

Other Agricultural Extension Service specialists have reported the presence in Virginia of Barnaby's thistle, a spiny weed which may injure mouths and digestive tracts of livestock.

Formerly believed rare in the State, Barnaby's thistle this year has definitely been identified in Augusta, Shenandoah and Greene Counties.

Hit Industry First

Ex-Red Tells Of Subversive Talk by Eisler

A former Communist Party organizer identified Gerhart Eisler yesterday as a speaker named "Edwards" who urged the Communist Party in 1933 "to sink its roots" in America's basic industries.

Manning Johnson, 38, of Oakland, Calif., a Washington-born Government witness in the trial in which Eisler is charged with passport fraud, told a District Court jury Eisler further suggested using the American Federation of Labor.

The witness, now a Navy electrician, said the Leipzig-born, 50-year-old Eisler told the Central Committee of the Communist Party in the United States, at a meeting in New York in October, 1933, that Communist industrial infiltration was "a prerequisite to seizure of power in the United States.'

Negro Republic Proposed

Identifying himself as a Communist Party member from 1930 to 1939 and one-time party organizer in western New York, Johnson told the jury Eisler, at another meeting a year later, advocated a Negro republic in the South.

"To conceive of the successful overthrow of the United States," Johnson quoted Eisler as saying on this occasion, "would be sheer nonsense unless we win over the Negroes in this country as an ally to the white workers."

The five-day-old trial, being heard before District Court Justice James W. Morris, will be resumed Monday.

Tardy Witness Fined

Justice Morris yesterday slapped a $10 fine on one Government witness, William Odell Nowell, former Detroit Communist Party leader, who appeared in court 40 minutes late, because, he said, he had "overslept."

Nowell, up for cross-examination after giving direct testimony late Thursday afternoon, admitted appearing three times on speaking platforms with Gerald L. K. Smith, former America First Party leader.

He denied, however, he had ever served as Smith's race relations adviser and asserted that in all of his speeches made with Smith he had spoken against communism.

Abraham J. Isserman, chief defense counsel, read an "editor's note" printed in connection with an article by Nowell in the Pittsburgh Courier and asked if a statement in the note identifying him as "a former Comintern agent" was correct.

"It is true," Nowell replied, "in the sense every Communist is a Comintern agent."

Nowell previously testified he heard Eisler lecture on the American racial situation at the Lenin Institute in Moscow, that he had heard the stocky, bald German referred to in Moscow as "Gerhart" and in Detroit as "Brown."

Leon Josephson of New York City, attorney, and one-time Communist Party member now under charges of contempt of Congress for refusing to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee, was a Government witness against Eisler late yesterday, identifying as his own the handwriting on a passport application for a "Samuel Liptzen" filled out August 30, 1934.

Josephson said he filled out the application for a man introduced to him as a member of the anti-fascist underground and that, only a few weeks ago, Eisler himself had told him he was the man for whom the application was filled out.

Virginia GOP Platform to Be Ready Today

Roanoke, Va., July 18 (AP).—Members of the State Republican policy committee met here this afternoon to complete the draft of a uniform platform for Republican candidates for the Virginia General Assembly.

The platform, designed to set forth the party's stand on major issues, will be submitted to the State Central Committee at a meeting here tomorrow at 11 a.m.

Republican leaders of the State launched work on the platform at a policy conference held at Mountain Lake June 13-14, and in the interim the proposals have been submitted to legislative candidates for study.

Robert H. Woods, of Pearisburg, State Republican chairman, said the only business to come before the State Central Committee tomorrow would be the platform being drafted by the policy committee, of which State Senator S. Floyd Landreth, of Galax, is chairman.

San Diego Police Seek Dark Man In Woman's Death

San Diego, Calif., July 18 (AP).—Police today sought for questioning a dark-haired man with whom Mrs. Marian Davidson Newton, 36, Vancouver, B. C., divorcee, was reported to have left a nightclub before she was strangled and apparently raped.

The body of the victim, ninth in a series of violently slain women in southern California since January 15, was found late yesterday in a clump of brush atop an ocean cliff park on the northern city limits.

Edna Mitchell, candy store clerk, told police she and Mrs. Newton went to the night club Wednesday night.

Mrs. Newton remained at the night club after Miss Mitchell left, the latter said. Police believe she was escorted from the place sometime later by the dark-haired man. Miss Mitchell said she didn't know the man except by sight.

Family Row Ends

Wife Held In Slaying Of Husband

Pocomoke City, Md., July 18 (AP).—The long domestic troubles between Mr. and Mrs. Timothy W. Laughery ended today with the 35-year-old chicken grower dead of five bullet wounds and his wife ordered held on a murder charge.

They were divorced six weeks ago after 27-year-old Laura Wilkins Laughery and her father, J. Archie Wilkins, swore out a warrant charging Laughery with breaking into the Wilkins home and beating them.

Wilkins is one of the leading hatcherymen in the poultry belt on Maryland's lower Eastern Shore. It was at his fine little home across the Pocomoke River bridge in Somerset County that Laughery was slain about 10 o'clock this morning.

E. MacMaster Duer, Somerset County State's attorney, said Mrs. Laughery acknowledged the shooting. He ordered her held on the murder charge.

The couple separated about a year ago. Laughery had returned to Clarksburg, W. Va., where his mother lives.

A friend of the family said Judith Ann, their 7-year-old daughter, had gone to West Virginia recently to visit her father and his mother. She returned about ten days ago. Chief of Police Brittingham said Laughery had been seen about Pocomoke City several times in recent days.

Army Prisoner Killed

Fort Dix, N. J., July 18 (U.P.).—A military prisoner was fatally shot by a guard today when he attempted to escape while working with other prisoners in the Fort Dix warehouse area.

'Saucer' Just Misses Australian in Storm

Kalgoorlie, Australia, July 18 (U.P.).—A man rushed into a hotel yesterday during a windstorm and shouted that he had been nearly knocked down by a flying saucer. In the next breath he called for a double brandy.

The brandy steadied his nerves and he led a party outside to look for the saucer. They found the top of a large water tank that the wind had blown off and sent sailing more than 100 yards.

White Man Wins Auto in Drawing At Negro College

Louisville, Ky., July 18 (AP).—Charles H. Wabnitz, a white man, today was awarded an automobile in a drawing conducted by a Negro college sorority, Alpha Kappa Alpha.

Mrs. Carolyn S. Blanton, a member of the committee in charge of the event, said the drawing was held Tuesday night, before the morning papers carried the story of a Negro in Ahoskie, N. C., who, because of his race, was denied an automobile he won in a Kiwanis Club contest.

Mrs. Blanton said that at the time of the drawing, the sorority officers "knew by the address that the winner was white."

Today as Wabnitz received the new car, he said he had given his old one to the man who sold him the winning ticket, Lee Roy Smith, Negro janitor at a hospital where Wabnitz is a biochemist. The contest was held to raise money for a scholarship fund.

Saga of Dulcan's Steady Rise In Hecht Store Told As He Is Honored on 35th Anniversary

JAMES ROTTO, SAMUEL HECHT, AND DEAN ELMER KAYSER OF GEORGE WASHINGTON U. PRESENT A COMMISSION FOR AN OIL PAINTING TO CHARLES B. DULCAN

The story of Charles B. Dulcan's march from salesman to vice president and general manager of the Hecht Co. was traced yesterday morning on the occasion of his thirty-fifth year with the firm.

Yesterday at a meeting of supervisors, buyers and merchandisers he was feted for his years of faithful leadership and presented with a commission for an oil portrait. The scroll was given by James Rotto, store sales manager and publicity director, on behalf of the 100 top executives of the organization.

Dulcan, whose family was present, thanked his associates, noting that a man should not be judged by the buildings he erects nor the material wealth he accumulates, but rather by the affection men hold for him. He said the store testimonial "touched" him very deeply.

Dean Elmer Louis Kayser of George Washington University praised Dulcan as an outstanding example of constructive leadership in American business. He praised him for his vision and adherence to business ethics.

5 More Towns Get Preview Of Zone Plan

Residents of five more Prince Georges County towns last night were given a preview of a "master zoning plan" proposed by the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission for nearby Maryland.

At the sixth in a series of informal meetings held on the new plan, Planning Director Fred W. Tuemmler outlined the commission's zoning proposals for the incorporated towns of Mount Rainier, Brentwood, North Brentwood, Cottage City and Colmar Manor.

Most of the territory of the five towns has been set aside for single family construction, Tuemmler explained, and commercial and industrial developments have been authorized only in sections already voted to those uses.

The plan does not deviate greatly from regulations now in existence, Tuemmler said, but it will permit a broader range of land uses because it proposes 14 zoning classifications instead of the five now in effect. Ten of the new classifications are for residential property, but the remaining four are for commercial and industrial use.

Both commercial and industrial zones, he added, have been broken down into two separate classifications, separating "light and heavy" business and industry.

"Under present rules," Tuemmler said, "it is possible to have a food store next door to a dog and cat hospital—an obviously unsatisfactory condition. The new proposals, however, will place these businesses in separate zones.

The informal hearings on the zone plan will be followed by an official public hearing required by law before final action can be taken. No date has been set for this meeting.

In District's Lap

House Unit Denies GSI Repair Fund

The House Appropriations Committee yesterday turned thumbs down on a Public Buildings Administration request for $200,000 to spruce up Government building cafeterias operated by Government Services, Inc.

PBA sought the funds to make repairs and improvements ordered by District Health Department inspectors for 40 GSI cafeterias which failed to qualify for District licenses May 9.

Legal Action Shelved

The Commissioners indefinitely shelved legal action against GSI May 13, after Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant, 3d, GSI president, and Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, Federal Works Administrator, asked for time to seek repair funds from Congress.

Both License Superintendent Edward E. Bailey, jr., and Dr. Reid R. Ashworth, District food inspection director, said they planned no further action. "The problem is in the hands of the Commissioners," they declared.

Largest cafeterias denied District licenses included those in the Navy Department, State Department, Railroad Retirement Building, Social Security, Internal Revenue and Commerce Departments.

Niece to Get $122,000 Left By Gen. Sharpe

Mrs. Katharine Sharpe Dana, sole surviving legal heir of the late Maj. Gen. Henry G. Sharpe, is to receive all of his $122,000 estate, according to his will filed yesterday in District Court.

Mrs. Dana resides in Coventry, R. I. She is the niece of General Sharpe, who died July 13 while visiting in Providence, R. I. He lived in Washington for many of his 89 years of life.

General Sharpe, who is buried in Arlington Cemetery, served in the Spanish-American War and during the first World War was Quartermaster General of the Army. He is the author of several books and articles about the Quartermaster Corps.

His estate consists of $5015 in cash, $41,866 in stocks and $75,931 in bonds. Executors of the estate are Mrs. Dana, Albro N. Dana and the American Security and Trust Co.

Six Norwegians Complete Pacific Crossing on Raft

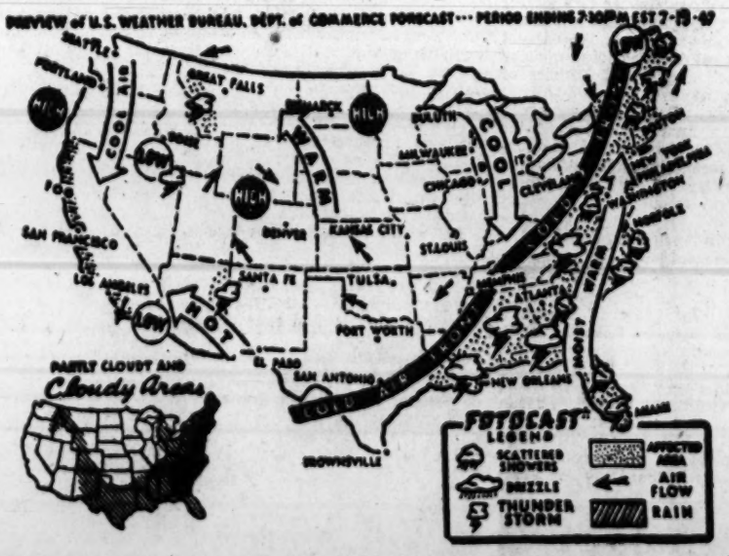
Lima, Peru, July 18 (U.P.).—Six Norwegian scientists sailing a frail balsa wood and bamboo raft have successfully completed a 3500-mile crossing of the South Pacific by reaching the Marquesas Islands, radio reports said today.

Headed by Thor Heyerdahl, 32-year-old ethnologist and archeologist, the expedition was designed chiefly to prove his theory that the South Sea Islands were populated orginally by prehistoric South American peoples who crossed the Pacific on rafts impelled by ocean currents.

Named "Kon Tiki" after the god of those prehistoric peoples, the raft sailed from El Callao on April 29. From the Marquesas, it is scheduled to proceed to Tahiti, some 1200 miles away.

National Weather Summary

Copyr., 1947, Edw. L. A. Warner



24-HOUR FORECAST.—Hot, sticky weather will continue from southern New England to Florida and the Gulf States today. Weather experts point out some relief from this sweltering weather should be in store for sleepless and sweltering residents of the eastern seaboard as the cold air front passes this weekend.

Afternoon temperaures will be in the 90s from Florida to New Mexico while temperatures will soar above 100 degrees in the desert and plateau regions of Arizona, Nevada and California. Maximum readings will be in the 70s from Michigan to the Dakotas while Montana should report readings in the 90s. Highest readings in the rest of the U. S. will be in the 80s.

Forecasters are calling for towering thunderheads from Maine to Florida and Louisiana. These billowing clouds will become unstable and produce showers and thunderstorms in the affected areas in the coming 24 hours. Some scattered thundershowers are indicated for the higher elevations of Montana, Nevada and Arizona.

Mostly sunny weather with clear to partly cloudy skies is the outlook for a large portion of the Nation. Only the coastal States from Maine to Georgia will be overcast. (See inset map.)

Weather fans will readily see the cold air front from Maine to Texas indicates the area of maximum or sharp weather change. Considerable cloudiness, thundershowers and warm, humid weather will develop east of the front. Temperatures will be nearly 10 degrees lower, skies clear and sunny west of the front as cool northerly breezes push down from central Canada. (See FOTOCAST and inset maps.)

Forecast temperatures for this afternoon's maximums include Fort Worth 92; New York, Philadelphia, Washington and Atlanta 88; Kansas City 86; Albany and Nashville 85; St. Louis and Tulsa 84; Boston and Hartford 82; Cleveland and Pittsburgh 80; Chicago 78; Detroit 76; Duluth 75, and Milwaukee 74.

S. G. Blythe, Noted Editor, Dies in Calif.

His colorful career, spanning 79 years, began on his father's weekly newspaper in Geneseo, N. Y., and attained international stature before his retirement in 1940. His death came after a long illness at his home, Sunset Hill, on Pebble Beach, where he had lived 16 years.

A son, Stuart Oakes Blythe, former Washington representative of the Country Gentleman, was at his bedside.

Started as Reporter

At 18, Blythe was a $10-a-week reporter on the Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat and Chronicle. Nineteen years later he was one of the best known and most able newsmen in the country. As chief of the old New York World's Washington bureau, he was given the world to cover for the Saturday Evening Post.

In this capacity, he not only wrote the news, but helped make it. He helped draft China's answer to Japan's infamous "21 damnds" in 1915 which helped stall Japanese expansionist designs in the Far East for almost 20 years. He also has been credited with being instrumental in bringing China into World War I on the Allied side.

Between 1896 and 1940 he chronicled every major political party convention; knew every President from Grover Cleveland to Franklin D. Roosevelt and once obtained an exclusive interview with President Wilson which resulted in the resignation of Mexico's President Huerta.

In 1907, when he became president of the Gridiron Club, the organization's annual dinner, always "off the record to newsmen" was treated to a stormy debate between President Theodore Roosevelt and Ohio's Senator Joseph B. Foraker. The two exchanged hot words over Roosevelt's stand in dismissing from service a contingent of troops who rioted in Brownsville, Tex. Foraker opposed the President's action.

It was one of Blythe's sympathetic articles President Harding was listening to when he died—"A Calm Review of a Calm Man."

Funeral services will be held at Pacific Grove, Calif., at 2 p. m. today. An epitaph, incribed many years before his death, stands on a 350-foot redwood tree in California.

Probers Changed Safe Combination In Vote Dispute

Charleston, W. Va., July 18 (AP).—Only the Senate investigators know the combination to the safe where Kanawha County's disputed ballots in the Kilgore-Sweeney election contest are stored, it was disclosed today.

Ballots of last November's election in Kanawha County, impounded along with those of 11 other counties last November by order of Governor Meadows, are in a safe adjoining the County Court chamber.

James G. Carper, member of the court, said investigators sent here by the Senate last spring changed the combination and as far as he knew no one knew it except those connected with the election probe.

The Senate Rules Committee earlier this week ordered a full investigation into alleged election irregularities in the 12 counties.

Republican Thomas B. Sweeney of Wheeling is contesting the re-election of Senator Harley M. Kilgore, Beckley Democrat.

Mrs. Elizabeth Browning

Orange, Va., July 18 (Spl.).—Funeral services will be held Saturday at 11 a. m. for Mrs. Elizabeth Ricketts Browning, 72, widow of Gustavus Judson Browning, who died at her home on West Main st. this morning.

The service will be held at St. Thomas Episcopal Church of which she was a member. The Rev. William Francis Burke, rector of the church, will conduct the service and interment will be in Graham Cemetery.

Mrs. Browning was a member of a well known Orange family. She was a daughter of the late William H. Ricketts, for many years treasurer of Orange County, and Emma Cullen Ricketts. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Emma Browning Claude, widow of Lieut. Col. David Kerr Claude, and a grandson, David K. Claude, jr. Surviving also are two brothers, Willie Ricketts of New York and Dr. L. S. Ricketts of Orange, and a sister, Miss Mattie E. Ricketts of Richmond.

Charles F. Burdette

Funeral services for Charles F. Burdette, Montgomery County farmer who was killed in a fall Thursday, will be held at Browningsville Methodist Church tomorrow afternoon.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Roberta Burdette; his father, William H. Burdette, and a son and daughter.

Sir Shafat Ahmad Khan

New Delhi, July 18 (U.P.).—Sir Shafat Ahmad Khan, 54, former Indian high commissioner in the Union of South Africa and one of the original members of the Indian interim government, died today at Simla.

W. Carl Holloway

Have de Grace, Md., July 18 (AP).—W. Carl Holloway, 69, deputy internal revenue collector for the last eight years, died today at his home in Forest Green.

Survivors include the widow, Ethel, and three children, Willard, Mrs. Charles Spang of Aberdeen, and Mrs. Clifford Thompson of Suffolk, Va. Burial will be Sunday.

Maryland Triples Registration of Private Airplanes

The report showed 1468 aircraft registered in the State as of June 1, compared with 414 on the corresponding date of 1946.

The report covered both personal and transport-type aircraft, but did not include National Guard, Army, Navy or Marine Corps planes.

On the Party Front . . .

THE AMBASSADOR OF SIAM and Princess Wan Waithayakon entertained at a cocktail party yesterday afternoon in honor of Rear Adm. Luang Joldhan Brudhikrai, director of the hydrographic service of the Royal Siamese Navy. The Naval Attache and Mme. Abhakorn assisted through the reception hours.

A buffet was served and Siamese handicrafts displayed of niello work on silver and gold. The 200 guests included officials of the Navy, the Hydrographic Service and Coast Guard.

Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth P. Landon were there and Counselor and Mrs. Graves of the British Embassy. Also, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lynch, Stanley Woodward, F. M. Wormald, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. McQuillen, Robert L. Smythe, Capt. and Mrs. W. M. Gullet, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Davis Neal, Capt. and Mrs. Floyd Ferris, Comdr. and Mrs. R. O. Glover, Admiral and Mrs. L. O. Colbert and Capt. and Mrs C. H. Peterson.

Farewell Fete

TO SAY farewell to his friends in Washington, the retiring Military Attache of the Indian Embassy, Col. Nawabzada Mohammad Sher Ali Khan, entertained yesterday at a cocktail party. The fete was in honor of his successor, Col. B. M. Kaul.

Over 200 guests came to bid farewell to their popular host, who will be leaving shortly for India. Officials of the Air Forces, Army and Navy attended, as well as military and naval attaches representing other countries.

The Ambassador of India, Asaf Ali, was there, and the Indian Minister and Mrs. Sen. Others included Gen. Sir William Morgan and his daughter, Miss Pauline Morgan; Admiral Sir Henry Moore, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. J. A. Gascoigne, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Thomas B. Inglis, Lieut. Gen. and Mrs. Wade Hampton Haislip, and Lady Wilson.

From different embassies came the Swiss Naval Attache and Mme. Waibel, the Netherlands Military Attache and Mme. Roos, the French Military Attache and Mme. Mathenet, the Russian Military Attache and Mme. Saraev, the Russian Naval Attache and Mme. Glinkov, the Siamese Military Attache and Mme. Kunjara, the British Military Attache and Mrs. Wootten, and Lieut. Col. Peter Molloy, British Assistant Military Attache.

Mrs. Vogel Entertains

Mrs. Martin Vogel gave a buffet supper party on the terrace of her home last evening for 50 guests. The party honored three artists, Mme. Ania Dorsmann, New York pianist; Miss Emma Mills, journalist and lecturer, and Mme. Milch-Milroy, Hungarian pianist.

Benefit Ball Slated Tonight

The Philippine Woman's Club will sponsor a gala benefit ball tonight at the Shoreham Hotel. Purpose of the affair is to raise funds for the relief of Filipino war widows and orphans.

Entertainment will include a Philippine folk dance by Misses Manolita and Erlinda Villanueva, who will be accompanied by Miss Florence del Prado, staff member of the Philippine Embassy. Arthur Murray's Dance Studio will give an intermission program.

Special invitations have been issued to the Philippine Ambassador, Joaquin M. Elizalde, and to members of the Australian, Nicaraguan, British and French Embassies and the Union of South Africa Legation.

All feminine clubdom and other women's organizations have been issued invitations to the event, according to Mrs. Juan Baretto, wife of the Financial Attache of the Philippine Embassy and president of the club which was founded by Mrs. Manuel L. Quezon, widow of the late President of the Philippines.

Your Questions On Homemaking

I have covered scratches on my mahogany piano successfully by rubbing them with linseed oil. Now I'm wondering how to keep this finish. Can I wax over oil, or must I renew the linseed oil periodically? H. W. M.

A grayish blue "fog" or "bloom" often appears when there is oil under a coating of wax. Since linseed oil covers the scratches satisfactorily, why not use a polish made of half linseed oil and half turpentine on the piano instead of wax? Ordinarily, this polish need be applied only two or three times a year. With sufficient rubbing, it gives the furniture a beautiful satiny finish.

If you prefer using wax, there are waxes which are dark in color and would probably conceal the scratches, as well as preserve the surface of the piano.

How can I remove a mustard stain on a cotton-type dress? I washed the dress with soap and warm water, but it did not remove the spot. S. M.

You may be able to remove this stain by working glycerin into it, letting it stand for awhile, then washing with soap and water. Or, if alcohol does not make dye in your dress run, use it to sponge away the mustard stain.

Can sisal rugs be painted in the same way as fiber rugs? What proportions of paint and turpentine should be used? Is the "house paint" recommended for this purpose the kind that is used on the outside of houses? E. C. M.

Rugs made with sisal hemp, which comes from fiber-yielding plants in Central America, can be painted just as fiber rugs are. Use three parts of good quality house paint—the same type that's used on the outside of houses—to one part of turpentine. Or use one part floor or deck enamel to one part turpentine. Work the paint thoroughly into the fiber with a paint brush. Protect the surface underneath with a thick padding of newspapers until the paint dries.

Go Gaily Glamorous

Ditch Your Old Duds, Teen-Agers

By Peggy Preston

NEW YORK, July 18.—That very important lady, the junior miss, monopolized the spotlight at the fashion shows sponsored by the New York Dress Institute here today.

And from where we sit it looks as though little Miss Teen-Timer is in for some knockout new clothes this fall. She's not going to care for a thing she has in her wardrobe from last year. Not after she sees what junior dress creators have cooked up for her.

These designers, representing 12 manufacturing houses, have taken their cue from adult fashion trends and created junior miss styles with longer skirts, rounded shoulders and hiplines. But they've peppered up their collections with extravagant use of Scotch plaids, festive red, blue and green woolens and gaily-striped jerseys. Blacks are almost always brightened up with velveteen collars and cuffs or combined with a fashion color.

One particular ensemble that will win the heart of the college girl is a black velveteen peasant skirt and red striped cotton blouse with matching velveteen quilted top coat, lined with the same candy stick cotton.

Tiny Waist Emphasized

The Junior Miss, with her tiny waistline, has the ideal figure for the new fall fashions. Designers have accentuated her natural charms by tosing in a lot of jaunty cummerbunds and giving most of her clothes a wrapped look at the waist. From these the skirts billow and whirl in everything from classroom woolens to adorable ankle-length dance frocks.

Exception to the rule was the middy-blouse costume, a relic from the Sloppy Joe craze and reminiscent of the 1920's. Lots of youngsters like this fashion, however, and designers offer a pretty, brown jersey middy-type blouse, with knife-pleated checked skirt. All of the clothes look young and sure—just like the junior miss who will wear them.

For Small Women, Too

But the young set didn't have the show all to themselves. Commentator Evelyn Hayes, executive director of the institute, stressed the fact that junior clothes are often the answer to the small woman's fashion problem, whatever her age.

"Many older women buy in the misses' department when they should go to the junior," Miss Hayes pointed out. "For this mistake they pay heavily for alterations."

Junior dress designers showed yesterday that tiny women won't go wrong in buying junior fashions. Half the clothes displayed were sophisticated and in high fashion, good for women of 30 and 35. All were geared to measurement of those under 5 feet 4 inches.

For the "size" group, they introduced side drapes or panels, deep underarm long sleeves or gave different treatment to neck and waistline. Subtle touches here and there separated these from the "age" group, or clothes designed primarily for the girlish, teen-age figure.

Town Talk—

By Eva Hinton

IN THEIR cool, green, Georgetown garden Mr. and Mrs. Hugh S. Cumming, jr., said goodby to a few friends the other afternoon over frosty drinks. Mr. Cumming is to be Counselor at the American Legation in Sweden and he and Mrs. Cumming are off the end of the month. Mrs. Cumming is looking forward to the new post because everyone who has been there tells her how fascinating it is and Mr. Cumming is keen about it because he has been there on various missions at all seasons of the year and found it delightful.

"One thing I'll love," quipped the new Counselor, "is telling all my favorite old stories to new ears. And I'm going to tell that one about you crossing the Andes in a straw hat, carrying an umbrella and a suitcase," he concluded, turning to a journalist guest.

He referred to the time when as special secretary to Secretary of State Cordell Hull, he crossed the Andes with Mr. and Mrs. Hull and a party. The trek was made partly by foot, partly by boat and partly by an ancient Ford that had to be hauled back on the road from time to time by bullocks.

Wishing the Cummings bon voyage were the Minister of Sweden and Mme. Eriksson, the Counselor of the Swedish Legation Alexis de Aminoff and his amusing wife, and H. Freeman Matthews, the newly appointed American Minister to Stockholm.

ASSISTANT British Naval Attache, F. G. S. Bowring and Charles Evans gave a cocktail party to celebrate their promotion. They are now captains. Arthur Gardner lent them his spacious house for the party, and an obliging thunder shower cooled the air and then cleared away in time to make the terrace usable.

Admiral John Towers was with his attractive auburn-haired wife. Capt. Pierre Lancelot, the French Naval Attache, was asked if the "Le Terrible" in small gold letters on his fourragere, meant himself or his ship. (Captain Lancelot fought the British at Dakar, later joined them, and was decorated by Lord Louis Mountbatten.)

Group Capt. R. J. Legg, the British Air Attache, was introducing his successor, Group Captain Jonas, who didn't need much introduction as he served a term here with the Joint Chiefs of Staff toward the end of the war and is happy to be in Washington again.

Mrs. P. W. W. Wootten, wife of the British Naval Attache didn't seem to appreciate the coolness of our Washington weather because she'd just come down from Maine and is heading back there as soon as possible.

Mrs. Carroll Morgan wore the prettiest dress at the party, a very plain, fitted dinner-gown of pale blue linen that just matched her eyes.

Round of Parties Planned for Vinsons On Newport Visit

Chief Justice and Mrs. Fred Vinson, who arrived yesterday in Newport to be the guests of Mrs. George Mesta for several days, will be honored at a dinner Monday evening to be given by Admiral Raymond A. Spruance, president of the Naval War College, and Mrs. Spruance.

Other parties on the calendar for the Chief Justice and his wife are a cocktail party tomorrow at which Mrs. James Laurens Van Alen will be hostess; a dinner this evening by Mrs. Mesta, a luncheon today by Mrs. C. Ledyard Blair, followed by a cocktail party by Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth Wickes.

Joining the Washington colony at the Rhode Island summer social capital are Justice and Mrs. Stanley Reed, who are occupying a cottage leased from Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Washington Frazer, now in their new house, High Tide.

Platts Leave Today

Capt. and Mrs. C. Benedict Platt of Chevy Chase are leaving today for the White Mountains and Cape Cod. They will return the middle of August.

Margaret Adams Will Be Married

Mrs. Walter Eugene Adams, Foxhall Village, announces the engagement of her daughter, Margaret Eugene, to George Leeman McClung of Indianapolis.

Miss Adams attended Western High School and George Washington University. Mr. McClung, son of Dr. and Mrs. Marshall L. McClung, formerly of Washington, was graduated from Western High School, served as a lieutenant in the Army and saw service in Japan. He has now returned to his studies at the University of Pennsylvania.

Radio Baffles Metro

'The Hucksters' Is Too Innocent

By Richard L. Coe

IN "THE HUCKSTERS" the Sleepy Giant of the Arts lectures the Chattering Magpie of Science on how to behave in public. When it sticks to this idea of the movies telling off radio, the Palace's new film is deliciously ironic.

Expensively scrubbed for the movie public, Frederic Wakeman's widely-read yarn now has a surprising quality of childlike innocence. When it is spoofing radio commercials and that titan of eccentric sponsors, Evan Llewellyn Evans, or when it is solemnly telling radio to mend its airways else the public will snap it off, as it does in a boyishly sincere letter dictated by Clark Gable, it is extremely—and often unconsciously—funny. It has the aplomb of a child telling a story he doesn't quite understand, but which he suspects is pretty good.

You feel this because the film insists on subordinating the satire, which was the essential of the book, to True Love and its purgative effect on our base natures. True, the book is no unalterable classic and it ran downhill after its broadsides against radio were spent, but in adapting it for the screen, Metro has loaded it down with the very thing which makes one most despair about movies in general, Romance.

And speaking of generals, a dead one becomes a deus ex machina whereby Wakeman's naughty original has been made fit for the picture-going masses. The cool society lady, whose hotel room dalliance while her colonel husband was overseas served as romance in the book, is now the widow of a general. And the hero's status is improved in the film by making him a former Army captain, not just a slovenly OWI man. It's a completely minor point, but that these switches have been made gives a subtle idea of that childlike zeal in which the film wades.

"THE HUCKSTERS." M-G-M release produced by Arthur Hornblow, jr. Directed by Jack Conway. Screenplay by Luther Davis from the adaptation by Edward Chodorov and George Wells of the novel by Frederic Wakeman. Song, "Don't Tell Me" by Buddy Pepper. At the Palace.

Knows All the Angles

Vic Norman, self-assured and charming, knows how to get a high-salaried job while seeming not to want it. He impresses the advertising firm of Kimberley and Michaelson by pleasing the demanding oddity who heads Beautee Soap. He's fed to the teeth with radio and its petty ways, but he knows how to write a good ad ("Love That Soap"), how to tie down an actor's agent even if it means blackmail, how to write a comedy sketch that will make the Hooper grade and all the frenzied tricks of Getting Ahead.

That he has to do all this while awakening at the tender age of, say, 40, to the glories of hearthsides and kiddies, places a tough chore on the broad Gable shoulders. Gable handles the part wth cocky zest and it's good to have him back. While he's been off the screen since the ill-fated "Adventure," he's hardly ever off it in "The Hucksters."

All the casting is first-rate. Sydney Greenstreet has the richest part in his long career as Evans, who throws his hat out the window, spits on a mahogany table or takes out his upper set and says, "Get your teeth into it. See what I mean?" This is certainly the richest role in the film and when he's off the screen so is much of the film's vitality.

A Welcome to Miss Kerr

The other jackdaws of radio and its allied powers include Edward Arnold, as the hard, self-made agent; Adolphe Menjou as the pathetic Kimberly who climbed to the top on an old friend's neck; Ava Gardner, immensely effective as a mere $250 a week chanteuse who would become a $1500 per broadcast voice, and Keenan Wynn, superbly funny as the burlesque ham who almost gets his network program.

As the patrician widow, Deborah Kerr makes her first appearance before the Hollywood cameras. She has a cool and lovely charm which almost makes you swallow the absurdity of the romance which includes, by the way, a round-trip flight to the Coast for a few hours with Gable. Quite an expenditure, we thought, for a war widow who says she needs money even though she lives in the squalor of Sutton pl.

So there you are. "The Hucksters" is often fun and certainly has more to recommend it than many of its sleazy fellows. But what we'll always remember about it is its naive and wide-eyed innocence about its simple-minded, horrid little cousin, radio.

TODAY: This morning is one of those Children's Matinee days in four Warner houses: "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," at the Kennedy; "Anne of Green Gables" at the Calvert; "Little Miss Marker," at the Avalon and "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" at the Beverly . . . This is the gala night Clark Griffith turns over his stadium for the massive music and dance festival sponsored by the local guild of the National Negro Opera Co. Boyd Raeburn's Band Displays Some Juicy Orchestrations

Although Barry Fitzgerald is starring on the screen in a little number titled "Easy Come, Easy Go," the Capitol's claim to attention this week is as a concert hawl.

Barry Fitzgerald

Boyd Raeburn's orchestra, in short, is the stickum on the flypaper. Raeburn has been making a name for himself by complex orchestrations, tossing such long-hair instruments as an oboe, English horn, harp and French horns in with saxes, trumpets and clarinet.

The effect is mildly startling, giving the listener a juicy choice for his concentration. One listens to whichever instrument one prefers at a particular beat. It's larger than most stage bands and patently skilled in getting at the problem of the moment.

(A member of The Post art department has just breathed down our neck that Raeburn's boys are really the greatest thing that's happened to music since the invention of the drum, or some such paean. Since he's a strong, healthy lad despite punctured ear drums, we pass along his ecstatic enthusiasm.)

Anyway, it's quite a band, highlighting "Scheherazade" and "Temptation." Songstress Ginnie Powell is on hand for several numbers, including a few new notes for Gershwin's "Summertime" in the full spirit of lily-gilding.

Monologuist Don Cummings takes over for 10 minutes of chatter and rope twirling, at his best in foreseeing some of the results of television. Jay Johnson, Buddy DeFranco and Pann Merryman are some of Raeburn's other specialists.

Paramount tried hard (we presume), but not hard enough to make movie material of John McNulty's New Yorker yarns about Third Avenue. It's thin enough to make you feel sorry for Barry Fitzgerald, an actor of rare skill.

He plays a boarding-house keeper who can't keep his mind off the ponies or his person away from the local bookies. Diana Lynn, playing his daughter; Sonny Tufts, acting her boy friend, and Dick Foran, as the cop on the beat, supply the inevitable romantic triangle. All three seem to sense they're treading in shallow water.

"EASY COME, EASY GO." Paramount release produced by Kenneth Macgowan. Directed by John Farrow. Screenplay by Francis E. Faragoh, Anne Froelick and John McNulty, based on magazine sketches by McNulty. At the Capitol.

Learned About Rockets In the Roller Coaster

New York.—There was a night in Stockholm when I met a high-ranking intelligence officer whose mission it was to check on the mysterious rockets which then were being reported over Sweden. We had dinner and walked, but he said nothing of his mission . . . Then we went to Tivoli, the local Steeplechase Park. And there, alone in the car of a roller-coaster looping over Stockholm, where none could overhear, he told me what he knew about the rockets.

Ivy Litvinoff

Some years ago, in preparation for a trip to Mexico, I invited 24 people to write guest columns for me. Most of them were professional writers and newspapermen. All the guest columns except one were either too long or too short. The only column which fitted the space exactly was Ivy Litvinoff's. I asked Mrs. Litvinoff, whose husband then was the Soviet Ambassador to Washington, how she managed to write a column of perfect length . . . Mrs. Litvinoff turned to her husband and said, "Tell him." The Ambassador confided that he carefully had counted every single word in a published column of mine and measured the space in this way.

The temporary Orson Welles-Rita Hayworth reconciliation last year disappointed one Hollywood columnist who looked upon their marriage with disfavor. She dislikes Welles and mentions his name only if the story is unfavorable . . . Shortly after the reconciliation Welles flew to New York on a business trip, and phoned me. I asked him to join me at the Stork Club. There Welles saw the Hollywood columnist and was distressed. His anxiety was relieved only after I drew an affidavit attesting to the fact that I had invited him, that there were no ladies at our table, and that we were drinking only coffee. This affidavit was signed, witnessed by a headwaiter, sworn before and sealed by a notary public, and then was mailed to Rita Hayworth Welles.

Stocks Rally By Groups as Sales Decline

New York, July 18 (AP).—The stock market rallied selectively today, but many leaders continued to inhabit the losing division. Dealings were the slowest of the past three weeks.

Mild irregularity persisted until the final hour when short covering and timid investment demand reduced early declines and put assorted oils, motors, rails and special issues up fractions to 2 or more points. There were a few jumps of around 5. The close was no worse than moderately irregular. Transfers of 920,000 shares compared with 1,110,000 the day before and were a low since June 30.

Buying was predicated partly on the idea that, after this week's rest at generally easier levels, the list was in shape to resume the advance. The tax veto and the subsequent action of Congress was thought to have been pretty well discounted marketwise. Accounts were again trimmed on the belief that the week's upswing called for more of a technical correction. Doubts regarding international affairs and business persisted as a restraining influence. Good dividends and earnings brought only slight response from stocks concerned. The sharpest drop in the short interest, as of July 15, since June, 1946, was revealed after the close.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .2 of a point at 67.2 after three successive declines. It was the narrowest market since July 10.

Armour preferred and prior preferred were the day's wide climbers. The former was up 5 points at 182 and the latter 3½ at 126 as plans were announced for redeeming the former and paying off arrears on the latter. General Electric was up only ½ on record peacetime earnings. Increased and extra dividends lifted Lowenstein 1½ to 26¾, Bayuk Cigars ¼ to 23 and Alex Smith Carpet ⅛ to 36⅞.

At 1947 peaks were Texas Co., up 2 at 67; Standard Oil (N. J.), 1¼ at 78; Pure Oil, 1⅛ at 28⅜, and Continental Oil, ⅞ at 46.

San Marino Sore At Being Left Out Of Economic Talks

San Marino, Italy, July 18.—The little republic of San Marino is miffed because it was not invited to take part in the current talks on the Marshall plan, its secretary for foreign affairs, Gino Giacomini, disclosed today. The republic has half the area and less than one-tenth of the population of Staten Island.

"We are an independent country and we want to be treated that way," the foreign relations officer of the 15,000 San Marinese asserted indignantly. "We do not want to be left out of any agreements. We want the benefits and a voice in all of them."

Giacomini took occasion to deny the published reports that San Marino has asked membership in the United Nations. He said the republic has put out "feelers" to Trygve Le and to the United States Senate and State Department to find out how San Marino's membership application would be treated.

President Snips Tale He Is About To Grow Beard

By The Associated Press

President Truman has no intention of growing a beard.

The President, looking like he had just stepped out of a barber's chair, assured his news conference of that Thursday.

The question came up when he was asked about reports that, as an honorary member of the Sant-Cali-Gon Whiskers Club of his home town of Independence, Mo., he is liable to a $3.25 fine for not raising a beard.

Club members are preparing for an Old Trails celebration in September and are threatening to levy the fine against Honorary Member Truman unless he lets his whiskers grow.

The President said it was all news to him and he would have to face it when it comes.

Russian Church Leader Greeted at N. Y. Field

New York, July 18 (AP).—Metropolitan Gregory, a leader in the Russian Orthodox Church in Moscow, arrived at LaGuardia Field Thursday.

He was greeted by dignitaries of the Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Church of North America who said the 77-year-old metropolitan, known as the "Flying Metropolitan," was en route to San Francisco to complete arrangements with Metropolitan Theophilus of that city for setting up the autonomy of the Eastern churches in the United States.

Romanians Urge Premier to Ban Peasant Party

The premier and his Communist ministers addressed the crowd with promises that justice would "pursue its course" and "the people will receive satisfaction."

Skipper Fined $3000 On Smuggling Charge

Bremen, July 18 (AP).—A United States military court announced today that it had fined the captain of an American freighter $3000 for trying to smuggle 75 cartons of cigarettes into Germany to barter them for diamonds.

J. A. Teston of New Orleans, master of the Topa-Topa, was given the choice of paying the fine or serving 18 months in jail.

VA Hospital Site In W. Va. Favored

By The Associated Press

Bills to acquire land near Clarksburg, W. Va., for a veterans hospital won approval of the House and of a Senate committee yesterday.

The companion measures, offered by Senator Kilgore (D., W. Va.) and Representative Rohrbough (R., W. Va.), are designed to clear a legal technicality in the acquisition of the land known as the Maxwell estate. The tract is larger than needed for the site, and the Veterans Administration would be authorized to lease a part to Clarksburg for a park.

The Senate bill was approved by the Senate Labor Committee.

Postlude

Jagel Fine, His Program 'Threadbare'

From Yesterday's Late Editions

Gluck-Mottl: Ballet Suite; Haydn: Symphony No. 104; Barlow: Sarabande; Rufty - Bales: Hobby - on - the - Green; Strauss: Telegraph Meisages; Rossini: La Gazza Ladra Overture. Arias and songs by Verdi Leoncavello, Lehar, Youmans and Speaks. National Symphony Orchestra, Richard Bales, conductor; Frederick Jagel, tenor. Thursday evening, Watergate.

By Paul Hume

Singing as it should be sung was the order of the evening when Frederick Jagel of the Metropolitan made his bow at the Watergate yesterday.

For 20 years one of the finest musicians of the American opera stage, Jagel demonstrated superlative singing, even though little that he sang was worthy of attention. Flawless diction, perfect style, and beautiful vocal control were only the obvious signs of his artistic work.

It is a shame that a singer with his ability to sing Bach and classic opera roles should be confined to the most threadbare arias, not to mention ballads of the lowest caliber. But is must be said that Jagel is a singer to do credit to anything he sings.

Most commendable moment of the evening, if not of the entire series thus far, was the D Minor Symphony of Haydn, last of his 104. Delicately phrased, well paced, and played with precise affection, the work stood out as a candle beaming brightly in a world of less musical deeds.

Wayne Barlow's Sarabande is one of the most polished and successful short American works of our acquaintance, and its presence on the program was a notable success. The usual pastiche of folksy flotsam wound things up neatly, though the lively reading of Rossini's Thieving Magpie was, shall we say, maculate.

And so we look to Gladys Swarthout, last of the singers to appear at the Watergate this season, to redeem the honor of the vocal profession by voicing something worthy of her art. So far the singers have, with the sole exception of Todd Duncan, rather disgraced their calling as far as repertoire is concerned.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES!

EDUCATION • As a student nurse, you attend classes, just as you would at college, and for experience, you work short, supervised periods with patients. After only three years in a hospital school of nursing, you can become a member of this proud profession—ready to serve—prepared to earn. If you prefer, you can attend a university school where you will graduate with a Bachelor of Science degree as well as your RN.

While you learn, you live in a comfortable dormitory with other girls your own age. You have sports and recreation, time off every week, occasional week ends, and a vacation each year. Your health is supervised while you study.

CAREER • Nursing is a proud profession with ever-growing opportunities for graduate nurses—with higher pay and better hours. After graduation you may choose between staff or private duty nursing in a fine hospital. You may work in industry, psychiatry, child or public health, Veterans' Administration, U. S. Public Health Service, Army or Navy. You can marry and retire—and then return to nursing, if you wish. One of the great advantages of being a nurse is that a well-prepared nurse has so many fields open to her.

HOW TO FIND OUT MORE • If you are under 35 and are a high school graduate, or have had some college training, you may be eligible to enter nursing school this fall. Because many hospitals provide room and board, sometimes even uniforms and text books free, even a modern scientific nursing education costs you surprisingly little. Scholarships are often available.

Go or write today to the hospital where you would like to enter nursing. A friendly adviser is waiting there to tell you more about a career in nursing and about the future it can offer to you. But hurry, because fall classes are filling up now.

Former service women—Wacs, Waves, Marines and Spars! If you qualify as a student nurse, your allowance under the G. I. Bill of Rights may cover your entire nursing education.

Nursing is a proud profession!

VA Hospital Site In W. Va. Favored

By The Associated Press

Bills to acquire land near Clarksburg, W. Va., for a veterans hospital won approval of the House and of a Senate committee yesterday.

The companion measures, offered by Senator Kilgore (D., W. Va.) and Representative Rohrbough (R., W. Va.), are designed to clear a legal technicality in the acquisition of the land known as the Maxwell estate. The tract is larger than needed for the site, and the Veterans Administration would be authorized to lease a part to Clarksburg for a park.

The Senate bill was approved by the Senate Labor Committee.

Postlude

From Yesterday's Late Editions

By Paul Hume

Singing as it should be sung was the order of the evening when Frederick Jagel of the Metropolitan made his bow at the Watergate yesterday.

For 20 years one of the finest musicians of the American opera stage, Jagel demonstrated superlative singing, even though little that he sang was worthy of attention. Flawless diction, perfect style, and beautiful vocal control were only the obvious signs of his artistic work.

It is a shame that a singer with his ability to sing Bach and classic opera roles should be confined to the most threadbare arias, not to mention ballads of the lowest caliber. But is must be said that Jagel is a singer to do credit to anything he sings.

Surrounding the soloist, Richard Bales and the orchestra gave luster to Felix Motti's arrangement of Gluck airs, in which Wallace Mann again performed superbly on his flute.

Most commendable moment of the evening, if not of the entire series thus far, was the D Minor Symphony of Haydn, last of his 104. Delicately phrased, well paced, and played with precise affection, the work stood out as a candle beaming brightly in a world of less musical deeds.

Wayne Barlow's Sarabande is one of the most polished and successful short American works of our acquaintance, and its presence on the program was a notable success. The usual pastiche of folksy flotsam wound things up neatly, though the lively reading of Rossini's Thieving Magpie was, shall we say, maculate.

And so we look to Gladys Swarthout, last of the singers to appear at the Watergate this season, to redeem the honor of the vocal profession by voicing something worthy of her art. So far the singers have, with the sole exception of Todd Duncan, rather disgraced their calling as far as repertoire is concerned.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

In Which a Sergeant Is Given a Perfect Answer

CHICAGO TYPEWRITER

Mrs. H. E. Houston, of 5022 Baltimore ave., Green Acres, Md., passes along this story which she heard an Army captain tell at the Columbia Country Club.

One day the captain's men were assigned to the cleaning of a stock of automatic weapons—which means the guns had to be torn down, cleaned, and then reassembled.

It was slow work for the entire detail except one private who zipped through his chores in nothing flat. The sergeant who was bossing the job soon developed a natural curiosity.

"Private," he asked, "where'd you learn to handle machine guns so skillfully?"

"In Chicago, sergeant," was the gruff reply, "and I don't think the details are any of your blankety blank business."

GOOD NEIGHBORS

Mrs. Harold Hissong, of 5810 Quebec st., Berwyn Heights, Md., thinks we ought to say something nice about the manager of Kann's basement cafeteria.

Mrs. Hissong and some friends went to Kann's cafeteria for lunch recently. After selecting her meal, and taking it to a table, one of the ladies accidentally upset her tray.

The manager arrived on the scene before the dishes had stopped bouncing, and helped clean up the mess. Then he went back into the kitchen and brought the flustered lady a brand-new lunch — compliments of Kann's.

Mrs. Hissong (who seems to be a pretty good scout herself) thinks that a neighborly act like this shouldn't go unnoticed.

MAIL BAG

Mrs. E. W. Herman, of 5429 Connecticut ave. nw., writes:

"Some weeks ago you wrote about a gentleman who collected men's ties for the old folks at Blue Plains. I've mislaid the item, and have a box of ties to forward to him. Can you give me his name? Thanks."

Sure. His name is Francis S. Browne, and he lives at 1501 Farragut st. nw.

STREET SCENE

Fire fighters rushing back into Thompson's kitchen . . . hoses stretched through the length of the restaurant . . . much hustle and bustle, screaming of sirens and ringing of bells . . . and customers calmly picking their way over the hoses to get to the counter and order a meal.

DESIGN FOR LIVING

The players are all prominent officials in Prince Georges County. Most of them are in their forties or fifties—but all except one of them have already been ordered by their doctors to stop smoking and drinking.

THAT POLICE EXPOSE

EATING ON THE RUN

Washington will soon have a new food emporium in which you won't be able to eat a bite.

It will operate like Virginia's State Liquor Stores. Packaged goods will be sold for consumption off the premises only.

Backers are eying a location in the heart of the city's financial and office district, where office workers are constantly sending out for "a sandwich and a coke."

DAY DREAM

It's weather like this that makes me wish I were a butcher's helper, assigned to take inventory in the ice box.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

The Bridge Deck

By Florence Osborn

Howard Elliot writes of today's hand which was played on a train. He was doubled at one heart and went down seven.

Today's Hand

East-West Vulnerable
EAST DEALER

	♠ Q J 10 5 3 ♡ 2 ◇ J 7 4 ♣ 8 7 5 4
♠ 4 ♡ A K J 10 8 ◇ 10 3 ♣ Q J 9 6 3	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	LANSING ♠ A K 8 6 ♡ 6 4 3 ◇ A K Q 8 ♣ None
	ELIOTT ♠ 9 7 2 ♡ Q 9 7 5 ◇ 9 5 ♣ A K 10 2

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ◇	1 ♡	Dble	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: 10 ◇.

It may be noted, however, that a 1300-point set is actually better than a vulnerable grand slam. This can be made by taking two heart finesses against Eliott's Queen.

Ambrose Lansing, took a long time before passing after the double, but was more pleased as play progressed.

The save is better than even a small slam at either diamonds or hearts, which is a more reasonable try from the standpoint of the opponents. The small-slam bonus of 750 points, 100 points for heart honors, 210 trick score and 700 points for rubber total 1760 points if the adversaries play at six hearts. They will win 1590 points at six diamonds.

"Against one heart," Mr. Elliott writes. "West opens the ten of diamonds. East wins the queen and continues the suit. On the third lead South ruffs and West overruffs playing back the club queen. As he prepares to play the ace on this trick, South says. 'At least I'll take one trick,' but East trumps and sends back a heart so that West can pick up all of South's hearts.

Answering mail

It is a joy to correspond . . . With all the friends who write . . . And tell them everything within . . . My hearing and my sight . . . To keep them posted properly . . . On what is old and new . . . And whether in my neighborhood . . . The sky is gray or blue . . . And that is what I undertake . . . To have my letters say . . . Each time a card or envelope . . . Contributes to my day . . . But there are some who only write . . . When they are needing aid . . . Or when they get to wondering . . . What progress I have made . . . And when their selfish nature is . . . Presented in that light . . . It follows naturally that I . . . Am not inclined to write.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Congressman Cox Still Nepotism Champion

By Drew Pearson

Congressman Gene Cox of Georgia still is popular with his colleagues, especially Republicans; but, around the House of Representatives cloakroom, it is whispered that Gene is slipping. He hasn't quite as many relatives on the payroll as before.

Cox

But the Congressman from Georgia still probably tops the nepotism list in the Nation's Capital. Here are some of the relatives receiving salaries at the expense of the taxpayer through the benefit of "Goober" Cox:

Lamar P. Cox, son, runs his father's office. Salary—$7,022.40.

Mrs. Rosa Robinson, sister, is listed as a clerk in the Congressman's office, though she doesn't come near Washington. Her checks are mailed to her at Camilla, Ga., the Cox family's home town. Salary—$3,185,16.

Mrs. Jim Lou Cox Hoggard, sister, Postmistress at Camilla, Ga. Salary—$3,600.

Charles M. Cox, nephew, Executive Assistant to the Assistant Production Administrator for the Agriculture Department. In fairness, it should be noted that he began as a clerk and worked his way up, officials say, without his uncle's assistance. Salary—$7,100.

Behind Greek Revolt

According to the diplomatic grapevine from Athens, the so-called Communist uprisings inside Greece were carefully timed—not by the Communists, but by the Tsaldaris-Maximos government—to coincide with the departure of Governor Dwight Griswold, Greek aid administrator for Athens.

The Greek government's motive is to convince Griswold that the Tsaldaris-Maximos regime is essential to the security of the country and must remain in power.

Actually, what happened was that the EAM or so-called Communist group was holding conferences with Professor Alexander Svolos of Athens University just a few days ago with a view to a political compromise by which they could resume participation in Greek political affairs under United States protection, when suddenly, about 4000 of them were arrested.

United States diplomats are pretty well convinced that there can be no political stability in Greece and no success for the American aid program if the present reactionary Greek regime remains in power. Even patient Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh is reported to have come to this conclusion. To counteract this, Tsaldaris is doing his best to convince Governor Griswold that there would only be more chaos if the present Greek government resigned.

Note—Greek internal troubles should be distinguished from Greek border warfare, which is more likely to be Russian-inspired. Unquestionably, Soviet policy is to make things as hot as possible for the United States along the Albanian, Yugoslav and Bulgarian borders.

GOP Minimum Wage

Immediately after Congress passed the Taft-Hartley labor law, Republican Senate leaders decided to appease unorganized labor by pushing a new minimum-wage increase from 40 to 60 cents an hour. They figured this would restore the party with several million workers who don't have the protection of high union wages.

However, GOP Senators reckoned without some of their fellow-Republicans in the House, especially Missouri's Max Schwabe. At a closed meeting of the House Republican Steering Committee, the big, farm-bred Congressman rode roughshod over the GOP leadership and the proposed minimum-wage increase.

Majority leader Charlie Halleck had invited all Republican members of the Education and Labor Committee to sit in with the Steering Committee and eleven showed up. Their vote was six to five against a higher minimum wage. Afterward, Schwabe admitted working "night and day" to convert his fellow Republicans.

"All a minimum wage increase will do," Schwabe argued behind closed doors, "is to sentence those in the lower-income brackets to unemployment and poverty during the next economic slump. The bill would raise wages all along the line. And you cannot disassociate wages from prices."

With this Wisconsin's genial Charles Kersten did not agree.

"An increase in the minimum wage does not mean billiard-balling wages all the way to the top," he declared. "It is a social principle which applies only to the lower brackets. The upper brackets do not need a minimum wage, so there is no reason why this bill should affect their salaries."

Speaking for the Republican leadership, Indiana's Halleck contended that the principle of a minimum wage had been established in the original 1938 bill.

But he made no impression on Schwabe, who pooh-poohed the idea that the bill would be a good political move after the tough Taft-Hartley bill.

Cheltenham School Reforms Pressed on Several Fronts

Action for improvement of conditions at the Cheltenham (Md.) School for Boys was pressed on several fronts yesterday.

Thomas B. Sprague, chairman of the board of managers of the State training school for Negro boys, said in Baltimore that:

1. School staff officials are making plumbing repairs under existing funds "as rapidly as possible."

2. Chief State Engineer John Funk and Walter Kirkman, State budget and procurement director, will begin a survey of other needed repairs "the first of next week."

3. The board will meet Monday at 2:30 p. m. in Baltimore to consider possible disciplinary action against staff members of the Prince Georges County institution.

4. The board will interview George Crawford of Westminster, Md., for the position of superintendent during the Monday meeting. Four other applicants already have been interviewed. Sprague said the new superintendent would be named "in all probability" at a board meeting August 5.

In reply to a query on how the $72,000 general repair and maintenance fund of the fiscal year was spent, Sprague declared the amount was used for repairs between January 1, 1946, and April, 1947, and that no funds remained for present needs.

Greeks Crossed Border July 13, Bulgaria Reports

Sofia, Bulgaria, July 18 (AP).—Official sources said today 200 Greek regular troops penetrated Bulgarian territory on July 13 southeast of the town of Swilengrad near the Greek-Bulgarian-Turkish border.

The first group of Greek soldiers was followed by a second contingent of 60 and a third numbering about 30. All three fired at Bulgarian guards of a frontier post, the official sources said.

They said the first 200 Greeks advanced into Bulgaria about a mile and kidnaped Peter Angelov, a Bulgarian civilian, before returning to Greek territory.

Legion Asks Smith's Help

American Legion officials from Virginia's Eighth District met with Representative Howard W. Smith (D., Va.) yesterday to ask his aid for two resolutions passed at the district Legion convention in Alexandria last month.

The resolutions were (1) establishment of a veterans' hospital in northern Virginia and (2) prompt passage of a universal military training act.

Smith told the group he favored the construction of a hospital in this area. But he reiterated his objection to the Government's proposal to build on the Nevius tract in Arlington.

He said there were other more desirable sites in the vicinity than the 25-acre tract for which the Government has offered $850,000. He considered the closeness of the Nevius site to the Arlington National Cemetery as bad for the morale of patients.

The Congressman said he favored a universal military training act. He promised, as a member of the House Rules Committee, to vote out to the House floor any such bill which came before it.

C. & O. Canal Barge Trips To Be Resumed This Weekend

The break which developed May 28 has been repaired, and water is again flowing in the canal below Lock 5, Superintendent of Parks Irving C. Root announced yesterday.

Due to construction of the K street overpass, however, the trips will stop at Foundry Branch, instead of Georgetown, he said.

Two one-way trips will be made from Lock 6 to Foundry Branch today, leaving Lock 6 at 2 p. m. and returned at 4:30 p. m. Tomorrow there will be four one-way trips, leaving Lock 6 at 9 a. m. and 2 p. m. and returning from Foundry Branch at 11:30 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

Other events scheduled by the National Capital Parks for this weekend include an all-day auto caravan to Catoctin Park, Md., a camera stroll at Annapolis, Md., a cultivated-tree walk in Lafayette Park and a nature ramble in Rock Creek Park.

Special charter buses will leave 1416 F st. nw. at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow for the trip to Catoctin Park in the mountains of Thurmont, Md.

The camera stroll will begin at the main gate of the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Persons without private transportation may travel by Greyhound Bus, leaving 11th st. and New York ave. at 8:30 a. m.

The nature ramble will be held in Rock Creek Park from 3 to 5 p. m. tomorrow. Ranger-Naturalist James Fowler will meet the group at 16th and Whittier sts. nw.

Cultivated trees in Lafayette Park will be studied during a walk from 3 to 5 p. m. today under direction of Park Naturalist Gordon Gaumnitz. Participants will assemble at the Jackson Statue in the center of the park.

A campfire program will be presented in Rock Creek Park at 8:30 p. m. today at a site near 16th st. and Colorado ave. nw.

Fireman Punches Bear and Frees Boy, 3, From Grip

Chicago, July 18 (AP).—A city fireman punched a bear in the nose at the suburban Brookfield Zoo and thereby saved the life of 3-year-old Terry Lee Falk of Joliet, Ill.

Terry, visiting the zoo yesterday with his mother, Mrs. Amberta Falk, decided to feed the black bear some of his surplus popcorn. He clambered over the guard rail and across the intervening safety zone. The bear seized the child and pinned him to the cage with his huge, clawed paws.

Fireman Walter Troy, attracted by the child's screams, leaped the rail and began punching the bear's nose. When the animal relaxed its grip, Troy snatched Terry free.

HIGHEST POINT ON CHESAPEAKE BAY

ONLY 32 MILES FROM WASHINGTON

*OPERATING ON A COMMUNITY PLAN

THAT INSURES PERMANENCE AND NOT PROMISES.

*UNDER THIS PLAN APPROXIMATELY 300 LOTS HAVE BEEN SOLD IN THE PAST FEW WEEKS. IN ORDER TO ACCOMMODATE THE DEMAND FOR THESE LOTS—WE ARE NOW OPENING A NEW SECTION—WITHOUT ANY INCREASE IN PRICE!

THIS summer community is now undergoing a complete change. New streets are being graded and graveled, a new pier out into the Bay is under construction, and many other features are being added which will make Randle Cliffs Beach one of the outstanding waterfronts around Washington.

This property, with its high and healthful altitude, is completely free from marshes and stagnant water. The beach is hard, sandy and shaded, perfectly safe for children, yet a short distance out is good swimming. All water sports are available, including fine fishing and duck shooting.

PRICE PER LOT ONLY
$60 AND $75
TERMS 1/4 CASH

2 LOTS PER BUILDING SITE

TRULY AN OPPORTUNITY YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO MISS

Now as seldom before, you have the opportunity to start and plan a summer cottage within your means. We have only a limited number of selected lots with two to a site that can be purchased for a short time only at the advertised prices.

REMEMBER, TOO!

RANDLE CLIFFS BEACH is in the center of prominent Bay front developments and close to amusement centers, stores, restaurants and other classes of business. There are also churches and doctors nearby.
